

Troubadour to Parade

By CAROLE GIBSON
PS Troubadour, undoubtedly in all his glory, will return to campus tonight as "grand marshal" of a parade to open the 40th annual Little International Livestock Show.

Troubadour, the University's international grand champion steer, will parade through University Park and State College with other livestock.

The parade will form at 6 tonight at the sheep barn, proceed down Shortlidge Rd., up College Ave., up Burrows Rd., and down Pollock Rd.

The Little International Livestock Show will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow in the Livestock Pavilion.

Troubadour, who has just finished a national tour, could be termed a nationally-famous television star. He has appeared on the Ed Sullivan and Garry Moore Shows.

Troubadour will be transported in a wagon. Also in the parade are six ponies owned by the Pepsi-Cola company. The team will draw a cart and is patterned after the famous Budweiser team on a miniature scale.

An oxen team composed of two animals drawing a cart will participate. The team was loaned by the Acadia Farms, Northfield, Ohio, owned by Cyrus Eaton, owner of the Cleveland and Ohio Railroad.

Two other groups in the parade are a six horse Belgium team loaned by the Menzie Dairy and a wagon of assorted University livestock.

The parade will be led by the State College High School Band and rounded out by a procession of six mounted horses. Two clowns will frolic at the end.

The year the show is dedicated to Sally Laughlin, a former student at the University who was killed last summer in a plane accident over the Grand Canyon. Miss Laughlin was an active member of the Block and Bridle Club, which sponsors the show.

An outstanding animal husbandry alumnus is honored at the show. This special Citation Award will be presented to Jesse Krall. Krall was graduated from the University in 1920 and is now the manager of Willow Brook Farms at Catsauqua, Pa.

The animals exhibited in the show tomorrow are owned by the University but are groomed and trained by the students who show them, for eight weeks before the event.

There are 117 contestants participating.

Dennis Will Be Keynoter At NSA Spring Meeting

Lawrence E. Dennis, University vice president for academic affairs, will give the keynote speech at the Pennsylvania-West Virginia Spring Regional Assembly of the United States National Student Association which opens today on campus.

Other speakers will be Barbara Hendel, regional chairman, and Robert Steele, All-University president.

90 to Attend
About 90 students representing 20 member schools will attend. Steele said yesterday that the University would send no official delegates.

Commission meetings will be held from 4 to 5:30 p.m. today. They are: "Who Should Go to College," 110 Electrical Engineering; "How Can an Institution Safeguard the Quality of its Educational Processes While Meeting the Demands of a Higher Enrollment," 112 Buckhout; and "How Will Increased Enrollments Affect Student Life Outside the Classroom," 121 Sparks.

3 to Participate
Three University students will chair the meeting on increased enrollment. They are Steele, Leonard Richards and George Buckhout.

A panel discussion on educational television will be held at 4:30 p.m. today in 112 Buckhout. Dr. C. R. Carpenter, director of the University's instructional research program, will speak.

The meetings will be open to the public. Members of Cabinet have been urged to attend.

Sub-commission meetings will be held from 7 to 8:30 tonight in the same rooms as the commission meetings. A coffee hour has been scheduled for 9 to 11 tonight in the main lounge of the Hetzel Union Building.

NISA Elects Freshman to Key Office

Carl Smith, freshman in chemical engineering from Scranton, has been elected first vice president of the National Independent Student Association (NISA).

Lorraine Jablonski, sophomore in home economics from West Nanticoke and Leonides president, was selected queen of the association at its annual convention held shortly before Easter vacation at the University of Illinois.

In elections for the Northeast region, encompassing Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and New England, Miss Jablonski was named president; Bruce Keeler, junior in recreation education from Bethlehem, secretary; and James Boschart, sophomore in business administration from Chester, treasurer.

Smith was named chairman of a committee to reorganize the national structure of NISA. The purpose of the proposed reorganization is "making the association stronger by combined unity," Smith said.

NISA is at present divided into seven regions, the Northeastern, Eastern, Southeastern, Southwestern, Central, Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast.

The reorganization may consist in selection of faculty advisors to teach independent organization on the individual campuses, according to Smith.

From these, regional advisors will be chosen to work in conjunction with national headquarters.

Junior Given $100 1st Prize In Competition

Roy Vollmer, junior in architecture from Wynnwood, has been awarded the $100 first prize in the annual Summitville Tile Award competition at the University.

The competition, supervised by Philip F. Hallock, professor of architecture, was based on the design of a beach park.

Second prize of $75 was awarded to Carl Kaufman, junior in architecture from Willow Grove; third prize of $50 to James M. Wehler, junior in architecture from Littlestown; and fourth prize of $25 to Robert Breslin, junior in architectural engineering from Bloomingdale.

The Summitville Awards were established at the University in 1954 for juniors in architecture or architectural engineering by the Summitville Tiles, Inc., Summitville, Ohio.

They honor the late Frederick Hursh Johnson, founder of the firm, who was graduated from the University in 1911 with a degree in sanitary engineering.

Prof Receives USAF Grant

Dr. Lloyd A. Currie, assistant professor of chemistry, has been awarded a 1-year grant by the Air Research and Development Command of the U.S. Air Force for research on the "Interactions of Energetic Nuclei with Chemical Systems."

Dr. Currie plans to study chemical reactions caused by high energy particles produced in nuclear reactions caused by the tritium nucleus which is produced by neutrons in the reactor reacting with Lithium-6 nuclei. He will study the chemical reactions caused by the high-energy tritons meeting with hydrocarbons.

He hopes that his work will produce new information concerning the effect of nuclear projectiles on chemical systems.

Assisting on the project is Robert Luce, graduate student from Philadelphia, working for his Ph.D. degree.

Alaska celebrates a country-wide holiday for the opening of the salmon fishing season.

Glee Club, Quartet To Present Concert

The Men's Glee Club, composed of more than 60 voices, and the Varsity Quartet will present a concert at 3 p.m. Sunday in Schwab Auditorium.

Frank Gullo, associate professor of music, is director of the Glee Club and of the Varsity Quartet.

The Glee Club dates from 1887, when a student journalist, writing in the Free Lance, predecessor to The Daily Collegian, commented on the need for a Glee Club at the University.

A Glee Club was organized with professor George C. Butz, a graduate and horticulturist for the Agricultural Experimental Station not only directing the group, but also singing as a part of the Club.

There were 11 members including Butz, when, in 1888, the Club toured Bellefonte, Huntingdon, Tyrone, Philipsburg, and Clearfield—all within a 40-mile radius of State College.

In contrast to these early horse-and-buggy tours, the Glee Club of 1913 made a coast-to-coast tour, and in 1928 went to Europe, singing in London, Oxford, Paris, Brussels, Antwerp and The Hague.

The Spring tour tradition sprang up in 1920, when the Glee Club sang in Wilkes-Barre and Binghamton, N.Y. Last year the Club appeared in McKeesport, Pittsburgh, Danville, Baltimore, Md., Johnstown and York.

This year's schedule includes concerts in Philipsburg, Tyrone, Harleysville, Allentown, Waynesboro, Westbury, L.I., N.Y., East Orange, N.J. and two concerts at the University.

The Varsity Quartet made its first appearance in 1902 with the Thespians at the University. The Quartet sang college songs and medleys between the acts and also helped out in spots of the musical.
