

Sophs to Figure In Court Plans

With only two veterans returning this season, Lion tennis coach Sherm Fogg will be counting heavily on three sophomores and a transfer student to build a successful 1957 squad.

Last year's number two singles player and top doubles player, Fred Trust, will return along with Captain Joe Eberly to give the Nittany Lions a strong nucleus.

Trust, as a sophomore, played consistent tennis but lacked the necessary experience last year. With a full year of competition under his belt, he will be counted upon to lead the Lions in both singles and doubles play.

Used mainly as a doubles participant last season, Eberly in all probability will again be a doubles competitor, according to Fogg.

Expected to see action in the number two singles slot will be a promising sophomore, Charles Bibleheimer, who won the 1952 PIAA state tennis crown while at Easton High School.

Pete DeDad, transfer student from the Erie Center, will add considerable depth to the team while senior Joe Galiardi, will make his first appearance on the varsity courts, after playing in intramural competition the past two years.

A third letterman, Dick Jacobs, has shown improvement since the opening practice session and should prove to be a steady courtman, Fogg said.

Other: expected to see action for the Lions will be sophomores Don Benner and Don Harnett, and juniors Chuck Questa and Mike Walker.

The Nittany Lion netters will open their 11 game schedule next Saturday afternoon with a home encounter against the University of Pennsylvania.

Coach Sherm Fogg, although admitting that inexperience will hamper the Lions in their first few matches, has high hopes of coaching one of his best teams since taking over the coaching reins in 1947.

The Lions enjoyed one full week of good weather to practice outdoors, but the weatherman has played havoc with them last week and the early part of this week. Fogg said the weather has been a serious detriment to his training schedule.

Behne played his high school ball for Manhasset, N.Y. with star attackman Bill Hess, and is rated by Baer as a top-notch playmaker. Steinmuller, another top playmaker, is expected to play one midfield post on Baer's other team.

Chestnut also impressed Baer in the Monday scrimmage. He has improved tremendously since last year, and as the biggest player—6'5", 200 pounds—Baer expects to use him considerably this year.

foes the Nittanians will play this year, according to Fogg, will be Colgate, Navy, Penn and Lehigh. Colgate is rated the top contender for the Eastern Colleague Tennis title.
