

Lion Gridders to Open Spring Practice Monday

By VINCE CAROCCI

Although it may take most fans by surprise, Monday marks the beginning of another Penn State football season—spring football season, that is. It's spring practice time again for the Nittany gridders—a time when Coach Rip Engle and his staff of assistants give the varsity candidates a thorough 20-day inspection to get some idea about the potential of next year's team.

Joe Sabol
He'll lead the Lions

It's a period of experimentation for Engle and Company. Untired freshmen will be given the proverbial "coaches once-over" to see how each will fit into fall plans.

In the words of line coach Jim O'Hara, spring practice is a period where "we try to integrate the present freshmen into the varsity to find out how each will do in the fall."

"We also try to find out how the gaps created by graduation losses will be filled," he said.

Eight starting posts, three backfield and five line spots, are up for grabs.

In the backfield, quarterback Milt Plum and halfbacks Ray Alberigi and Billy Kane are gone. Along the line, center Dan Radakovich, guards Sam Valentine and Dick DeLuca and tackles Jack Calderone and Walt Mazur are among the missing.

In addition, end Doug Mechling—an off-and-on starter—and two top reserves, guard Jack Arnst and tackle Clint Law have kissed their collegiate grid days good-bye.

But, as big as these losses may seem, Engle has the material to act as able replacements—thanks to last year's two-platoon system.

Captain-elect Joe Sabol, Dick McMillen and Skip Stellfox lead the way at guard. Bill Wehmer, Frank Urban and Joe Macecevic top the tackles. Center is fortified by Chuck Ruslavage and Steve Garban.

End is the most power-laden position on the line—from the experienced manpower angle, anyway. Les Walters, Paul North, Romeo Panno and Ron Markiewicz are all back for another year.

In the backfield, quarterbacks Al Jacks and Bob Scrabis, halfbacks Bruce Gilmore, Dave Kasperian and Buck Malone and fullbacks Emil Caprara, Maury Schleicher and Ben Williams all return.

Back Pete Shopa and linemen Jerry Summerly, Willard Smith and Ray Potties will also be fighting for starting berths. Shopa was in the service for the past four years, Summerly was out of school last semester, and the other two were ineligible because of grade deficiencies.

End Jack Farls and halfback Andy Mocoyni are the only two serious academic losses the gridders suffered. Both are out of school this semester.

It's way too early to tell yet, but O'Hara may have hit the nail on the head when he said, "I can't say we're stronger in manpower at this time of year than we were last season. But, everything being equal, the general outlook is certainly brighter."

Pi Beta Phi Victorious In IM Volleyball

Pi Beta Phi won the closest game this week in the coed intramural volleyball league when it edged Phi Mu 31-30.

Eleanor Mitinger scored the highest number of points of the game for Phi Mu. Nancy Lambert was high for Pi Phi with 8.

Zeta Tau Alpha hammered Gamma Phi Beta, 55-19, with Pat Maury getting 11 points for the winners.

Alpha Epsilon Phi dumped Chi Omega, 50-16.

Sigma Kappa downed Tri Sig, 37-25, behind the 14-point scoring of Phyl Cabelof.

Kappa Alpha Theta beat Kappa Delta, 48-21, with Marcia Fredrico banging in 22 points for KAT.

Delta Gamma defeated Beta Sigma Omicron, 36-27. Mimi Hopson scored 15 points for DG, while Juanita Quarles netted 10 for the losers.

Kappa Kappa Gamma trounced Alpha Omicron Pi, 44-29. Ellen Donavon had 11 points for KKG, and Ruth Dieter had the same for the losers.

Three sororities and Little Lions notched victories in the coed bowling league.

Sigma Delta Tau beat Delta Zeta, 591-460. Marsha Schanz rolled the highest Thursday night score for the winners with a 168 total.

Chi Omega beat Alpha Xi Delta, 559-443. Janice Juppenlantz bowled 135 for ChiO.

Pi Beta Phi edged Alpha Phi, 460-451. The loser's Milly Rosenthal scored 114.

Little Lions beat Alpha Kappa Alpha, 591-489. Elaine Baker rolled 153 and Ann Stoddart, 134, for the Little Lions.

In the coed bridge league, Pi Beta Phi scored 24 points, KKG 23½ points and Alpha Kappa Alpha 22½.

The Gratto brothers (Joe of Lehigh and Chuck of Cornell) were at each other's side whenever one was wrestling. Joe was giving instructions during the three periods. Chuck was wrestling Ted Bienkowski, but they were to no avail as Bienkowski won.

If Chuck won, there was a possibility that both brothers may have met in the finals of the 137-pound division . . .

A Lehigh radio station is broadcasting the entire tournament (live) to Bethlehem . . .

Approximately 5000 fans witnessed both sessions of the tourney yesterday. Ten thousand are expected for today's two sessions.

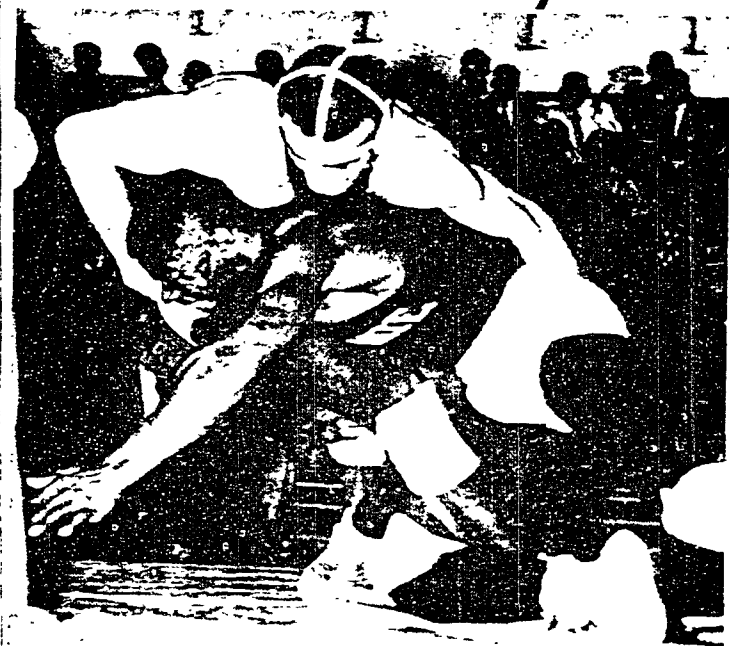

Former national and EIWA champion Bill Oberly, of Penn State, was a spectator at both sessions . . . His brother, Johnson, who won the New Jersey State High School Championship last week, was also in attendance . . .

Twenty-one pins were registered in the afternoon session and only nine in the evening . . . Only one referee's decision was awarded in both sessions, and the wrestler who lost, Lou Winner of Brown had wrestled the most times of anybody—three matches, including two overtimes, which is a total of 31 minutes.

John Pepe had a bad tooth pulled between the afternoon and evening sessions . . .

Lehigh has probably the largest audience of any team entered with the exception, of course, of Penn State.

Gilmore Sinks Navy

BRUCE GILMORE, Lion 167-pound entry, goes after a takedown in his first round bout with Navy's Pete Friedman. The move failed, but Gilmore won anyway, 2-1, on riding time. His win was the sixth Lion win of the afternoon.
