

Dairy Exposition Honors Captured By Two Coeds

Two coeds won out over 53 male competitors to take top honors in Saturday's Dairy Exposition.

Edith Larimer, junior in home economics from New Wilmington, won the grand champion showmanship title. She earned the champion Jersey showmanship title in the preliminaries, qualifying her for the finals.

Lion Party May Amend Constitution

Lion Party's steering committee Sunday night recommended that the party constitution be amended to make more students eligible to run for clique offices.

The proposed amendment states: To be eligible for the positions of clique chairman or vice clique chairman in the yearly elections held in the spring a candidate must have attained the status of second to eighth semester.

According to the present clause, the two officers must be between fourth and eighth semester standing.

The steering committee will discuss and vote on the amendment at 6:30 p.m. Sunday. If it receives a two-thirds vote it will be brought up for adoption at the clique meeting at 7:30 p.m. Both meetings will be held in 121 Sparks.

The clique meeting scheduled to follow Sunday's steering committee was cancelled. Chester Zimolzak, financial manager of the party, presided over the committee meeting in the absence of Clique Chairman John Godayte, who is in the infirmary.

AgEc Club to Give Trophy to Senior

A trophy will be presented to the outstanding senior in agricultural economics at a picnic sponsored by the Agricultural Economics Club at 3 p.m. today at Grange Park, Centre Hall.

Tickets may be obtained for $1 from anyone on the membership committee or in I Weaver.

Students who need transportation will be picked up behind Weaver.

Lantern Circulation

Members of the Lantern circulation staff will meet at 7:45 tonight in 209 Hetzel Union.

A call has been issued for candidates for the staff to attend the meetings. The Lantern will be sold beginning tomorrow.

Ann Weaver, freshman in agriculture education from Reading, won the grand champion fitting title. She took the champion Guernsey fitting title in the preliminaries, qualifying her for the finals.

Two male competitors—Martin Lieb, freshman in agriculture from Stillwater, and Thomas B. Williams, sophomore in agriculture from Middletown—took second place honors or the reserve grand champion titles.

Lieb won the championship Guernsey showmanship title, and Williams won the championship Jersey fitting title, making them eligible for the finals.

Robert McCown, sophomore in dairy science from Pittsburgh, took both the champion showmanship and the fitting titles in the Ayrshire division. Robert W. Miller, sophomore in dairy science from Andreas, won the champion showmanship title, and Barton Gledhill, junior in pre-veterinary from Melrose Park, won the champion fitting title in the Brown Swiss division.

Clyde Ellsworth, sophomore in agricultural education from South Montrose, took the champion showmanship title, and Frederick Kramer, freshman in agriculture from Washington, D.C., took the champion fitting title in the Holstein division.

The special events of the afternoon included the crowning of the Dairy Queen, Beverly Rodgers, sophomore in physical education from Pittsburgh. Miss Rodgers received a crown, a bouquet of red roses and an engraved trophy.

A milk can rolling contest provided added entertainment. The contestants rolled full milk cans along a 6-inch board for 30 feet. Neil Corselius, freshman in dairy science from Clarks Summit, won the contest.

An awards banquet climaxed two weeks of judging events including a dairy cattle judging contest, an ice cream and milk judging contest and the dairy cattle showing and fitting contest.

Norman Schue, senior in dairy science from Hanover, was manager of the Dairy Exposition. Gordon Miller, junior in dairy science from Clarks Summit, was the assistant manager. Miller will automatically become manager next year.

Automatic Photostat Machines Suggested For Sr. Class Gift

By LIANNE CORDERO

First of a series on final suggestions for the 1957 Class Gift

Self-service photostat machines that could be operated by students at a minimum cost are among five gift suggestions selected for the senior class gift.

A sum of $10,000 has been set aside for the gift. Seniors will vote on their choice when they obtain their copies of LaVie.

According to Ralph W. McComb, University librarian, a machine called Thermofax may be just what the students are looking for.

The machine would cost approximately $500 and could be easily installed. Copies of book pages, manuscripts or any other written material except that written by ball point pen, can be reproduced.

Copies could be made at approximately 5 cents a page. Other advantages of the Thermofax are that the same negative could be used again, and that it is operated by a dry chemical process.

Thermofax also is not as complicated to operate as similar products on the market. However, Dr. McComb said that students would have to be instructed on how to operate the machine.

In addition to the initial cost of the machine, students would still have to buy chemically-processed paper.

Dr. McComb suggested that a full-time staff member who could show students how to operate the machine and who would sell the special paper would have to be maintained. This would present the problem of allocating the gift funds over the years.

Dr. McComb favored the Thermofax machine over others of its type, such as the Photocopier. The Photocopier operates on the wet chemical principle and paper would cost about 15 cents a sheet.

At present, the University owns several photostat machines. Most of these, however, are available only to graduate students and faculty members.

Lion Predicts Hot Weather

Today's prediction calls for temperatures within the 80-84 degree range. The Nittany Lion, however, was too busy to be bothered with such things this morning.

With June coming on, the Lion was obsessed with that feeling peculiar to all males at this time of year. He spent the entire morning going through his address book and frantically making phone calls. "After all," he announced, "it's time that I thought about getting a girl friend."

His black feelings over the loss of girl friends were deepened by the possibility of thundershowers today.

NROTC Team Wins Trophy

The Navy Reserve Officers Training Corps Drill Team won the Milton S. Eisenhower Trophy in Sunday afternoon's fourth annual Mother's Day drill competition, held in front of Old Main.

Pershing Rifles took second place this year and the Air Force ROTC team placed third.

This is the first time the Navy team has won in the competition. Last year Pershing Rifles took first place.

The commanders of the winning Navy team were Midshipman Thomas W. Grimison, senior in architecture from Balboa, C.Z., for standard drill; and Midshipman Fred D. Simpson, junior in business administration from Williamsport, for trick drill.

Panhel to Meet Tomorrow

The Panhellenic Council will meet at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in 203 Hetzel Union.

Exec Group OK's Faculty Nominations

Three faculty appointments, effective July 1, have been approved by the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees.

The Rev. Dr. Luther H. Harshbarger, co-ordinator of religious affairs and University chaplain, has been named professor of religion in the College of the Liberal Arts.

Dr. C. R. Carpenter, professor and head of the Department of Psychology, has been named director of academic research and services. Dr. Howard A. Cutler, professor and head of the Department of Economics, has been appointed coordinator of the general education program.

Dr. Harshbarger will serve on a half-time basis in the professorship and continue to devote the other half of his time to his present duties as coordinator and chaplain.

He came to the University in 1949 as executive secretary of the Penn State Christian Association, was named chaplain in 1951, and since 1954 has been serving as chaplain and coordinator of religious affairs.

The appointments of Dr. Carpenter and Dr. Cutler are new positions created as a part of the office of the vice president for academic affairs. Both men will fill the positions on a half-time basis, spending the other half of their time in their present occupations.

The position of director of academic research and services has been established to fix responsibility for coordination throughout the University of all phases of the television and audio-visual development program, including instruction, research and broadcasting, according to Lawrence E. Dennis, vice president for academic affairs.

The coordinator of the general education program will be concerned with the establishment of a program of general education in the arts, the biological sciences, the humanities, the social sciences and the physical sciences which will eventually be available to all students regardless of their major field of specialization.

Dr. Carpenter, who has served on the faculty since 1939, has been head of the Department of Psychology since 1952.
