

Three Candidates to Run For WSGA Presidency

Suzanne Aiken, junior in home economics from Edgewood, Rita Brown, junior in education from Franklin, and Susanne Smith, junior in home economics from Bellefonte, have been nominated for president of the Women's Student Government Association Senate.

Martha Fleming, acting WSGA president, and Mary Sterbutzel, WSGA elections chairman, screened the applicants. The results were announced at a meeting of the candidates Tuesday night.

Ag Council Picks Beatty President

Russell Beatty, junior in horticulture from McKeesport, was elected president of the Agriculture Student Council Tuesday night.

Lawrence Hutchinson, sophomore in animal husbandry from Thornton, was elected vice president and Jean Poole, junior in animal husbandry from Raleigh, N. C., treasurer.

The race for treasurer was the closest contest in the election with Duane Tobias, sophomore in pre-veterinary from Woodland, winning on the third preferential ballot.

Four Competed

Four men ran for the office, and Richard Craig, sophomore in horticulture from Clariton, received the second highest number of votes.

Prior to the election, Miss Poole announced that she would be graduating in January. She said that she and the council president, Norman Schue, had decided to allow the council to decide whether she would be eligible to run.

Poole Allowed to Run

It was decided to allow Miss Poole to run as there would only be three meetings of the council between the time she would be graduated and the council offices would be taken over by a new group of students.

The new officers will be installed and then assume their duties at the next meeting of the council, at 7 p.m. March 26 in 212 Hetzel Union.

Eng Council Elects Stroup President

Robert Stroup, junior in industrial engineering from Muncy, defeated John Haas, senior in architecture from Fairless Hills, for the presidency of the College of Engineering and Architecture Student Council by two votes on the second ballot Tuesday night.

After the election, the voting qualifications of alternates was questioned. Article eight, section three of the council constitution reads, "The voting members, only when present, shall be entitled to one vote on each proceeding."

Out-going president Donald Patterson interpreted the article to mean that a council member can vote only once on a motion and may not cast an additional vote for another council member as an alternate and that all regular alternates are entitled to one vote on each proceeding.

Defeats Compensations

Before the election, the council voted down a motion to compensate the council president $50 for his services.

The motion was brought to the floor because the former All-University Cabinet compensation of $25 dollars for each of the nine council presidents was not renewed.

Cabinet dropped the compensations because it felt the college councils had enough money to compensate their own presidents if they so desired.

2 Elected to Offices

Karl Kirk, junior in mechanical engineering from Shelbyville, Ind., and Alton Kendall, sophomore in engineering science from Reading, were elected vice president and treasurer of the council unopposed.

Further nominations and elections for corresponding secretary

Chem-Phys Group Picks President

Carroll McDonnell, junior in chemical engineering from York, last night was elected president of the Chemistry and Physics Student Council.

McDonnell defeated Robert Levitt, junior in pre-medicine from Philadelphia, and Thomas Cross, junior in chemical engineering from Union, N.J.

Jerome Breiter, junior in chemistry from Leechburg, defeated Levitt for the position of vice president. Cross was also nominated but declined the nomination.

Maryln King, sophomore in chemistry from Hershey, was elected secretary-treasurer. She was opposed by Donald Zepp, sophomore in chemical engineering from York.

The council also heard a report from the bluebook committee which has been investigating scheduling of final exams.

It was announced that Ray V. Watkins, scheduling officer, has agreed to schedule the sixth, seventh- and eighth-semester chemistry, pre-medical and chemical engineering finals with at least one day intervals for the larger credit courses.

The committee has asked that if a student finds a serious closeness between exams this semester, to report it to the council.

It was announced that the Chem-Phys Newsletter will be available today in all buildings of the college.

Pre-Vet Group To Hear Prof

Dr. Robert F. Gentry, associate professor of veterinary science, will speak at the Pre-Veterinary Club meeting at 7 tonight in 112 Buckhout.

He will speak on the University's poultry disease research program.

Election of officers will also be held. Several nominations have been made, but Louis Wasser, outgoing president, said nominations will be accepted from the floor.

Those already nominated for president are Lee McVey, Duane Tobias and Robert Shoup; vice president, Max Sponseller and Edward Martin; secretary, Jean Ewart and Ellen Clark; treasurer, Hervert Levin and William Reynolds; student council representative, Alan Sexton and Richard Coole; reporter, Thomas Neth.

Chem-Phys Newsletter

The Chem-Phys Newsletter will be available at the Hetzel Union desk and in the chemistry and physics buildings today.

A story on "Open House" and articles on students in the news are included.

The first faculty consisted of four professors including William G. Waring, great grandfather of Fred Waring, University trustee and well-known orchestra leader.

AIM Board Revises WH Voting Code

The Association of Independent Men Board of Governors last night amended the West Halls election code.

Acting upon a motion by Lawrence Kowalski, junior in Arts and Letters from Hazleton, the board passed a revision which will allow officers of the West Halls council to serve their full tenure of office.

Previously, council president elected in the spring could unseat the other officers and appoint temporary ones for the rest of the semester, according to Kowalski.

Under the terms of the revision, vice president, secretary and treasurer will be elected in the fall and serve until the following June. The president will be elected in the spring.

In other business, the board decided to form a committee for reorganization of council structure. The committee is to formulate alternate representation plans in the eventuality of a change in present dormitory arrangement.

Lash Howes, AIM president, announced that Ross B. Lehman, assistant executive secretary of the Alumni Association, has resigned his position as advisor to the board.

Wonderly Names 3 To WH Council

Lewis Wonderly, West Halls Council president, has made three appointments to the council.

Wonderly appointed John Snyder, freshman in chemical engineering from Coudersport, representative-at-large; Carl Smith, freshman in chemical engineering from Scranton, projects committee chairman; and Larry Kowalski, junior in arts and letters from Hazleton, acting secretary.
