

Library to Devote Room To Graphic, Plastic Arts

An art room, where books on the graphic and plastic arts will be available on open shelves, is expected to be completed and ready for use at the Pattee Library before the close of the spring semester.

Ralph W. McComb, librarian, explained that the room

Firecracker Suspension Overruled

The University Senate Subcommittee on Discipline has reversed a suspension recommendation against a freshman involved in a firecracker incident in Nittany area.

The subcommittee's decision to drop disciplinary action reverses the Association of Independent Men Judicial Board of Review which recommended suspension of the student from the University.

Case Dismissed

The Senate committee decided to dismiss the case due to "inconclusiveness of information." The group agreed that all evidence pointed to the student's involvement in the incident but they were reluctant to act on the inconclusive evidence.

The case involved a student being seen outside a counselor's window after the counselor discovered an unexploded firecracker on his window sill. The student, however, said he was outside to arouse a dormmate whose room is next to the counselor's.

Second Offense

The AIM board said the severity of their decision was based on the fact that it was a second offense for the student. He was formerly on office probation for breaking into the University skating rink and sleeping overnight.

Student Play To Be Given

"Where Do They Go," an original script by Susannah Newlin, senior in arts and letters from Tyrone, will be presented in 5 O'Clock Theatre today in the Little Theatre in Old Main.

The story concerns two children who learn about death, and who realize that when a person dies, he never comes back.

Included in the cast are Derek Swire, sophomore in arts and letters from Philadelphia; Fred; Irene Rothstein, freshman in arts and letters from Elkins Park; Maryanne the Doll; Jane Mort, junior in arts and letters from Harrisburg; Elise; and Floyd Santoro, sophomore in arts and letters from Johnstown, Dad.

George Cavey, graduate in theatre arts from Springfield, will direct.

Sittig Married Saturday

Miss Helen Sittig, formerly assistant dean of women at the University and dean of women at Westminster College, was married Saturday afternoon at the Westminster Presbyterian church, Youngstown, Ohio, to Glenn Nixon, an Omaha, Neb., merchant.

5 in DIR Named To Dean's List

Five students who were enrolled for the fall semester in the division of intermediate registration have been named to dean's list.

They are:

Frank C. Baird, senior in music education from Lemont, 3.80; Ross A. Davis, junior in business administration from Emmuas, 3.60; Harold L. Klahre, sophomore in general agriculture from Clearville, 3.61; Eleanor M. Mueller, sophomore in education from Philadelphia, 3.53; and Harold A. Thomson, junior in business administration from Malvern, 3.53.

Lion Attends Animal Meet

The Nittany Lion, umbrella in hand, emerged from a meeting of All-Animal Cabinet today and frowned as the water dripped from his nose.

The Cabinet meeting, called for the purpose of making wildlife government more effective and improving animal-student relations, was particularly unimpressive.

After numerous committee reports and long periods of haggling over trivial items, the various factions had compromised long enough to give out the news to the awaiting crowds that it was raining, and anyone who was standing outside was probably getting wet. With this accomplished, the meeting was adjourned.

Today should be cloudy and mild, with occasional rain. High is predicted at between 50 and 55.

THE MADWOMAN IS NEAR!

E Lit Prof to Begin Last Lecture Series

Dr. Bernard R. Jerman, assistant professor of English literature, will open the "Last Lecture Series" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Hetzel Union auditorium.

Dr. Jerman will speak on "Apple Pie, Coffee" at this first of a series of lectures by three University professors who may speak on any subject. The name, "Last Lecture Series," denotes that the professor will deliver the lecture as though it were to be his last.

Dr. Jerman received his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. from Ohio State University. He has written several articles on Melville and Disraeli based on manuscripts he found in England while doing research work there in 1949.

Taught at Kentucky

Before coming here to teach in 1952, Dr. Jerman taught at the University of Kentucky and Ohio State.

The "Last Lecture Series" is sponsored by Mortar Board, senior women's hat society. The idea for the series originated at the Mortar Board convention in the summer of 1955. The lectures were introduced to this campus last spring to arouse more cultural interest.

At that time Dr. Michael Chiappetta, assistant professor of education; Dr. Kent Forster, professor of European history, and Dr. Henry A. Finch, associate professor of philosophy delivered the lectures.

Other Lectures Planned

The second lecture of the series this semester will be given by Dr. Robert W. Green, assistant professor of history, on March 14. Dr. Albert Christ-Janer, director of the School of the Arts, will be the final speaker on March 28.

Cornell Professor To Talk to Grads

Dr. John W. McConnell, dean of the Graduate School at Cornell University, will present the second in the current series of Graduate School Lectures March 11.

The lecture by Dr. McConnell, who will speak on "The Older Worker in the American Economy," is scheduled for 8 p.m. in 10 Sparks. It will be co-sponsored by the College of Business Administration and will be open to the public.

is being organized to meet the needs of the School of the Arts, established at the University a year ago. The art room will be located to the east of the main entrance of the building.

Materials in theatre arts and in music, however, will continue to be located within those departments.

The new collection will consist largely of new materials and of books that had been located in the stacks of the Pattee Library as well as in other libraries on the campus, including the architectural reading room.

Volumes to be Moved

Some of these volumes that pertain directly to art will be moved to the new art room, which will make it possible to place greater emphasis on materials relating to architecture in the architectural reading room.

A design for the art room has been prepared by Christine F. Salmon, associate professor of home art, which will give the room a pleasant and informal atmosphere.

The plan also provides for display space where a limited number of paintings can be exhibited as well as sections where students and faculty can work in a comfortable atmosphere. An attendant will be on duty in the room.

Furniture Donated

A part of the room will be furnished with chairs and small tables of modern design which were given to the University by an Altoona furniture store. The furniture, valued at approximately $700, includes six upholstered chairs and three matching tables.

In addition to bringing together collections of prints, books and other materials in the arts, the room is expected to provide a central meeting place for students, faculty and others interested in the arts.

Tickets Available For EIWA Meet

Good seats for all sessions of the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association Tournament, March 15 and 16, are still available, according to Edward M. Czekaj, ticket manager.

Sales this past week have been exceptionally heavy, especially the sale of reserved seats, both individually and in series.

Tickets may be purchased daily from 8 a.m. to noon, and 1 to 5 p.m. at the ticket office, 249 Recreation Hall.

ICG to Meet Tonight

The university chapter of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government will meet at 7 tonight in 204 Willard.

Reports on judiciary, natural resources and taxation will be presented.
