

Chapel Choir to Sing In England's 'Abbey'

Sixty-six members of the Chapel Choir will sing at Westminster Abbey and The Royal Academy of Music during the Choir's second annual European tour of six countries.

The Choir will sing selections that have been prepared for this tour at the 10th annual Spring Concert at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in Schwab Auditorium.

UCA Installs New Cabinet At Service

The new student cabinet of the University Christian Association was installed at the regular vesper service last week in the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Memorial Chapel.

A banquet for both old and new cabinet members was held following the service.

New officers who were installed are Richard Martin, president; Margaret Leuschner, vice president; Helen Skade, secretary; and Isabel Barnes, treasurer.

Commissions Heads
Included in the dedication ceremony were the chairmen of the four UCA commissions. They are Jean Watts, worship; Wells Hunt, education; Warden Muller, service; Mary Ellen Paxton and Glen Elder, social chairmen.

Other UCA officers installed at the service were Dianne Herold, representative to the Student Christian Movement; Arthur Park, inter-foundation religious affairs representative; Miss Leuschner, inter-foundation council choir director; Samuel Fisher, finance committee chairman; Julian Chalcker and Marilyn Swank, residential gathering committee chairmen.

Vesper Service
The vesper service was led by the Rev. Hal Leiper, associate director of UCA, and the sermon was given by Sam N. Gibson, executive director of UCA.

All students interested in the life and work of the UCA should contact the office in the chapel before the semester ends so that they can be placed on committees before the fall semester begins.

2 Lonely Men Appear in Play

"A Letter from Joey" will be produced by 5 O'Clock Theatre today in the Little Theatre in Old Main.

The story involves two lonely men in the southern mountains. One clings to the memory of his dead son, the other to the memory of his late wife. They are brought to reality by self-confession and a little boy who teaches them to read and write.

The play is directed by Mark Wallace, graduate student in arts and letters from Bristol.

Students Will Register For Forestry Courses

Registration for students currently enrolled in wood utilization or the forestry curriculum in the School of Forestry will be held tomorrow, Thursday and Friday in 101 Forestry.

Students who plan to transfer to either curriculum and do not have credit for Forestry 1 and Forestry 2 are required to attend a special transfer camp at Stone Valley.

Business Group to Meet

Dr. Arthur H. Reede, professor of economics, will speak at the final meeting for the year of Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, at 7:30 tonight at Phi Sigma Delta, 240 E. Prospect Ave.

Poet's Wife To Address LA Group

Mrs. Edgar Lee Masters, widow of the author of "Spoon River Anthology," will speak to the Belles Lettres Club at 7:30 tonight in the northeast lounge of Atherton.

Mrs. Masters teaches English at Ogontz Center. Tonight's talk will be based on questions which the club will submit to her.

Knew Many Poets
Mrs. Masters was with her husband throughout the period when he lived in New York City, and she was closely associated with the prominent New York poets of the 1920's and 30's. Part of her talk will deal with these poets as she knew them.

One of the points Mrs. Masters will consider is her husband's attitude towards both his own poetry and the work of other poets. She will discuss her husband's opinion of his most famous collection, "Spoon River Anthology," and why he considered it, despite its popularity, to be one of his important works.

Began at Ogontz
She began her teaching career at Ogontz Center before it was made a University center, and was retained on the faculty after Ogontz became part of the University. Before her marriage to Masters, she was a stage actress in New York.

She has lectured during recent years on her husband and the literary scene of his day. Tonight's talk will be open to the public, and will be followed by a discussion period.

IFC Grants--

caused by constant turnover of buying personnel.

It would prove to be less work for fraternity treasurers because the IFCPA manager would check all bills and invoices.

The plan would pull the credit rating of all fraternities up to the credit rating of the association because all bills would be promptly paid by IFCPA.

Little Money to Be Saved
Phillabaum said he would not guarantee a large financial saving to fraternities, but could assure them that they would definitely not lose any money through the plan.

He passed out contracts at the meeting which must be returned by May 22.

He said if at least 20 fraternities do not join the association, it will not go into operation in the fall.

Curry Elected President Of Junior Hat Society

Eugene Curry, sophomore in business administration from Reading, has been elected president of Androcles, junior men's hat society.

