Linksmen Play Host To Colgate

By LES POWELL

One of the most interesting golf series in Penn State links history resumes today when the Lion clubbers host Colgate at 1 p.m. on the home greens.

The Lions, who hold a 9-4 advantage since the series originated in 1929, scored a 4-2 victory in the initial encounter and lost the second match in 1931 by the same count.

The two clubs did not meet again until 1942, with Penn State gaining a 7-2 decision, then losing by 5-4 the following day.

Penn State's golfers won the last two meetings with the Red Raiders, scoring 5-2 and 7-0 wins in 1956 and 1955. Colgate's last triumph over the Lion linksmen came in 1954 by a 4-3 count.

Lion coach Joe Boyle's golfers carry an 8-1 match play record against the Red Raiders. The only available information on the Colgate club is its 4-3 decision over West Point, Penn State defeated the Cadets, 6-1.

Boyle plans to use the same lineup which recorded an 11½-6½ triumph over Lehigh Saturday. Pat Rielly, Johnny Boyanowski, Bill Davidson, captain John Branish, Bob Bainbridge, John Felus and either Leo Kukkola or Dave Myerson will tee off against the Red Raiders.

Kukkola, who did not make the Lehigh trip since only six golfers were used, played Myerson yesterday with the number seven spot at stake. He held a 1-up lead after nine holes.

The Lion mentor praised Lehigh's golfers for their strong showing against Penn State in dropping their second match of the season after 10 wins. "They have a very good team," Boyle said. "Branish and Felus had to putt exceptionally well on the 18th hole, or we would have lost the match."

Leo Kukkola May Return to Action

Branish came through with a birdie on the 17th green, then parred the 18th to squeeze out a win over the Engineers' Charlie Austin. This victory enabled the Lions to go out in front, 7-5, after trailing by 5-4 with three matches completed.

Felus had to sink a five-foot putt for a birdie on the last hole to win the back nine and the match from Lehigh's Don Weaver.

The Lions got off to a bad start when Rielly, leading by three with five holes to go, lost four of them to give Engineer Davey Bates a 2-1 decision. Rielly won the front nine for his lone point.

Matchmaker Sues IBC and Officers

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—The International Boxing Club and six of its officers were sued in federal court today for $9,000,000 in damages by the Andy Callahan AC of Boston and its matchmaker, Sam Silverman.

The IBC was charged with conspiring to monopolize interstate commerce in the promotion, exhibition, broadcasting and television of professional championship fights in this country.

Courtmen Host W.V.A. In 1:30 Test

Confidence—so important in any athletic event—could be the key factor in this afternoon's home match with the West Virginia tennis team, according to Lion Coach Sherm Fogg.

The Nittany Lions, riding on the crest of two consecutive victories, will try to stretch their win skein another notch by hosting the Mountaineers.

West Virginia enters its final match with a 5-5 record. The Mounties have had only one match in May, that being a 6-3 victory over the Pitt Panthers.

The Lion netters posted a 6½-2½ win over Bucknell Wednesday, scoring four singles wins and two doubles victories. Fogg was pleased with the improvement shown in the singles play, but felt that the courtmen were somewhat lax in their doubles.

"It will be a tough one, as West Virginia has its number one player (Al Griffiths) back again. They sure surprised us last year and the 8-1 score was not indicative of the closeness of the match," Fogg said.

Joe Galiardi, the Nittany number four man, came in for special praise from Fogg. "He regained his confidence and has played steady tennis lately," the Lion mentor said.

Penn State's lineup for the Mountaineer encounter will remain the same as it did against Bucknell, with one exception. Galiardi will fill in the third doubles team with Pete DeDad, replacing Craig Moseback.

Fred Trust will start in the number one singles spot and will be in search of his second victory of the season. Trust, if he gained some confidence in himself and didn't underestimate his opponents, could be one of the top players in the East, according to Fogg.

In the second spot will be

Dick Jacobs Sixth Singles Player

Charles Bibleheimer, while Chuck Questa will fill the third slot. Galiardi, the winner of the four consecutive singles match, will be the fourth man, while Pete DeDad and Dick Jacobs will round out the Nittany singles team.

The Lion doubles team will be composed of Trust-Questo, Bibleheimer and Captain Joe Eberly, and DeDad-Galiardi.

Four veterans will bolster the West Virginia attack. For the third year, Griffiths will be the number one man. Other veterans will be Bob Spessard, Joe Calhoun, and Jim Fox.

Phi Mu Delta, Sigma Nu In IM Semifinals

Phi Mu Delta and Sigma Nu enter the semi-finals of Intramural soccer by virtue of victories on Beaver Field last night.

