

Course Syllabi Requested To Go Before Cabinet 9 Grad Students Draw State Welfare Salaries

All-University Cabinet tonight will consider a recommendation asking the Senate Committee on Academic Affairs to make syllabi outlines of the University's courses available to students.

Lawrence McCabe, the University coordinator of the National Student Association, will present the recommendation at the meeting, which will begin at 7 p.m. in 203 Hetzel Union.

The recommendation, part of a report of the NSA Educational Affairs Commission, cites a particular need for the syllabi in the period immediately before registration.

Asks 'General Outline'

McCabe said the report will request that the syllabi include a general outline of each course, describing its scope and listing the required textbooks.

The syllabi would supplement the University catalogue, which gives only a vague description of each course, he said.

Cabinet will also be asked to approve 15 appointees to the All-University Elections Committee and $525 in operating expenses for the committee.

Elections Budget

The committee's budget includes $360 for voting machines, $80 for publicity, $40 for meals missed by committee members, $15 for party cards, $10 for telephone expenses and $20 for "emergencies."

Publicity Director Asked

An executive committee recommendation will be presented authorizing the All-University president to appoint a public relations director to assist him and Cabinet in publicizing student government and Cabinet actions.

The recommendation is a substitute for a bill introduced Dec. 13 by Edward Long which would have created a Public Relations Standing Committee. The committee would have published a monthly newsletter, released a weekly summary of Cabinet actions and conducted numerous polls through a battery of subcommittees.

Progress reports will be presented by the chairmen of the Committee on Town Affairs and the Spring Week Committee.

Lion Committee Meets Tonight

The temporary Lion Party Steering Committee will meet at 7 tonight in 217 Willard to reorganize and to clarify the position of clique chairman.

The party clique will meet to organize at 7 p.m. Sunday in 121 Sparks. Byron LaVan, clique chairman, said that at that time he will ask for a suspension of the rules to permit John Godayte to serve as temporary clique chairman.

He indicated that Godayte, a senior in business administration from Clarks Summit, is now ineligible to serve as clique chairman under Lion Party rules because of his semester standing.

LaVan said Godayte may be either appointed or elected to the clique post if the rules suspension is approved. He said Godayte's appointment, which was announced last week, could not have become effective until after the suspension was voted.

Hebrew Courses Offered at Hillel

Isaac Ben-Shemuel will teach two courses in Hebrew tonight at the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation.

A course in Hebrew reading and writing will be given at 7 p.m., and a course in Hebrew conversation as spoken in Israel will be given at 8 p.m.

The courses, which are open to all students without charge or pre-registration, are being held for the first time tonight.

HALF-FINISHED, the new Bouche Building (pronounced boo-key) stands unnoticed by two passing students who have evidently gotten used to the contrast of expansive windows and sprawling scaffolding.

HUB TV Wire Gets 'Hot'; Students Flock to 'Blaze'

By DENNY MALICK

A "hot" wire on the Hetzel Union Building's television set last night caused a lot of confusion and commotion on campus. Fumes from a short circuit in the HUB's TV set prompted a student to place a call to Alpha Fire Company. Firemen responded at about 9:45 p.m. to extinguish the supposed fire believed to be in the University Post Office.

Firemen were stifled in attempts to enter the post office as no one, including the Campus Patrol, had a key to open the doors.

Neither of the two entrances were broken into because no flames were evident. The discovery was then made that a frayed wire in the TV set had caused all the "fire."

Along with the firemen came approximately 300 students from all parts of the campus and downtown area. Students milled around the building while coeds crowded to windows on the east side of McAllister Hall to observe the action. Traffic, halted by the campus policemen, was tied up on Pollock Road back to Burrows Road.

One student on the scene commented: "Gee, the HUB is on fire. No more chocolate ripple."

Grad Fellowships Renewed for 1957

The United States Steel Foundation Inc. and the Shell Oil Co. have renewed graduate student fellowships for the academic year beginning September 1957.

