Women Will Repeat Soph WRA Voting

The vote for the office of sophomore representative in yesterday's Women's Recreation Association primary elections has been declared invalid because of the participation of upperclasswomen in the voting.

New primary elections for this office will be held tomorrow along with final elections for other WRA officers. Only freshmen may vote for sophomore representative.

Final voting for sophomore representative will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 4 to 6 p.m. Friday in Thompson, McAllister, and Atherton Halls.

Freshmen living in town or in other residence halls may vote at one of the above polls.

Candidates for sophomore representative include Patricia Couch, Ella Eggers, Louise Galusha, Joan Royer and Mary Troutman.

Results of other WRA primaries held yesterday are: Patricia Leh and Patricia Ulrich, vice president; Barbara Blake and Sally Jervis, intramurals.

Final elections for other WRA officers will be held from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. tomorrow in the women's dormitories.

Candidates are Mary Conrad and Barbara Drum, president; Jean Colgan and Harriet Ruff, secretary-treasurer; Ellen Burke, Maureen Erb, Jear, Nigh and Barbara Thiel, assistant intramurals chairmen. Two assistant intramurals chairmen will be chosen.

Women living in Atherton, Simmons, McElwain, Thompson and McAllister Halls will vote in the lobbies of their dormitories. Town women and residents of Grange and Women's Building will vote in McAllister Hall.

WRA elections co-chairmen are Helen Cummings and Judy Clancy.

To Check Other Colleges
The other idea was to set up a separate library for the use of the physical education students. Council members are checking with other colleges such as the College of Agriculture to see how its library was started.

The council amended its constitution to limit the council members to three excused absences and two unexcused absences.

The council was also told that their annual senior banquet would have to be cancelled this year due to lack of funds.

Ruslavage Gets Seat On Cabinet

The election of Charles Ruslavage, junior from Coaldale, as president of the Physical Education Student Council was announced last night at the council meeting.

Other officers are Robert S. Hoover, sophomore from Philadelphia, vice president; Marianna Moldovan, sophomore from Farrell, secretary; and Joanne Bedenk, junior from State College, treasurer.

The council president automatically receives a seat on All-University Cabinet.

In the race for vice president Hoover won by one vote over Bennie Adams, sophomore from State College.

Other Candidates
Also running for the presidency were Carolyn Briggs, junior from Catonsville, Md., David Watkins, junior from Coopersburg, and Patricia Barnitz, junior from Venetia.

A total of 251 students in the College of Physical Education and Athletics voted in the election.

At the meeting, the council also discussed the preliminary plans for physical education library.

Two main ideas were presented. The first was to include in the Pattee Library a collection of books, magazines, and papers pertaining to physical education and athletics.

The council amended its constitution to limit the council members to three excused absences and two unexcused absences.

The council was also told that their annual senior banquet would have to be cancelled this year due to lack of funds.
