

Senate Proposes Upping Cabinet OK's Suggestions Of English Requirements On 'Date Night' Traffic

A motion which—if put into effect—would require that a student be dropped if he fails to pass English Composition 5 with a grade of "C" or better before his fifth semester was presented to the University Senate yesterday.

The motion was tabled, but there will be further discussion and possibly a vote on the measure at a special meeting of the Senate on May 23.

The motion would also all but eliminate English Composition 0, since it would bar

Typed Note Helps Find Stolen Items

A typewritten note left in the Mineral Industries Building led to the discovery of two human skulls and a mounted skeleton of a cat which were stolen from display cases last weekend.

The note said that the specimens, together valued at $100, could be found in the first floor men's room of the building. A janitor found the note and recovered the specimens.

Janitor Saw Someone

The janitor said that at approximately 9:30 p.m. Wednesday he saw someone near the Mineral Industries office but he was not sure it was the person who left the note. The janitor discovered the note shortly afterwards.

David Snell, curator of the Mineral Industries Museum, yesterday said an attempt is still being made to locate the person who stole the specimens.

Taken From Case

The skulls and skeleton, part of the geology exhibit on the first floor of Mineral Industries Building, were taken from the display case between 7 p.m. Saturday and 3 a.m. Sunday.

Mineral industries officials are also planning to investigate a possible theft from the summer camp located in Stone Valley. Last weekend a caretaker discovered a broken window and forced lock on one of the camp buildings.

Astronomers Will Hear Talks on Planet Mars

Alpha Nu, astronomical society, will hear several talks based on recent observations of the planet Mars at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in 214 Hetzel Union.

The talks will be concerned with the physical features, possible volcanic activity, radio disturbances and possible life forms on the planet.

from admission any applicant who is not deemed competent to enter English Composition 1.

This means that students would not be admitted who, under the present system, are placed in English Composition 0.

A comment from the floor showed that such English-deficient students make up 25 per cent of freshman classes.

C. O. Williams, Dean of Admissions and secretary of the Senate, said that since every freshman class is made up of the best students applying to the University, this provision would mean that the freshman classes would have to be either 25 per cent smaller or lower in quality.

If the motion becomes a regulation, it will become effective with respect to admission of freshmen in the spring of 1958 and in the fall of 1957 with respect to requirements of a "C" or better in English Composition 5.

The requirements for a "C" or better in English Composition 5 would affect about 29 per cent of the students, according to a report by Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, professor of psychology, made at yesterday's meeting.

The Senate failed to take action on a proposed general education requirement of competence in quantitative thinking.

In failing again to bring this matter from the table, the Senate required, in effect, that it be brought in anew via committee.

10 to Be Initiated Into Journ Society

Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalism society, will initiate three professional journalists and seven journalism students Sunday at Pi Kappa Phi fraternity.

The three professional journalists are Ed Koterba, an independent Washington, D.C. columnist, Clair R. McCollough, president of stations WGAL and WGAL-TV in Lancaster and Wallace Abel, assistant professor of journalism.

Students who will be initiated are Matthew Podbesek, Louis Prato, Ralph Manna, Michael Maxwell, Robert Franklin, David Fineman and Richard Moody.

A smoker and coffee hour will follow the initiation.

Science Group Elects Rodgers Dairy Queen

Beverly Rodgers, sophomore in physical education from Pittsburgh, sponsored by Alpha Gamma Delta, was elected by the Dairy Science Club last night to reign as Dairy Queen.

Miss Rodgers will be crowned with a headpiece of red roses and will receive a bouquet of red roses to open the afternoon events of the 32d annual Dairy Exposition.

Will Receive Trophy

Following the exposition, she will attend the awards banquet where she will receive an engraved trophy. The five finalists received gifts of perfume at the meeting.

They are Blanche Kurtz, junior in education from Broomall, sponsored by Delta Delta Delta; Marilyn Painter, sophomore in animal husbandry from Pittsburgh, sponsored by Alpha Omicron Pi.

Other Finalists

Barbara Stone, freshman in journalism from Wheling, W. Va., sponsored by Alpha Epsilon Phi; and Charmaine Washko, sophomore in education from Easton, sponsored by Alpha Xi Delta.

