

Little International Show--Past Grid Star Will Address Industry Class

Each of the contestants has groomed and trained the animal he is showing for eight weeks.

The showmen are judged on their ability to make their animal appear in a favorable light rather than on the quality of the animal which they show.

The University does not restrict any of its animals for use in the show. Last year a student showed PS Troubadour. Showmanship and grooming are judged separately.

The judges are Lee Leachman, manager of the Ankony Farms, Rhinebeck, N.Y., beef cattle and horses; William Kelly, manager of the Nittany Farms, Pa., sheep; and Leland H. Bull, Pennsylvania Deputy Secretary of Agriculture, swine.

In the morning the best showman of each breed in the animal divisions will be selected. In the afternoon these showmen will compete for the award of the best overall showman of each type of animal. At 5 p.m. the best showmen of the entire show and his runner-up will be named. This year the show is dedicated to Sally Laughlin, a former student at the University who was killed in a plane accident over the Grand Canyon. Miss Laughlin was an active member of the Block and Bridle Club, which sponsors the show.

An award is given each year to an animal husbandry student which the sponsor considers to be outstanding. This special Citation Award will be presented to Jesse L. Krall, 1920, who is manager of Willow Brook Farms, Catasauqua, Pa.

Coronation--

Miss Penn State will receive gifts from town merchants and national manufacturers in addition to a trophy. Her sponsor will receive 15 points toward the all-over Spring Week trophy.

Each of the other four finalists will receive eight points and the other 28 contestants for the contest will receive one point for entering. The four finalists will also receive trophies.

'Jim Dandy' Tickets

Tickets for tonight's Player production, "Jim Dandy" are on sale at the Hetzel Union desk. The price is $1.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. at Center Stage.

Harry A. Stuhldreher, assistant to the vice president of the United States Steel Corp. and a former Notre Dame football star, will speak to the Public Relations in Industry class at 11 a.m. Thursday in 121 Sparks.

Stuhldreher, one of Notre Dame's famed "four horsemen," began his football career at Massillon (Ohio) High School, and played at Kiski Preparatory School, Saltsburg, before rising to stardom at Notre Dame. In 1924 he made the All-American eleven as quarterback.

A year later he began coaching at Villanova and from 1936 to 1950 served as athletic director and grid coach at Wisconsin. Since 1950 he has been with U.S. Steel.

Stuhldreher is also a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee, a trustee of Kiski Prep, a director of Junior Achievement of Pittsburgh, a member of the executive board of the Allegheny Council of Boy Scouts of America and a director of the Pop Warner Foundation and of the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh.

He is a past president and honorary member of the American Football Coaches Association.

University to Test New TV Projector

A $3700 large screen television projector has been loaned to the University for six weeks for testing.

The projector throws the picture image onto a large wall screen. If it is found that the instrument is practical for use in classes taught by television, the University may purchase it.

The University borrowed the projector from General Precision Laboratories, manufacturer. It will be used for Accounting 1 and Sociology 1 classes.
