

Cabinet Delays Action On Election Revisions

Two of the most important revisions in the All-University Elections Code were tabled last night by All-University Cabinet while five minor changes were approved.

The tabled revisions concern the fraternity-independent rotation system of class officers and vote-docking penalties for Code violations during the campaign.

John Morgan, president of the Association of Independent Men, objected to the rotation system proposal and asked Cabinet to table it so that he would have time to present an alternate system.

In the Code revision the senior class president would be a fraternity affiliated student; vice president, independent; and secretary-treasurer, fraternity.

Suggested at Encampment

This plan was recommended by Student Encampment last fall to replace the one now in use—that of flipping a coin to determine the affiliation of the class officers.

The proposal to allow unlimited docking of votes as penalty for Code violations was tabled because it was questioned whether Elections Committee should have the power to penalize so extensively.

This code revision also stated "in addition to the monetary fine the Elections Committee may, in extreme cases, impose a penalty of each candidate of the offending party."

William Johnson, chairman of the committee, said that committee power would be checked because all decisions are subject to approval by Cabinet.

Objects to Docking

In the past, Elections Committee has limited docking to from 10 to 100 votes. Joseph Boehret, All-University, secretary-treasurer, objected to any vote-docking because he said this is not penalizing the candidate but the student voter, who cast his vote legally.

A motion to have general student council elections supervised by the Elections Committee was also tabled until the next meeting.

The minor revisions approved included:

- Nominees to have a minimum 1.4 All-University average, instead of a minimum 2.0.
- Cliques must file a complete membership list to the Elections Committee seven days before the final nominations meeting.
- Review of the platforms by Elections Committee after, instead of before, the selection of party nominees.
- Appeals to the committee to be made immediately after the polls close.
- Cabinet selection of the election winner in case of a tie.

Culture Post Named To Encampment List

All-University Cabinet last night restored the chairman of the Cultural Aspects Committee to the list of positions whose holders will automatically be invited to Student Encampment.

Cabinet also approved the 68 ex-officio invitations recommended by the Encampment Committee.

The Cultural Aspects Committee chairman was among nine positions in last year's list dropped by the committee. Four positions were added.

Committee Chairman Harry Martini said it was dropped because the committee has been inactive and the chairman non-existent during the past year.

Moves Restoration

Robert Martz, chairman of the Board of Dramatics and Forensics, moved that Cabinet restore the post. He said he did so with faith that All-University President Robert Steele would find a qualified student to fill it.

Dropped 3 Other Posts

Martini said three other positions—the chairman of Traffic Court and the editors of La Vie and the Student Handbook—were dropped because the work they involved was so "cut and dried."

He said the matters discussed in connection with these posts remained essentially the same year after year.

Cabinet also approved the appointment of the eight workshop chairmen listed in yesterday's issue of The Daily Collegian.

To Probe Health Service

In other business, Steele appointed a committee to investigate the University Health Service. Robert Stroup, president of the Engineering Student Council, who was named chairman of the committee, suggested its formation.

Stroup said he had received numerous complaints from students concerning the operation of the Health Service.

The other members of the committee are Barbara Drum, president of the Women's Recreation Association; Lorraine Jablonski, president of Leonides, and Suzanne Smith, president of the Women's Student Government Association.

Snow Flurries Sighted Today

Why did the Nittany Lion spend yesterday's beautiful day brooding in his den?

This is the mystery that seems to be baffling everyone. He hasn't been seen on campus today either for that matter.

Word has it that he's sulking because he is not one of those chosen for an elite campus group. He had a strong desire to get his paw into the organization.

We wonder where he'll go from here. Since light snow flurries are expected for today, maybe the Lion will spend the entire day in his den planning his revenge. One can only speculate.

Conditions today may grow much "hotter" than the expected high temperature of between 37 and 42 degrees.

'Senior Gift' Boxes Open Until Noon

Suggestion boxes for the Senior Class gift will remain open until noon tomorrow.

Suggestions may be made by any student or faculty member. Ten thousand dollars is available for the gift.

Suggestion boxes are located in the lobby of McElwain, Simmons, and Grange residence halls, the lobby of the Fred Lewis Pattee Library, at the Corner Room and at the Hetzel Union desk.

UN Consultant to Speak At HEc Spring Weekend

Dr. Raymond W. Miller, consultant for the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, will deliver the keynote address for the Home Economics Spring Weekend at 4 p.m. today in Schwab Auditorium.

His topic will be the theme for the weekend, "Food—A Common Denominator of All People."