The new members of the Governing Board are Betty Lou Adelson, Marilyn Cohen, Catherine Fishel, Peter Glick, Elaine Huberman, Helen Isaacman, Deborah Klonsky, Janet Leff, Bryna Nelson, Joseph Rapoport, Marsha Schanz and Mimi Susman.

Ping-Pong Tournament Opens Tonight in HUB

A ping-pong tournament for Town Independent Men will be held from 7 to 11 tonight, tomorrow night and Thursday night in the game room of the Hetzel Union Building.

A schedule of games has been posted on the game room bulletin board. A trophy will be presented to the winner after the finals on Thursday.

Ag Council to Hear Report

The Agriculture Student Council will hear a report on the faculty evaluation project at 7 tonight in 213 Hetzel Union.

Scott Wins Poetry Award Given by Pivot Magazine

Sandra Scott, sophomore in education from Perkaspie, is the first winner of the Samuel Barsky Memorial Award for poetry, presented by Pivot, student poetry magazine.

The award, a prize of $25, was announced in the spring issue of Pivot, which went on sale yesterday.

A gift of Sibyl Barsky Grucci, sculptress, and Patricia Peifer, of New York City, the award is to be offered annually for the best poem or group of poems by an undergraduate. It is given in memory of Samuel Barsky, of Los Angeles, Calif., who was one of Pivot's staunchest supporters.

Miss Scott won the award for her poem "Alfred P. Johnson."

The magazine is published by the poetry workshop, English Literature 13, and is directed by Joseph L. Grucci, assistant professor of English composition.

The poems in the magazine are, with a few exceptions, local contributions.

Thirty-two poets are represented in the current issue, with a total of 38 poems. The collection features a preface and poem by Grucci, who is the author of "Time of Hawks," and translations.

Pivot sales will continue today. Nine hundred issues were sold yesterday, of a total of 1200 printed.

SPACE WASTING . . .

My name is Bill Coleman. I'm from Manhattan and I'm a party doll . . . anyway I'm not a State College native nor have any intentions of being one. I'd rather see one than be one.

FURTHER DRIBBLE . . .

Finally finished our 14th and last sorority composite. As usual there is always one sorority which seems by comparison outstanding for certain private reasons (we have to be nice to the other sororities!). We so completely enjoyed working with this group that the name TRION will be added to the list of "Bermuda Contenders."

And while we're at it for equally valid reasons let's add Phi Sigma Sigma. Should either of these two sororities be picked from the box, let them select in the same manner a member of their group.

CONCERNING BERMUDA . . .

Customarily a Collegian staff member selects the winner from a box of names of the girls whose picture or name appears in our column. This year two copies of a girl's name will be placed in the box if her portrait is used in our column, thus doubling her chances of selection. And of course, names mentioned in this column in itself makes a girl eligible. Points are cumulative as well.

The figure following the names below indicates the number of copies of the girls name to be placed in the cigar box. If you detect an error, please notify us. A few more names may be added between now and the end of May, when the drawing will be held.

One of the lovely things about June is that many of us get to leave State College. So to define controversial statements like this, we offer as testimony:

1. Kosher pickles are so hard to get.
2. So is air-conditioning in local theatres (grapevine data—a crated "cold-maker" is now sitting behind one of the theatres.)
3. Occasionally being mistaken for a student by the local gendarme this can be a costly error—to us, a $15.00 fine for being a half hour late in removing old license plates from car is ridiculously steep—especially when the new plates were seen by arresting gendarme. Oh well, perhaps because it was late, officer mistook us for students. HEIL DER COLONELL!! continued next week.
4. We don't intend to offend anyone but half page ads in local paper depicting a big 10% price reduction is offensive to anyone's intelligence.

Don't step on one toe when it's easy to crunch them all . . .

Except for one or two acts, why must May Day Festivities be as routine as they were 9 years ago when we saw our first one? What happened to all the color and gaiety it should have had. Surely originality isn't that hard to locate. This is a far cry from what we've seen at Universities half this size. Doesn't anyone ever consult the art department?

Sincerely,
bill and bunny
