Altoona to Receive Ag TV Programs

A micro-wave relay transmitter was placed on the roof of Willard Hall yesterday to transmit agriculture programs through the summer from the University to Altoona.

The Agriculture Extension in cooperation with WFBG-TV in Altoona will televise programs daily from June 3 to Sept. 14.

Later this week the rest of the equipment, which will transmit both sound and picture, will be installed.

There is a direct line of sight from the transmitter to the receiver in Altoona. The transmitter was placed on Willard because it is one of the few spots on campus where a direct line of sight could be found.

The format of the programs consists of farm news, market reports, weather reports, consumer information, interviews, guest speakers and demonstrations by specialists.

Eight counties including Mifflin, Juniata, Huntingdon, Centre, Clinton, Blair, Bedford and Clearfield will participate in the programs.

The programs are scheduled from 12:30 to 1:00 p.m. Monday through Friday and from noon to 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

The programs will be broadcast from the campus Monday through Thursday; however, Friday and Saturday the programs will come directly from the studios in Altoona.

Application Deadline Set For Elections Committee

Tomorrow is the deadline for students to apply for the All-University Elections Committee.

Application forms may be filled out at the Hetzel Union desk. About 15 students will be selected for the committee.

New Officers' Names

The names of the new officers of all organizations must be at the Hetzel Union desk before Friday, if the group is to be listed in the Hetzel Union Directory for 1957-58.

12 Students Receive Evan Pugh Awards

Five seniors and seven juniors were presented the Evan Pugh Scholarship awards yesterday afternoon by Dr. Franklin B. Krauss, president of the honor societies council and head of the Department of Romance Languages.

Those honored were:

James B. Anderson, senior in chemical engineering from State College; Ronald Eisenhauser, senior in mechanical engineering from Topton; James Foyle, senior in education from Kent, Ohio; Robert D. Jones, senior in business administration from DuBois; Edward Wickersham, senior in dairy science from West Grove.

Winners Listed

Four of the five seniors, Anderson, Foyle, Jones and Wickersham were winners of the Evan Pugh awards in their junior years.

Senate Selects Winners

The 12 winners of the awards were selected by the University Senate Committee on Scholarships and Awards, approved by President Eric A. Walker and ratified by the University Senate.

The selection of the Evan Pugh scholars is mainly based on scholarship, said Dr. Krauss.

The award medals are given annually by the honor societies council. The council, founded in 1922, is made up of the honorary societies based on scholarship. Shortly after its formation, the council established the Evan Pugh awards.

Thunderstorms, Cool Forecast

Today's prediction calls for cool weather with partly cloudy skies and thundershowers are expected tonight.

The Nittany Lion, however, was oblivious to the weather this morning, and was working frantically. Yesterday, he decided to visit the Nuclear Reactor, along with the visiting Latin-American scientists.

Since the protective clothing was not designed for lions, his tail was exposed to the atomic radiations, and last night as he was returning home, he noticed with alarm that it was glowing.

A quick check in the University Hospital revealed that the glow would soon fade, so The Lion decided to charge admission to see it for as long as the phenomenon lasts. Today's 55-60 degree temperatures are just right for setting up his prize exhibit.

Sugar, pineapple and tourists are the leading industries of Hawaii, in that order.
