

Frosh Gymnasts Win; Cagers Dumped, 52-36

PITTSBURGH, March 2—Lee Cunningham and Jay Werner carried Coach Gene Wettstone's freshman gymnasts to their second and final win of the season against Pitt, 49½ to 44½ here this afternoon at the Field House.

Cunningham and Werner won five of the six events, for 34 of the 49½ winning points.

As in their only other meet of the season with the Navy Plebes, Cunningham took first in tumbling, the sidehorse, and the horizontal bar. Werner took the last two events—the parallel bars and the flying rings—and finished second behind Cunningham in the tumbling event, 256-255.

Frank Donatelli made it a clean for the Lions by hitting the disk in the winning time of 6.3 on the 20-foot rope.

The meet was the first collegiate showing of a Pitt freshman team and Coach Warren Neieger's cubs put on top-notch exhibition.

The top man for the Panthers was Captain Don Kasmar with three second places. He finished second in all three of his events—sidehorse, parallel bars, and horizontal bars.

Depth—a thing the varsity has plenty of—was the principal problem for the Lion frosh.

Wettstone entered a full complement of three men in only one event, tumbling. In the other five he had to rely on the winning of Cunningham and Werner.

Pitt had similar difficulties as it entered only two men in two of the events. Had they entered three competitors on the sidehorse and flying rings they would have picked up two more points and lost by three points.

This lack of depth made the Cunningham - Werner - Donatelli first places all the more important.

None of the first place showings by the Lions was close except for the tumbling event. Cain McCreary came through with an important fifth place in the tumbling to give the Lions a break-a-way lead of 11-5.

Cunningham breezed to an easy win on the sidehorse. His 221 was 14 points above Pitt's Don Kasmar. Bob Smith broke that in his routine but earned two points on a fourth place finish.

Cunningham made it three in a row with an all-conquering 239 on the high bar. Kasmar was second again with a 205. Smith at 200, was third.

Donatelli was winner number four on the rope with a 6-3 clocking. Eric Foust added an important point to the Lions scorecard with a fifth.

Werner closed out the afternoon with first on the parallel bars and rings and gave warning to Armando Vega of the competition ahead next year.

The Philadelphia flash hit for a 268 on the bars, closely rivaling Vega's best scores.

Donatelli was fifth with a 183 on the parallel bars and placed fourth on the rings behind Werner's winning 262.

(Continued from page one) at 147; Adams put the Lions into an 11-5 lead by handing Bubbs his loss at 157. Johnson then beat Gilmore at 167 with a 6-1 win. But now it was Walters' turn. He handled Richardson with relative ease despite some questionable calls by the referee.

The heavyweight match was anti-climatic as Schirf walloped Markle 8-1.

Speidel, commenting after the match, said he figured Peery would throw Bienkowski at 147 against Adams, but when he shifted Poust to 147 it was the turning point.

Peery said: "We just lost. We wrestled the way we know how and got beat."

The Lion's den witnessed its worst 40 minutes of the year, as Penn State's Frosh cagers were clawed mercilessly by Pitt's Panther cubs, 52-36, last night at Recreation Hall.

Pitt got off to an 11-7 lead in the opening minutes. Then the Lions, sparked by Bob Arner and Larry DiGiacinto, fought back to take a 14-11 edge after 11 minutes, only to have the Panthers go ahead to stay.

Center Bill Guttendorf, who paced the well-balanced Pitt attack with 16 points, and forward Duke Moravich showed the way with seven points between them, as the Panthers roared to a 22-18 bulge after 18 minutes. Only a set shot and a jump by Walt Lloyd answered that flurry, and the fired-up Pitt quintet pulled away to a 26-18 halftime advantage.

Panthers Forge Ahead

Lloyd's twin brother, Dick, opened the second stanza with a set, but Pitt piled up eight counters without a Lion reply to grab a 34-20 margin.

At this point, Guttendorf seared the hoops for 11 of his markers to put the contest on ice. With two and a half minutes remaining, the Panther five had their largest lead of the night, a commanding 52-32 bulge, and both clubs began cleaning off their benches.

Larry DiGiacinto was the lone bright spot in a dismal Lion showing. The fleet forward's pair of drive shots gave Penn State its only lead and his set shot, followed by two successful free throws, pushed the Lion cubs to within eight points of Pitt midway in the second period, the closest they were to come in that frame.

Top Lion Effort

This eight-point output represented DiGiacinto's sum total and the top Lion effort of the game. Center Paul Sweetland was next with seven, Walt Lloyd had six, and Wally Colender, in his poorest showing of the season, could manage only five.

Arner, along with Larry Freedman, helped keep Penn State in the ballgame during the initial period. The pair turned in the Lions' strongest performance on the backboards in a fierce battle with Guttendorf, Moravich and John Mills, Pitt's trio of 6-5 giants.

Gymnasts Own 8 Titles

Penn State, topped only by the service schools, own eight outright titles in the Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League. Navy owns nine and one co-championship. Army is runner-up with seven and three co-championships.

Eight Fraternity Cage Teams Record Wins in IM Contests

By BOB GULLO
Eight fraternity quintets grabbed intramural basketball victories Friday night at Recreation Hall.

Alpha Sigma Phi, scoring the highest total of the night, humiliated Pi Kappa Alpha, 60-22, after holding a halftime lead of 34-6. For the winners it was Lewis Lynch as high man with 19, followed by teammates Dick Ferrari, 12, Mike Rohrbach, 10, and Ralph Brower, 9. John Myers led PiKA scoring with 14.

Theta Delta Chi downed Alpha Phi Delta, 32-18. Jerry Olexa was top scorer with 15 points, followed by teammate John Ferrari with 12. For the losers: Jack Feola scored 11.

Phi Epsilon Pi enlarged on a halftime lead of 12-9 to defeat Lambda Chi Alpha, 32-18. LCA's Ron Fields led scorers, bagging 14 of the 18 point total. For Phi Ep, Dick Lippe scored ten, and Alan Robbins, six.

Beaver House set back Omega Psi Phi, 31-18, with a second half surge of 21 points. Fred Waelchli of Beaver House paced the scoring. Alpha Zeta, holding Delta Theta Sigma to only two points in the first half, came away with a 26-10 victory. Alpha Zeta's Gary Miller scored ten points; Fred Schuetz led the losers with eight.

Phi Kappa Tau routed Sigma Tau Gamma, 46-15, John Newlin and Floyd Grimm accounted for 22 points. Sigma Tau Gamma's Mark Roller scored nine.

Alpha Tau Omega took a 45-29 verdict from Delta Upsilon. DU's Bill Mullin took scoring honors with 18, and Alpha Tau Omega's Dorrell scored 17.

In the only other game of the evening, Theta Kappa Phi edged Sigma Pi, 20-18. Ron Faris was high scorer with nine points.
