

Top 'International' Title Presented to Arnett

Lloyd Arnett, sophomore in animal husbandry from Mechanicsburg, Ohio, was named grand champion showman at the Little International Livestock show Saturday.

The reserve champion showman was Tony Dobrosky, junior in animal husbandry from Avonmore.

Arnett showed two animals taking high places, both qualifying him to be awarded the top honor in the show. He was grand champion showman of swine, grand champion showman of beef cattle, and grand champion showman and reserve champion fitter in the Angus class of beef cattle.

Besides winning the second highest award, Dobrosky was grand champion fitter and reserve champion showman of sheep.

Among the special events held during the afternoon of the show the audience seemed most entertained by the barrel riding contest. The contestants tried to stick to a saddle mounted on a barrel while students pulled four ropes attached to barrel's ends. The two winners, both with a riding time of slightly over four seconds, were Donald Farabaugh and Glen Klippenstein.

Contestants in the cattle division were judged on a different basis from those entered in the other three divisions because there were so many more competing in this phase of the contest than in any other.

A grand champion and reserve champion in fitting and showing was named for the three beef cattle breeds of Shorthorns, Angus, and Herefords. These finalists then competed for grand and reserve championships in both fitting and showing for all breeds of cattle.

Arnett was grand champion showman and Bruce Boyd was grand champion fitter. The reserve championships in both fitting and showing went to Steve Johnson.

In the individual breeds of beef cattle, awards went to Robert Bottenfield, grand champion showman; Bruce Boyd, reserve champion showman and grand champion fitter; and Barbara Clark, reserve champion fitter.

In the August breed awards went to Steve Johnson, grand champion fitter and reserve champion showman; and Arnett, reserve champion fitter and grand champion showman.

In the Hereford class the titles were awarded to Paul Basehore, champion showman, Sidney Shade, grand champion fitter; and Thomas Blose, reserve champion showman and fitter.

In sheep awards went to Claude Dungan, grand champion showman; Dorothy Hancock, reserve champion fitter and Tony Dobrosky, grand champion fitter and reserve champion showman.

In swine titles were awarded to Lloyd Arnett, grand champion showman, Donald Fowler, grand champion fitter and Louis Colvin, reserve champion in fitting and showing.

Five contestants competed in fitting and showing horses, and only one class of horses, Morgans, was shown. Awards went to Raymond Azinger, grand champion fitter; Marilyn Painter, grand champion showman; Patricia Bro-

Disneyland to Invade—

(Continued from page one) square will serve as the information booth of the Spring Week committee and the central point for carnival checkers.

The Spring Week Committee has approved four additional groups for the carnival booths. They are Delta Tau Delta, Kappa Delta Rho, Alpha Chi Rho and Phi Epsilon Pi.

Ends at 11
All carnivals events will close at 11 p.m. Groups will have until midnight to take down their booths and clean up the area. Six women from each group who have special 12 o'clock permissions from the dean of women may remain at the carnival grounds to help clean up construction.

Each booth will be judged on the basis of good taste, adherence to theme, originality and tickets collected. The winner in each category will receive 40 Spring Week points. The three second place winners will receive 27 points each and third place winners, 18 points each. Nine trophies will also be awarded to the first, second and third place winners in the three categories. Carnival winners will be announced and trophies presented at the All-Service Revue at 8 p.m. Thursday. The winner of Spring Week will also be announced at this time.

Alcohol Prohibited
Only one ticket donation will be required for each spectator to enter a show booth and food will be sold for tickets only.

The use or possession of alcoholic beverages is strictly forbidden on the carnival grounds, according to the 1957 carnival rules and regulations.

In the event of rain the carnival will be held tomorrow night and the Mad-Hatters contest will be held tonight in Recreation Hall.

Enrollment Dates Set For Summer School

The registration dates for the three summer sessions—inter-session, main session and post-session—are June 10, July 1 and Aug. 12.

Students will register only in the morning for the inter- and all day for main session.

The inter-session will run June 10-28; main session, July 1-Aug. 10; and post-session, Aug. 12-30.

David C. Hogan, bursar, said that students planning to attend any of the summer school sessions should carefully notice that the payment of fees and charges is a part of the registration process.

Must Pay Fees
Students will register at Recreation Hall and then, as the last step, will go to Room 6, Willard, to pay fees and charges. These will be payable in full.

Hogan said the student's registration is not considered complete until his fees and charges are paid, and his official class admission cards, properly validated by the bursar, are received by his instructors.

Students will be expected to pay the Health Service fee. This entitles the student to ordinary medical care and free treatment in the University Hospital by the Health Service Staff for three days in inter-session, three days in post-session and six days in main session.

Medical Care
Free treatment and medical care will not be given in excess of six days in all three sessions. A nominal charge of $3 will be made for each day of hospitalization not covered by free treatment.

Any graduate of an approved four-year high school, any person teaching in the state or anyone holding a certificate entitling him to teach in Pennsylvania will be admitted without examination to any undergraduate course in the summer sessions.

2 Coaches to Aid—

"The Armed Forces must feel that a great benefit comes out of it or else they wouldn't have it," he said. He, too, is looking forward to the trip. "I can always pick something up, myself," he said. The clinic also gives Sulkowski the opportunity to revisit Germany—he was stationed there with the U.S. Army in 1944.
