

Nine Wins 2; Thinclads Lose

Harbold Hot In 12-0, 2-1 Conquests

Lynn Harbold made his 1957 debut on the Penn State baseball scene an auspicious one Saturday afternoon when the Lion nine downed Georgetown in a doubleheader, 12-0, 2-1, at Beaver Field.

Harbold, who remained in the serenity of the Lion bullpen until the Hoya contests, was a master in both his mound appearances—but, it was his brilliant clutch pitching in the second game that brought him his hero's robes.

Relieving southpaw ace Ed Drapcho in the top of the seventh in the second game with Hoya runners on second and third, no one out, and the Lions leading, 2-1, Harbold retired the side without any further damage to preserve the Lions' unbeaten record.

Using his curve and fastball to the best of his ability, Harbold forced pinch hitter Ed Herrity to ground out harmlessly to third sacker Steve Baidy and then struck out Don Leeber and Dave Graham to end the game.

Drapcho, until the almost disastrous seventh, had managed to hold the Hoyas in check thanks to some sharp defensive work by the Lions—they recorded two double plays, John McMullen threw out a Hoya runner at third base and Ron Rainey turned a Texas leaguer into a forceout at third thanks to sloppy base-running by Daie Smith.

The Lions, meanwhile, scored single tallies in the second and fourth to give Drapcho a 2-0 lead. A walk to McMullen, a sacrifice by Gene Tirabassi and Gary Miller's single scored the Lions' first run.

McMullen's triple and Tirabassi's shot into left field produced the second score.

Georgetown, a completely rejuvenated club from its 12-0 trouncing, rallied in the seventh with two singles and a run-scoring double by Ed Frampton before Harbold came through with his show-stopping performance.

The first game was a Lion romp from the second inning on as the Lions jumped off to an early 6-0 lead. With winner Cal Emery coasting the rest of his stay on the mound, the Lions scored four more in the third and added single counters in the fourth and fifth.

Emery received credit for the win, his fourth. Harbold relieved in the seventh and gave an indication of things to come when he struck out six men in the last three innings. He allowed only one hit.

STEVE BAIDY, Lion thirdbaseman, hits a long drive to left field which Don Leeber caught with an over-the-head grab. Baidy was the victim of tough luck throughout the game as two other of his long smashes were caught on the run by Hoya outfielders.

2 Coaches to Aid In Sports Programs

John Egli ... to Coach at Puerto Rico

Ed Sulkowski ... to go to Germany

Two Penn State athletic staff members will leave the University this spring to take part in two athletic programs outside the United States.

Basketball Coach John Egli leaves May 15 for Puerto Rico where he will coach the Mayaguez Basketball Club in its quest for the Puerto Rican Basketball League Championship.

Ed Sulkowski, former Lion boxing coach and now an assistant athletic trainer here, will leave for Neurenburg, Germany where he will head an athletic trainer clinic for our Armed Forces from July 8-12.

Egli, who will join Coaches Johnny Bach, Fordham, and Lou Rossini, Columbia, in the Puerto Rican coaching duties, accepted the invitation extended by Enrique Huyke, University of Puerto Rico basketball coach.

There will be from eight to 12 teams entered in league competition, which will last until August. A play-off among the top four teams is expected to be held at the close of league play to determine the post-season champion.

This is the first such coaching assignment for Egli, although he has participated in coaching clinics before.

"I think this will be a great experience for me," he said. "I'm looking forward to working with those people in Puerto Rico."

"I feel that I can learn something down there and I hope I can teach them the fundamentals as we know them here," he said.

Sulkowski expects to fly out of Washington on June 28. This is his second trip abroad since his stay at the University—the first was to aid in a service boxing clinic in the Far East with Roy Simmons, Syracuse boxing coach, and Joe Bunsu, a Washington referee.

The invitation came from the United States European command. As yet, Sulkowski does not know of anyone else who will

Perry Out-Hurdles Davis But Buckeyes Win, 71-51

By LOU PRATO

Rod Perry's 120-yard high hurdle duel with Ohio State's Olympic champion Glenn Davis lived up to its pre-meet expectations Saturday afternoon at Beaver Field.

But the fact that Perry was the victor didn't stop the Buckeyes from handing the Lion trackmen their third loss of the season, 71-51.

The Lion captain beat Davis by four yards in running the 120-yard course in :14.4, four seconds off the school record he set last week against Quantico.

But Davis led his mates to the overwhelming team victory despite his personal defeat to Perry. The versatile Ohio State junior won first places in the 100-yard dash and broad jump and "coasted" to a third place behind two teammates in the 220. His winning dash time was :10 and his jump measured 22' 6 1/4".

Overall team strength accounted for the Buckeye win. The Big Ten school won eight first places, seven seconds and eight thirds while the Lions carried home six firsts, five seconds and five thirds.

Two meet records were set, one by each team. John Tullar, the Lions discus and shot put ace, posted a new meet discus mark with a throw of 161' 9 1/2"—10' 8 3/4" off the mark set by the Lions' Dave Pincus in 1948.

Ohio State's Jack McClain chopped :00.9 off OSU's Mal Whitfield's 1948 meet record in winning the 880 in 1:53.9. Penn State's Ed Moran, who finished second also passed the old mark with a 1:54.5 time.

Perry and Tullar were the only double winners for the Lions. Perry kept his slate clean in the 220-yard low hurdles with a 23.6 time and Tullar, after playing second fiddle in the shot put event in the first two Lion meets, came through with a 49'5" winning toss. Perry has yet to lose a hurdle race this season.

Moran and Fred Kerr copped the other two Nittany first places. Moran won the mile in 4:21.7 and Kerr sped to a 9:42.9 two-mile triumph.

Perry and Kerr each placed in one other event. Perry was third in the shot put and Kerr trailed Moran in the mile.

Dick Winston, Jim Norton, and Ogier Norris claimed the other Lion places. Winston, the hurdles running mate of Perry, took a second in the broad jump and low hurdles and third in the 100 and high hurdles.

Stan Lyons was Ohio State's second double winner, although he had to share his pole vault win with teammate Jim Weaver. Both jumped 13'3". Lyons also