Ralph Forsht, sophomore in dairy science from Duncansville, was chairman of the queen con-

All-University Cabinet last night accepted a parking and traffic report recommending to make Shortlidge Road one-way going north from 12:30 to 1:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday nights.

The report was presented by Sophomore Class President John Sopko as the result of a survey conducted by the Sophomore Class Advisory Board.

One of the problems considered by the board was the traffic jams and confusion created on "date nights" in Grange parking lot and on Shortlidge.

A second recommendation concerning this problem would allow the lot's present opening to Shortlidge to be used only as an entrance at the specified times. Cars leaving the lot would be required to use an exit which would be opened out to Pollock Road.

One-Way Traffic

With one entrance and one exit one-way traffic would be instituted in and out of the lot. This would alleviate the bottleneck caused by cars leaving and entering Shortlidge at the present point which serves both as an entrance and an exit.

Opposing the suggestion to make Shortlidge one-way were Robert Martz, chairman of the board of dramatics and forensics, and Robert Stroup, president of Engineering and Architecture Student Council.

They said a bottleneck at the intersection of Shortlidge and College Avenue would result. A motion to amend the report by eliminating the one-way proposal was defeated.

Peripheral Parking Space

In its survey the board also studied the use made of the parking space in the peripheral parking lots. It was determined that about 22% of the spaces were not in use on the days the lots were checked.

However, the University's plans for construction will involve or eliminate many of the peripheral areas which presently have available space.

McCoy to Address Club

Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the College of Physical Education, will speak at the Plant Science Club meeting 7:30 p.m. May 14 in 111 Tyson.

McCoy will speak on "The Evolution and Present Status of Grants-in-Aid for Athletes."

University Teams to Debate In Eastern Forensic Tourney

Members of both the men's and women's debate teams left the University yesterday to participate in the Eastern Forensic Association's annual tournament at New York University.

The tournament will draw teams from 30 eastern colleges and universities. Each team will debate the national debate topic "Resolved: That the U.S. should discontinue direct economic aid to foreign countries" for six rounds.

The winning school will receive a trophy. Certificates of achievement will be presented to all schools that win eight rounds.

The affirmative speakers for the women's team are Ellen Donovan, sophomore in arts and letters from Emporium, and Vicki O'Donnell, sophomore in arts and letters from Irwin.

The negative speakers are Sandra Grotzky, sophomore in education from Glen Lyon, and Mary Ann Gemmill, sophomore in education from New Cumberland.

Miss Grotzky and Miss O'Donnell are also entered in an oration contest. Miss Donovan and Miss Gemmill will compete in the extemporaneous speaking contest.

The affirmative speakers for the men's debate team are Jay Felstein, sophomore in arts and letters from Elizabeth, and Robert Neff, junior in zoology and entomology from Pottstown.

The negative speakers are Gerald Bogus, sophomore in arts and letters from Brownville, and Robert Adams, junior in business administration from Johnstown.

80 to Judge Dairy Cattle In Contest

Approximately 80 students will participate in the annual dairy cattle judging contest from 9 a.m. till noon tomorrow in the dairy barns.

The students will judge 10 classes of cattle including the five major dairy breeds—Guernsey, Jersey, Holstein, Ayrshire and Brown Swiss. The cattle to be judged are owned by the University.

Competition in 2 Classes

The competition will be divided into two classes, amateur and professional. The amateur class includes students who have not taken a dairy judging course. They will not be required to give the reasons for placing the animals which they judge.

The professional class includes students who have taken a course in dairy judging. They will be required to give reasons for placing five of the 10 classes that they judge to the official judges at 1 p.m. in 201 Dairy.

Two Will Judge

The official judges for the event are Delmar Young, dairy extension specialist from the University of Delaware, and Harry Roth, fieldman for the Western Pennsylvania Artificial Breeding Cooperator.

Transportation will be provided from the Dairy Building to the dairy barns between 8 and 9 a.m. for students wishing to attend the contest.

An entry fee of 50 cents will be charged. The proceeds will be used to help pay for the awards which will be presented May 11 at the annual awards banquet.
