University Makes Plans For Arrival of Leader

By BARB MARTINO

Tentative plans have been made for the reception of Gov. George M. Leader when he arrives on campus today as guest speaker of the College of Business Administration Career Day program at 8 tonight.

Tickets for his address are still available free of charge at the Hetzel Union desk, in 106 Sparks and at the State College Chamber of Commerce.

The Governor is expected to arrive at the Philipsburg Airport at 3:30 p.m. today. He will be met there by C. S. Wyand, University vice president for expansion, and a group of University officials.

Upon his arrival here, if time permits, the Governor will be taken on a tour of the campus. At 4:30 p.m. he is scheduled to appear at the Career Day Coffee Hour at Phi Gamma Delta fra-

Sellers Fills Campus Slot On Ticket

George Sellers, sophomore in geophysics and geochemistry from Philadelphia, was elected the Campus party candidate for junior class president at the clique meeting last night. He was unopposed.

Sellers replaces Jack R. Morrison, sophomore in psychology from Marysville, who announced his withdrawal Monday from the campaign for the spring elections, to be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Morrison said he withdrew for "personal reasons." He had won the junior class nomination without opposition Sunday night. He resigned Monday.

When elected as the party candidate, Sellers said that he appreciates the chance to run on the Campus party slate and that he will do everything in his power to win.

The Campus party All-University candidates will challenge the Lion party candidates to a discussion forum on the validity of party platforms Sunday night over radio station WMAJ.

Students may send in questions to WMAJ for the candidates to answer. These questions may be on any aspect of student affairs.

Grad Pay Seen Unconstitutional

State Sen. Rowland S. Mahany (R-Crawford, Mercer) yesterday called unconstitutional an arrangement whereby nine University graduate students draw weekly salaries under the state's mental health program.

The Senate is considering a committee-approved bill which would restrict State Welfare Department appropriations, such as the ones under which the students are now paid $42 to $62 weekly. Mahany, who asked for a formal opinion from Attorney General Thomas B. McBride, said, "My understanding is that the state cannot pay anyone except an employe of the Commonwealth."

The 50 students in the program are studying post-graduate courses in such short-supply fields as psychology, occupational therapy, and social work.

WAC Program To Be Outlined

Women students at the University will be able to obtain detailed information on the Women's Army Corps direct-commission program Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

On those days, Lt. Pauline T. Donahue, representing the WAC Officer Procurement Program, will be on campus to talk to women.

Further information may be obtained and appointments scheduled at the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps office in 101 Carnegie.

ternity, where University officials, Career Day panel speakers, faculty members of the College of Business Administration, members of the Business Administration Student Council and of the All-University Cabinet will greet him.

At 6 p.m. Edmond Kramer, president of the Business Administration Student Council, will be host at a banquet in honor of the governor at the Nittany Lion Inn.

Those attending the banquet will include Leader, President Eric A. Walker, Wyand, University Chaplain Luther H. Harshbarger, Wilmer E. Kenworthy, executive assistant to the President; Ossian R. MacKenzie, dean of the College of Business Administration; Ralph H. Wherry, professor

Egypt Wants Gaza; New Crisis Seen

CAIRO, March 13 (AP)—Egypt apparently has decided to restore her rule in the Gaza Strip within the next two days.

Another full-bloom Middle East crisis may be precipitated.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion told the Israeli Parliament in Jerusalem today his country "reserves freedom of action in case Egyptians return to the Strip."

In New York it was announced UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld is flying to Cairo Saturday for consultations.

The Egyptian intention was reported tonight by an official of the Palestine Department in Cairo after UN Undersecretary Ralph Bunche had a 90-minute conference with President Abdel Gamal Nasser and a 45-minute talk with Brig. Gen. Salah Gohar, director of the department.

Talk Includes Burns

Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, UN commander, sat in on the talk between Bunche and Gohar.

UN sources in Cairo said privately that Egypt had given assurances it would not move into Gaza until everything was "cleaned up diplomatically" and at such a time that the entry would not create a new crisis.

However, Egyptians continued to say they were ready to move in on their own terms as soon as they liked.

After his talk with Nasser, Bunche made clear to newsmen that the UN was not disputing Egypt's right under the 1949 Armistice with Israel to administer the former Palestine coastal area, nor even attempting to postpone the entry of Egyptian administrative officials.

