

'Ugly Man' Competition Changed to Fall Term

By LYNN WARD

The Senate Subcommittee on Student Affairs yesterday approved plans for the Ugly Man Contest to be held in the fall rather than the spring semester next year.

The subcommittee also approved separate fraternity and independent divisions to eliminate competition between the two groups.

The contest, traditionally held in the spring, was rescheduled for October 8 through 11 to eliminate conflict with Interfraternity Council weekend and Spring Week.

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, sponsors the contest as a money making project. The 1957 APhiO Ugly Man committee recommended the change because in the fall "there is not so much going on and organizations have more time for the contest and probably more money."

Provision Not Passed

One provision in the new contest rules, allowing motor vehicles in the parade, was not approved by the subcommittee. However further consideration will be given to it. The provision would allow two vehicles to be used by each marching unit.

With new groups now included in the contest five fraternities and five independent groups will be in the finals. Location of the finals has been changed from the Hetzel Union ballroom to Schwab Auditorium to provide for a greater crowd of spectators. A 10-cent admission charge will be made to cover janitorial costs in the auditorium.

Separate Trophies Included

The Ugly Man Key will be presented to the overall winner of the contest; his sponsoring organization will receive a 32-inch trophy. Trophies will be presented to the first place winners in the two divisions. Second place winners in both divisions will receive engraved plaques.

Groups in each division may sponsor one Ugly Man entry, who need not be a graduating senior, as in previous years. A $2.50 registration fee is required at the time the entry is made.

Will Judge on 5 Points

Judging for the parade will be based on presentation of theme, group participation, originality, organization and whether or not the presentation is in good taste. This means that groups entering with girls must be orderly and reasonably dressed.

Fuel Industry Plans Increase In Scholarships

An intensified scholarship program has been announced to maintain high freshman enrollment in fuel technology at the University, the only course of its kind offered by any university in the country.

E. C. Payne, consulting engineer of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, and head of the industrial group sponsoring the scholarships, said the program will attempt to increase the number of scholarships now available in the field.

Only Course in Country It will also help increase interest in future opportunities for fuel engineers, he said.

Since the University's course is the only one in the country, Payne said, it is important that freshman enrollment be maintained at a relatively high level.

Scholarships Sponsors

This can be done only by increasing financial aid and stressing the opportunities available in the field to promising high school seniors.

Sponsors of scholarships for the 1957-58 term, in addition to Pitt-Consol, are Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, the National Coal Association, the Koppers Co., Pittsburgh Coal Company Division, Bituminous Coal Research, American Coal Sales Association and George H. Deike.

LA Raises Graduation Requirements

The College of the Liberal Arts faculty yesterday set the minimum All-University average for graduation from the college at 2.0 in an effort to raise the academic standards of students.

Previously a student needed only 132 credits and 132 grade points to graduate.

The faculty set the standards to comply with a University Senate scholastic standards report. All colleges will use this system for a trial period of one year, according to Richard C. Maloney, assistant dean.

620 Students Dropped

Maloney told the faculty that 620 students were dropped from the University last year. He said he hoped the new system will raise the academic standards of the students.

The new system, as passed by the Senate, means that a student must have an average of 1.4 by the end of the second semester; 1.6 by the fourth; 1.8 by the sixth; and 2.0 by the eighth.

Dean Ben Euwema said that the 2 average or "C" grade belongs to the "average conscientious student."

"A class of any size, unless comprised of selected students, will have a majority of average students," he said.

Faculty Drops Courses

The faculty approved dropping several courses in the School of Journalism. They are Journalism 2, Principles of Journalism, and Journalism 35, Sports Writing. Several other courses were added and there were several curricular changes.

The faculty tabled a motion to support in principle a minority report of a Senate committee on reorganization to reduce the size of the University Senate.

The motion was presented in the form of a report by Dr. Leon S. Roudiez, assistant professor of romance languages.

The reduction proposal would make the Senate more representative, according to Dr. Roudiez. It would make Senate posts available only to those members of the faculty having academic rank. This would not necessarily include department heads.

Members Dissent

It was on this point that many of the faculty members dissented, saying that by not having all of the departments represented, the Senate would not be truly democratic.

Dr. Roudiez countered this by saying that the Senate should not merely be "a congress of departments" but should instead be representative of all viewpoints within the college.

However, the faculty did approve three nominations to fill the senate post of Dr. Kent Forster, professor of European history, who is on leave.

Those nominated are:

Dr. Ilene Fife, assistant professor of speech; Dr. Malcolm Friberg, instructor in history; and Dr. Maurice A. Mook, professor of anthropology.