Phi Mu shutout Pi Kappa Alpha on Bill Klimek's first half goal, 1-0, and Sigma Nu downed Delta Upsilon on corner kicks, 5-0.

Meanwhile Alpha Phi Delta qualified for the quarterfinals, turning back Delta Tau Delta, five corner kicks to two.

APhi Delta won the right to play DTD by defeating Alpha Gamma Rho, 1-0, for the League C title on Thursday night.

In another Intramural soccer tilt Thursday night, League D champions, Alpha Tau Omega, edged Alpha Kappa Lambda, League N titleholders, on corner kicks, 3-2.

Sigma Nu also recorded a win Thursday with a 4-0 victory over Phi Delta Theta. Bill Fiedler with a 4-0 victory over Phi Delta Theta. Bill Fiedler accounted for all Sigma Nu goals.

Thanks to Dick Hammond's first half goal, Delta Upsilon shutout Alpha Sigma Phi, 1-0, and Phi Mu Delta beat Alpha Chi Rho, 2-1.

Thinclads Meet Pitt In Rivalry

PITTSBURGH, May 16 (AP)—Penn State's winless track team will be out to avert its worst season in five years this afternoon here at the Pitt Stadium when they meet the University of Pittsburgh in the 40th track renewal between the two interstate rivals.

Not since 1952, when the Lion thinclads posted a 0-4 record, have they had such a miserable season. This year it was a 59-57½-45½ triangular loss to Villanova and Navy; then came the Quantico Marine defeat, 69½-61½; and in the last two outings, Ohio State has been the victor—71-51 in a dual meet and 68½-47½-47 in a triangular engagement with Michigan State.

Depth has been the vital factor in the cinder men's lack of success. Coach Chick Werner has several men who are perennially first place finishers but lacks the men to score those vital second and third place points.

That has been the case in every event except the hurdles where Rod Perry and Dick Winston rule as the best hurdling combination in the East, according to the latest figures released by the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference.

Perry is unbeaten in both hurdle events thus far, although he was tied in the high hurdles in the Villanova-Navy meet by his cohort, Winston.

Winston, by the way, has developed into a top flight 100-yard dash man in the past two meets. Until the Ohio State dual meet, this event was the Lions' weakest. But that was changed by Winston, who placed second only to Ohio State's Olympic star Glenn Davis in the 100 in both of the last two meets.

The Lions' other unbeaten artist is discus thrower John Tullar. Tullar, who also heaves the shot put for the Nittanians, threw the disc 161' 9½" in the Buckeye dual meet, his longest throw of the season.

Stickmen Play Cornell

The Nittany Lion stickmen and star attackman Bill Hess will be out to better two Penn State records in their last away game of the year at Cornell this afternoon.

The team will be out to even its 5-6 season record in the contest with the hope that next Friday's home game with Penn will make it a winning season.

Hess has shown, by his superb play in Tuesday and Wednesday's two-game trip against Rutgers and Lehigh, why he received All-American honorable mention last year as a sophomore and is seriously considered for first-team "AA" honors this year.

In those two away games, the southpaw stickman hit for ten goals and raised his season output to 38, only three short of the record 41 goals he set last year. The previous scoring record, set in 1948, was 23.

Hess' midweek scoring feat is all the more outstanding when one realizes that he is playing with a broken right thumb on his control hand. The injury made him miss the Maryland game a month ago and contributed to his low output of four scores in three games. He is still playing with a special cast on his right hand.

On the defense, senior goalie Jimmy Houck has already set a new Lion lacrosse standard of 227 saves by a goalie in one season. The Lion net master is shooting for the top save record among the nation's goalies. He's been averaging over 20 saves per game.

The 1956 honor went to Syracuse's Oren Lynons with 274 saves. Houck has two games in which to better his total of 228.

Lion Coach Earnie Baer said that Cornell is one of the few teams on his schedule that is having "just an average season." He said, "We are at full strength, but Cornell will have two psychological advantages in the game.

"First, they will be playing at home," explained the coach. "And second, they will be out to avenge a loss to us last year."

Baer figures the Big Red should be easy to score on since they allowed Penn eight goals in a 15-8 victory over the Quakers. In anticipating a high-scoring contest, Baer expects this to be the game in which Hess breaks his own scoring mark.

If so, Lion fans will have to be content with seeing Hess add to the record in the season finale next Friday against Penn on Beaver Field.

Incidentally, Baer is taking little chance of losing to Cornell. He took former Lion lacrosse mentor, Nick Thiel, along on the trip as a good luck charm.