Ask Delayed Action

A series of mollifying moves by UN officials had indicated, however, they hoped Nasser of his own volition would delay the move until tempers have had a chance to cool.

Tonight thousands of Gaza Strip Arabs staged a demonstration in anticipation of the early restoration of Egyptian rule. Crowds paraded shouting "Death to Israel" and "Long Live Nasser."

Some shouted "Down with the Eisenhower plan."

Mounir el Rayess, the former Egyptian-appointed mayor who has been restored to this post in Gaza City by UN forces, pleaded with the crowds to avoid violence and to behave "with dignity."

There were no incidents. Bunche told newsmen the United Nations Emergency Force would give its full cooperation to Egyptian administrators.

Chem-Phys Elections Set

Self nominations for the Chemistry and Physics Student Council elections, to be held on April 3 and 4, may be made on sheets posted in all buildings of the college.

Freshmen will elect three representatives, one from chemistry, chemical engineering and science curriculums. Sophomores to be elected are a pre-medical major, a chemistry major and a chemical engineering representative. Juniors will elect three representatives from any curriculum.

All candidates will be interviewed by the council elections committee at 8 p.m. next Thursday in 209 Hetzel Union.

Any candidate who will be unable to attend the interviews should contact Maryln King at 24 Atherton.

Correction: Prof to Give 'Last Lecture' Tonight

Dr. Robert W. Green, assistant professor of history, will speak at 7:30 tonight in the Hetzel Union auditorium, not last night as erroneously reported in yesterday's Collegian.

Dr. Green, whose topic is "The Tiger Who Took Over," is the second speaker in the last Lecture Series sponsored by Mortar Board, senior women's hat society.

'Greek Day' Observance Will Change

Observance of Greek Week Sunday on March 31 will be markedly different this year than in previous years, according to Adela Moldovan and Patrick Reilly, Greek Sunday co-chairmen.

Sorority and fraternity members will attend services at their respective churches, synagogue or at the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Memorial Chapel.

In previous years, sorority and fraternity members attended chapel services at Schwab Auditorium in a body.

Clergy Notified

Miss Moldovan said that the clergy of the State College churches and synagogue have been notified of the plans for Greek Sunday and are preparing for the large attendance that is expected.

If sororities and fraternities wish to attend services at a church, synagogue or University Chapel, they should notify the clergymen no later than tomorrow in order that appropriate reservations can be made for them, Miss Moldovan said.

Reservations will be held until ten minutes before the services are due to begin.

The Greek Sunday committee has sent postcards to sororities and fraternities asking if they wish to donate flowers to a community church or Chapel on that day.

Flower Donations

The flowers will be sent to help strengthen community relations with the University, according to Miss Moldovan. The church should be contacted by the groups sending flowers by March 26 so that the donors can be listed in church bulletins.

The individual church's flower committee will make the necessary arrangements for the flowers to be sent, and will then bill each group. The maximum cost for the flowers will be $2.50 as from two to four groups will be assigned to one church.

Wrestling Tickets Remain on Sale

Reserved seat tickets for the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association tournament, to be held Friday and Saturday in Recreation Hall, are still available.

According to Edward M. Czeka, ticket manager, general admission tickets may be purchased now or may be bought at the door, as long as they are available.

Tickets may be purchased daily from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m. at the ticket window in 249 Recreation Hall.

4 Stop Signs Erected At Dangerous Corner

The campus patrol has erected four stop signs at Shortlidge Rd. and Curtin Rd., one of the most newsworthy intersections on campus.

The patrol hopes that these signs will reduce the number of collisions at the corner.

Cabinet Will Not Meet

Tonight's meeting of All-University Cabinet has been cancelled to enable members to hear Governor George M. Leader's Career Day address.

Cabinet will meet Sunday.

Spring Weather Arrives on Campus

Surprise Hits University Park

Shirt-sleeve temperatures yesterday brought out spring fever in Penn State students.

But the weather seemed to have caught many off base.

Graham and Sons didn't have their bench out. It was still in the basement cluttered with candy boxes. The University was caught off base too since the tennis nets weren't up. Many students went to the courts to find no nets.

The forecaster called it "decent weather," and the students called it "lovely weather."

The weatherman said spring clothes may be in order today, but warned students to keep a raincoat nearby. Scattered showers are expected.

The high today may reach 70.
