A band, banners and a guest speaker will open this year's Nittany-Pollock area softball season on April 1.

Entries from dormitories in the area should be submitted by March 15 to the dean of men's office. Only one team may be entered by a dormitory and each entry must be accompanied by a $2.50 fee. Students who wish to compete must be listed by name on the entries.

Amy Bonner Collection On Display

A collection of the works of Amy Bonner is currently on display on the first floor of the Fred Lewis Pattee Library.

The collection includes not only poetry and reviews by Miss Bonner, but also letters and autographed manuscripts from well-known contemporary poets addressed personally to Miss Bonner.

Miss Bonner was born in 1891 in New York City, where she lived until her death in 1953. In addition to writing poetry, she also wrote for several New York newspapers, wrote book reviews, had her own weekly radio review program and arranged lecture series.

As a member of the Executive Board of the Poetry Society and through her work for the Poetry Magazine, Miss Bonner became acquainted with many authors and poets. In the display there are several autographed manuscripts from such poets as Robert Frost, Theodore Roethke, Dylan Thomas, Thomas Auslander, William C. Williams, George Dillon and Edna St. Vincent Millay.

In the exhibition there are many letters to Miss Bonner from Edgar Lee Masters, author of "The New World" and "More People."

Although Miss Bonner took great interest in the literary work of other contemporary poets, she also had published several poems from her own pen. Among her poems on display are "Revelations," "Poise," "Words," and "March."

The collection was given to the library by Mrs. Minna Bonner Hoffman, sister of Miss Bonner.

Do you collect Nebbishes? Or do you send them to your friends? Or possibly you don't know what a Nebbish is? It is the name given to some of the cleverest witticisms around today. You'll find them in the most unlikely places, decorating glasses, hiding in picture frames or splashed across greeting cards.

Ethel Meserve has a full selection of Nebbishes in every medium. The glasses are $6.75 for a set of eight, the framed ones are $1.75 and the cards are just a quarter. The weird sketches by Gardner and the cute sayings will suit every mood. Why not start a collection . . . they're irresistible.

The Wheel Goes Round

A new type of silent butler has arrived! and Ethel's has them for just 59c. It is a cardboard wheel, which when turned displays information concerning your wishes and whereabouts, like "Do Not Disturb," "At Library," "Please Wait, Will Be Right Back." This will prove, Oh so useful on your dormitory door. Special for bluebooks—"I Want to be Alone."

Drink, Drank, Drunk

Candles shaped like liquor bottles are the last word in lighting for a party room. "Sudden Discomfort" and "Old Overcoat, Wry Whiskey" are just two of the brands for sale at $2.50.

Come in and browse during your coffee breaks. The Nebbishes are beckoning!

TWO CAN LIVE AS CHEESILY AS ONE

Now in the final months of the school year, one thing is certain: you and your roommate are not speaking.

But it is not too late to patch things up. Examine the rift calmly. Search your soul with patience. Perhaps the fault is yours. Perhaps you are guilty of violating some of the basic rules of roommate etiquette.

For instance, in decorating your room, have you forced your preferences on your roommate without regard to his or her tastes? This is a common cause of friction. Indeed, it once happened to me back in my freshman year when I was sharing a room with a boy named Rimsky Sigafos who covered every inch of our wall with 850 pictures of James Dean.

"Rimsky," I said to him in gentle reproof, "please don't think me unduly, but I had hoped to put a picture of my fiancée Mary Beth Thermidor on the wall."

Rimsky examined the picture of my fiancée Mary Beth Thermidor. "You're kidding, of course," he said and dropped the picture in the wastebasket.

Well, that got my dander up, and I was mad as a wet hen till Rimsky gave me a Philip Morris Cigarette.

As we all know, there is nothing like a mild, natural, Philip Morris. Treats a man right. No filter, no foolin'! Anger melts and frowns become smiles with Philip Morris, all seems right in the world, and no man's hand is turned against you, nor yours against any man.

So, puffing a pacifying Philip Morris, I forgot all about Rimsky's slight to Mary Beth Thermidor. In fact, with her picture out of sight, I soon forgot all about Mary Beth Thermidor, too, and one night at the Freshman Frolic, spying a round young coed over in a corner, I came up to her and said with a fetching leer, "Excuse me, miss. We don't know each other, but I would like to rectify that sad omission." And she said, "Oh, you horrid, horrid youth! I am your fiancée Mary Beth Thermidor." With that she stomped furiously away, and though I tried to win her back with Philip Morrises, she was beyond recall. I, utterly shattered, signed on as a cabin boy with the Cunard Line and am today, aged 53, the oldest cabin boy on the North Atlantic run.

But I digress. We were talking about roommate etiquette. Let us turn now to the matter of share and share alike. Have you shared everything equally? Drawer space? Closet space? Study space? And here's one that often causes trouble—hobby space.

...it took two or three Philip Morrises to restore my native sweetness

When, for example, I roomed with Rimsky Sigafos, my hobby was stamp collecting. I did not take up much room. All I needed was a small corner for my stamps, my album, my magnifying glass, and my tongue. Rimsky, on the other hand, was by hobby a cat burglar. Hardly a night went by when he didn't burgle twenty or thirty cats. You can imagine how crowded our little room used to get! Many's the time I got so exasperated that it took two or three rich, natural Philip Morrises to restore my native sweetness.