The U.S. Steel award, presented to the Department of Metallurgy for a two-year period, consists of $3000, half of which is paid to the student recipient and the rest reserved for additional fellowship and departmental costs.

The Shell fellowship, for the Departments of Chemistry and Chemical Engineering, provides $1500 for a graduate student, plus payment of non-exempt fees and $400 to cover research expenses.

The Mineral Industries Art Gallery, established in 1930, is the only one of its kind in the world.

Lion Prefers Cold to Froth

The Nittany Lion's sojourn outside his den was extremely brief this morning, because when he saw by his thermometer that continued cold was the order of the day, he raced back inside, never to reappear during the day.

Of course he had a copy of the newest Froth, which he considers to be every bit as funny as the "Congressional Record," but instead he decided to amuse himself in a more enjoyable and rewarding manner than laboriously reading through Froth's corn.

Continued fair and cold is expected for tomorrow with occasional snow flurries sometime during the day.

The low last night was forecast at 19 degrees and the high today at 33, according to the University weather station.

Nine University graduate students are enrolled at full state expense in a training program for developing specialists in the field of mental health.

State Auditor Gen. Charles R. Barber has requested Attorney Gen. Thomas D. McBride to pass on the legality of the little-known project of Secretary of Welfare Harry Shapiro, according to the Harrisburg Evening News.

Under the program, which affects 50 students at six Pennsylvania universities and colleges, the state pays the trainee's tuition giving a weekly salary ranging from $42 to $71.50 while attending college.

Work for Department

In return, after completing their course of study including part-time institutional services, each is expected to work for the Welfare Department, devoting a calendar year for each academic year subsidized by the state.

The weekly pay scale is stepped up uniformly over the four-year training period: $42 per week the first year, $56.25 the second year, $62 the third year and $71.50 the fourth year.

University trainees and their weekly "stipends" are Stephen Beltz, Jack Wilson, Bryna Levine and Anthony Loguidice, $62; Joseph Panza and Donald Whalen, $56.25; and Luther Robb, Thomas Williams and Thomas Scott, $42.

Postgraduate Courses

All the students are taking postgraduate courses for master's or doctor's degrees in such short-supply fields as psychology, occupational therapy and social work.

Barber said that in a letter to the attorney general Tuesday he called for a ruling on the question of "whether or not this is a proper expenditure under the intent of legislation" which appropriated the Welfare Department's budget for the current biennium.

Commenting on the move, Shapiro pointed out that Barber had cleared the payments for the first four months of the current academic year and questioned "why out of a clear sky he has decided to hold up these checks for January."

Shapiro stated that the auditor general had held up the payroll for five or six weeks in late September or early October, but after an interview with him that they worked everything out fine.

Conference Held

"Only Monday," Shapiro said, "he and department representatives conferred with Barber and two deputy attorney generals attending."

"He said he wanted an opinion from the attorney general that this was valid," Shapiro added. The welfare secretary emphasized that the program is bringing back to Pennsylvania students who would have gone to other states for training.

Shapiro stated that the postgraduate college students are required to sign a statement agreeing to repay the state for the preceding year's training salary if they fail to return the following year.

Counseling Date Tentatively Set By MI Group

The Mineral Industries Student Council last night set May 4 as the tentative date for its 1957 open house program, which will be a counseling day primarily directed to high school juniors and seniors.

The council plans to hold the event on a date coinciding with the Chem-Phys open house.

The counseling day program is aimed primarily at increasing enrollment in the Mineral Industries College.

Plans for conducting an evaluation program in the Mineral Industries College patterned after the recent liberal arts survey were referred to a committee for study.

The council will sponsor a coffee hour for freshmen students in petroleum engineering on March 27. The function will be sponsored jointly with the Petroleum Engineering Society, a student professional society. The location will be announced at a later date.

Election of MI Student Council officers will be held on March 19.
