

IFCPA To Plan Future Operations

The Inter-Fraternity Council Purchasing Association Executive Committee will meet Monday night to discuss details for hiring a permanent manager and further plan its operation.

IFCPA was devised to take the place of the Fraternity Marketing Association which was dropped earlier this semester because not enough fraternities were interested in continuing it.

The IFCPA Executive Committee has had representatives contact various vendors to determine what type of system could be set up and what these vendors could offer the association.

The vendors were given an estimate as to how much volume business they could expect to receive from fraternities in the IFCPA. These findings will also be discussed at the Monday night meeting.

The committee will also discuss the amount of service charge they will levy on fraternities in return for the services they will provide, and the promotional plans for presenting their setup to the individual houses.

The plan is scheduled to be presented to fraternities within two weeks, according to Leslie Phillabaum, executive committee chairman.

IFCPA is headed by a board of directors which is directly responsible to the Inter-Fraternity Council, FMA did not have this in its organizational structure and was not directly responsible to IFC.

Cool Weather Will Continue

The Nittany Lion was seen this morning carrying a huge load of clothing into his den.

Upon questioning, the Lion divulged that during a recent clothing sale he bought a large amount of "Ivy League" clothing, to keep up with the style.

However, it developed that his tail kept getting caught in the belt in the back, and consequently he decided that he would have to take over the job of setting college fashions. He plans to set up a designing shop in his den from which he will dictate all future college styles.

Since cool weather is predicted for today with a high of 65-70, and rain is not likely until Sunday, he has decided to postpone his grand opening until then.

E. Germany Felt Threat to Peace

BONN, Germany, May 3 (AP)—NATO leaders warned today that a turbulent volcano in Eastern Germany threatens peace if the people there are kept in Soviet servitude.

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano led members of the North Atlantic Treaty Council in strongly appealing to Russia to release the East Germans into a free and reunified Germany.

The NATO ministers warned the restless population of East Germany against any "imprudence" which could only increase their sufferings, and might touch off global conflict if they attempted a Budapest-type revolt.

Disarmament Plea Expected

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, who becomes NATO secretary general later this month, was delegated to write a communique embodying these ideas. It was expected to include an urgent plea to Russia for progress on disarmament and East-West problems in general.

Stressing the human as well as political problems involved in the continued division of his country, Von Brentano warned his fellow ministers: "There are situations in which the suffering, caused by oppression, and the moral and material misery reach limits where reason no longer dictates action, and where desperation and a just anger break out with the violence of a volcanic eruption."

German Violence Hinted

The West German Minister again used the volcano as an example of the situation in East Germany when he stated: "A system of European security, established without a prior solution of this German reunification problem, would be based on a volcano."

Dulles told the Council that Russia must end the split of Germany "before its injustices become intolerable."

Coed Drops Council Seat Over Voting

A coed has resigned from the Liberal Arts Student Council because she was accused of attempting to influence voters at a polling place during student council elections.

In a letter of resignation to Robert Nurock, council president, the coed said she was innocent of the charges but was resigning to preserve the dignity of the council.

Nurock declined to name the coed.

Influenced by Editorial

The coed said her decision to resign was influenced by an editorial in the April 10 issue of The Daily Collegian which referred to "unsavory practices... going on in council elections for some time."

The editorial said:

"At the Liberal Arts polling place in Waring Hall last week a candidate seeking re-election was in complete charge of the polls and was allegedly influencing voters. This candidate was re-elected."

Was 'No One Else'

This coed was in charge of the polls, the editorial said, partly because "there was no one else to do it."

Shortly before the editorial appeared, Nurock asked All-University Cabinet to put council elections under the jurisdiction of the All-University Elections Committee. His motion to do so was tabled.

Nurock said the Intercollege Council Board is now studying the proposal and other alternatives.

Stratton Elected To Head ICCB

James Stratton, president of the Mineral Industries Student Council, was elected chairman of the Intercollege Council Board Thursday night by a vote of 6-3.

Stratton's opponent was Robert Nurock, president of the Liberal Arts Student Council.

Stratton was elected on the second ballot. The previous vote, taken at the last meeting of the board, resulted in a 4-4 tie.

Patricia Moran, president of the Home Economics Student Council, was elected secretary-treasurer of the board at the last meeting.

The board discussed a system to better acquaint freshmen with their particular colleges during orientation week.

World at a Glance

Boss Costello's Attacker Sought

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—Police searched futilely today for a gunman who last night shot and slightly wounded Frank Costello, former "boss of the racketeers."

More than 60 detectives were assigned to the task in hopes of heading off a possible outbreak of underworld warfare.

Officials said they wanted to get the gunman before "friends" of the 65-year-old Costello caught up with him.

Apparently believing that another attempt on Costello's life also was possible, they posted two detectives in the lobby of the Central Park West apartment house where Costello lives.

Beck 'Surrenders,' Posts $5000 Bond

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Teamster President Dave Beck, lacking some of his usual bounce and exuberance, gave himself up today and posted $5000 bond on an indictment charging income tax evasion.

Beck, wearing dark glasses, spent about two hours in the federal court building being routinely fingerprinted and arranging his bond for arraignment later.

Churchill Criticizes UN

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill criticized the United Nations today for its attitude toward the British-French attack on Egypt last fall. He said the UN had not helped either the free world or the cause of peace.

Truman Attacks Administration

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Harry S. Truman came to town in fighting trim today and declared the Eisenhower administration is driving him toward socialism.

In his old "give-'em-hell" style, he jumped on Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey for wanting, he said, "to choke us to death with interest rates," and he charged administration policies are forcing the little fellow out of business.

"I'm not a Socialist," the former Democratic president said, "but they're driving me that way."
