Mass Expansion Planned For Students, Turkeys

By DENNY MALICK

The University is conducting a mass project of expanding and improving housing conditions for men, women and turkeys.

No one—or thing—is being left out in the big construction project on campus with plans for expansion ranging from new men's dormitories to new brooder houses for turkeys.

The big project started last year is the construction of four women's dormitories and a dining hall for the area. The project, financed by the University, is nearing completion and officials hope to have the entire five-building unit finished by the spring semester, barring any unforeseen holdups.

Facilities for men are to be expanded with a quadrangle of four new dormitories and a dining hall along Park Avenue near the water tower. Contracts have been let for the projects.

To Build Bakery

The increase in enrollment also necessitated plans for an addition to the food service building located beside the golf course. When completed the new portion will house an enlarged bakery and added facilities for staples and frozen foods in addition to offices.

Several projects are being planned under the General State Authority, the borrow-and-build branch of the state government.

Buchart Engineering Corporation, York, has been contracted to design four new agriculture buildings including a turkey brooder house, turkey breeder house, meats laboratory and swine facility.

New Military Building

The York firm has also been commissioned to plan a military science building and an addition to Home Economics South. Detailed plans are being developed and bids are expected to be out by the end of the year. Tentative completion date for the two buildings is September 1959.

The GSA has also contracted with Howell Lewis Shay and Associates, Philadelphia, for planning a new three-story engineering building, an addition to Sackett Building and a petroleum refining laboratory.

The engineering building will extend from the main gate on the

Tryouts Set For Music Groups

New students interested in participating in musical activities may report this week for tryouts for any of six different organizations.

They are the Chapel Choir, open to men and women; the Glee Club, open to men; the Women's Chorus; the Marching Blue Band, open to men; the Concert Blue Band, open to men and women, and the University Symphony Orchestra, open to men and women.

Students interested in trying out for Chapel Choir may make an appointment Wednesday or Thursday in 216 Carnegie.

No appointments are necessary for tryouts for the Glee Club. They will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow through Thursday in 200 Carnegie.

Women's Chorus tryouts will be held from 9 a.m. to noon Wednesday through Friday in 214 Carnegie. A definite appointment should be made in 216 Carnegie.

Tryouts for both the Marching and Concert Blue Bands will be held from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Wednesday through Friday in 109 Carnegie.

Candidates have been asked to make an appointment in 109 Carnegie and to bring their own instrument for the tryouts if possible.

Students should make an appointment in 107 Carnegie if they plan to try out for the University Symphony Orchestra. If possible, candidates should bring their own instruments to the tryouts, which will be held from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 4 p.m., in 107 Carnegie.