He will discuss the role of food in the present world situation and the relationship of food to the world's needs. The talk will be illustrated by colored slides.

Miller is a world traveler, author and radio commentator. In 1947 he was a consultant for the International Rice Commission in Thailand and a member of a Technical Meeting on Cooperatives in Asia.

Accomplished Writer

He was on the International Planning Team in India in 1951. Miller has written several books on human relationships and contributes to agricultural, educational, legal and religious journals.

At present Miller is a member of the bar of the Supreme Court and a visiting lecturer at Harvard Graduate School. He received his early schooling at the College of Pacific Academy, San Jose College and the University of California.

Mildred M. Arnold, regional representative of the American Institute of Baking, will also be a guest on the weekend program. In her talk "Work Smarter, Not Harder" at 10 a.m. tomorrow in room 14 Home Economics Building, Miss Arnold will demonstrate how to prepare attractive and nutritious food with less physical effort.

Nutrition Discussions

Discussions on nutrition, foreign foods and the school lunch will be held both today and tomorrow. Dr. Mary E. Fuqua, associate professor of foods and nutrition, and Dr. Eva D. Wilson, professor of foods and nutrition, will lead a discussion centering on foods which help to maintain good nutritional balance.

A panel of foreign students will discuss "Eating—What and How in My Country". An exhibit of nutrition education materials from 22 countries is set up in the game room of the Hetzel Union Building.

Panel Discussion

A four-women panel will handle the problem of community responsibility for the school lunch program.

Among the other speeches on the program are "How Young is Too Young to Marry" by Dr. William M. Smith, professor of family relationships; "Dress for Dining, Past and Present" by Dr. June Collins, associate professor of clothing and textiles; and "Meals Around the House" by Lucile R. Hutton, instructor in home art.

TIM Elects Wambold To Presidency

James Wambold, sophomore in mechanical engineering from Allentown, has been elected president of the Town Independent Men Council.

Wambold defeated Paul Rosenberger, junior in business administration from State College on the second ballot by a vote of 12 to 10. Donald Farabaugh, junior in animal husbandry from Strongstown, was eliminated on the first ballot.

Succeeds Tipton

Wambold succeeds James Tipton.

Rosenberger was then elected vice president, defeating Lynn Breen, sophomore in business administration from Centre Hall, and Robert Altsman, junior in business administration from Union City. George French, sophomore in journalism from Sewickley, was disqualified because he was not present at the meeting.

Leo Fregley, sophomore in mechanical engineering from Patton, was elected secretary, defeating Stanley Wielobob, sophomore in business administration from New Kensington.

Dennis Elected Treasurer

Donald Dennis, sophomore in business administration from Peckville, was elected treasurer when the other two candidates, David Detzer, sophomore in arts and letters from State College; and Elvin Ecelbarger, junior in business administration from Punxsutawney; both declined nominations for the office.

The Council decided to vote May 8 on the amendment to the constitution determining whether or not the council system will remain or the open forum will be returned.

Boucke Building to Use Visual Aids

By MARY KELLY
Two-thirds of the rooms in the new Boucke Building will be especially equipped for the use of audio-visual aids.

A booth between each set of the larger rooms will have a sound projector so that films can be shown in either room from the booth. The equipment will be stored permanently in the booths.

The General State Authority, which initially equips all buildings, is providing the equipment, which was recommended by the Audio-Visual Aids Service.

Willard Hall is the only other building that was designed and constructed to include visual aid facilities. Some of its rooms have screens and dark shades but they do not have booths where the projectors can be kept.

170 Rooms Equipped

"We have found that the easier we make it to use films, the more professors will use them," I. C. Boerlin, supervisor of the service, said.

The service in 106 Pattee Library has been supplying films, filmstrips, slides and tape recordings for campus use since the fall of 1941.

Now approximately 170 classrooms and assembly halls in 36 buildings are equipped for showing films.

Last year the service supplied 6002 films, 7895 pieces of equipment and 4700 projectionists for use on campus.

Rents Films

The service also rents films to schools, clubs and other organizations throughout the state. The income from these rentals makes possible the maintenance of the large collection of films and equipment.

At present the service has 166 major pieces of equipment, about 4500 film prints and more than 800 tape recordings, all of which are valued at $334,000.

One piece of equipment is a machine which checks all films and which have been used on campus or elsewhere. The machine "can catch everything but a scratch on the film," Boerlin said.

The College of Education is the biggest user of audio-visual aid. (Continued on page eleven)
