

AIM Governs Indies; IFC Rules Fraternities

As soon as a male student enrolls at the University, he automatically becomes a member of the Association of Independent Men.

AIM is the student government organization of approximately 6000 men.

Within the next few weeks, male students living in residence halls will elect unit officers and the president will serve on the area council. The area councils are West Halls, Nittany and Pollock. A fourth group, Town Independent Men, deals with upperclassmen living in State College.

Councils Sponsor Events
The area councils sponsor social events and discuss the many problems confronting the area.

The president, vice president, secretary and treasurer of the councils and one representative-at-large for every 500 students in each of the areas, represent the areas on the supreme governing body of AIM the Board of Governors.

This board, according to the AIM constitution has "the power to enact any legislation resolutions, recommendations or appropriations that concern the Association of Independent Men or two or more councils thereof."

AIM Officers
Officers of AIM are John Morgan, president; Bruce Pellnitz, vice president; Louis Wonderly, secretary, and Dean Frey, treasurer.

Any independent man having a problem concerning student government may bring it to the AIM-Leonides office in 203 Hetzel Union.

Students having suggestions for improvement of AIM should leave them at the office.

AIM is a member of the National Independent Student Association, a nation-wide organization of colleges and universities, which discusses student problems.

In conjunction with the national group, AIM will hold a NISA week during the year. This will be a week of festivities aimed for the independent student.

Interfraternity Council, governing body for fraternities, is composed of the president of each house, or in case of absence, a substitute delegate.

Each fraternity has one vote on council proceedings.

IFC elects its own president, vice president and secretary-treasurer, with the president being a member of All-University Cabinet.

The president appoints the chairman of all committees, including Greek Week, scholarship, rushing, workshops, executive committee and the board of controls.

Exec Committee Functions
The executive committee serves as an administrative board, authorizing all council expenditures not provided for in the budget.

The board of control enforces regulations the council establishes, determines when a violation of these regulations has taken place and administers penalties for violations. A two-thirds vote of the council is necessary to rescind any action taken by the board of control.

IFC usually meets twice a month at a place and time which are designated by the president. Any fraternity which is absent from two successive meetings is fined ten dollars, while any fraternity which is absent from three consecutive meetings or five meetings during the academic year is suspended from the council.

Sponsors Rushing

IFC also sponsors a rushing program which enables students to visit fraternities in which they may be interested.

This year's IFC officers are James Hart, president, Thomas Schneider, vice president and Stephen Higgins, secretary-treasurer. O. Edward Pollock, assistant to the dean of men in charge of fraternity affairs, is adviser to the group.

The fraternity affairs office is located on the second floor of Hetzel Union Building.

'Outers' Hunt, Hike and Hook

The Outing Club serves as a focal point for organized outdoor activity.

The club consists of three divisions: Cabin and Trail, Field and Stream and Winter Sports.

Last year's membership was 600, but is expected to surpass that figure this year, according to club officers. Members of the club are automatically entitled to the activities of all divisions.

The Field and Stream division promotes hunting and fishing expeditions during the spring, while the Cabin and Trail group sponsors hikes, cabin parties and a field day. Members of the latter division are most active during the fall semester.

The Winter Sports division operates a ski tow and trail system on Bald Top Mountain near Boalsburg. Other activities include ice skating parties and skiing trips to New England.

Debate Teams Call For New Members

Students interested in public speaking, travel and debate competition with other universities can develop their talents as members of the Men's or Women's Debate squads.

These two groups, organized and run separately, will visit five to 10 schools this year to debate on the national debate topic: Resolved, that the requirement of membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment should be illegal.

Both debate clubs may be scheduled for 0 to three credits each semester. Late registration is permitted at the office of the Department of Speech.

Meeting Announced

A preliminary meeting for students interested in trying out for the Men's Debate group will be held at 7 p.m. Sept. 25 in 316 Sparks. Requirements for membership and the national debate topic will be discussed.

At a meeting at 7 p.m. Oct. 2 in 316 Sparks, each candidate will deliver a 5-minute speech in the affirmative or negative on the national debate topic.

Freshman members of the club will enter a novice tournament at Dickinson College, Temple University and Duquesne University later this year.

Schedule Given

A tentative schedule for the upperclass squad members has been set at the University of Vermont, Miami University or Notre Dame University and the North-South Tournament at the University of West Virginia.

Meetings are held Wednesday nights at which the members engage in intrasquad debate. Manager of the Men's Debate team is Robert W. Adams, senior in business administration from Johnstown.

Women to Meet

A meeting of women interested in debate will be held Sept. 29.

At a later meeting tryouts will be held in the form of a 5-minute speech on the national debate topic.

Scheduled debates this year will take place at the Pitt Cross-examination Tournament, the Eastern Forensic Association Debate Tournament, the Mt. Mercy Tournament and the Grand National Debate and Forensic Tournament.

Meetings are held for upperclasswomen on Tuesday nights and for freshman on Wednesday nights.

Manager of the Women's Debate team is Mary Ann Gemmill, junior in education from New Cumberland.

Two Courts Discipline 'Bad Boys'

The University—attempts to stay a step ahead of the future "bad boys"—has set up two student disciplinary courts.

The courts hear the tales of males who have strayed from the "straight and narrow" despite counseling.

Misconduct cases are heard by Tribunal or the Association of Independent Men Judicial Board of Review. The former mainly hears cases involving upperclassmen living off campus and the latter chiefly handles the woes of freshmen in residence halls.

The boards may either drop a case, forward it to the dean of men's office without action, or recommend office probation, disciplinary probation or suspension.

Sentences Given

Males who receive office probation must report to the dean's office for informal chats as long as the dean deems it necessary. However, no record of the action is entered on the student's transcript.

Males who receive disciplinary probation are barred from participating in campus activities and a permanent record is entered on his transcript.

Finally, the male receives a suspension sentence and is forced to withdraw from the University. Suspension varies in length depending on the severity of the case.

Chosen by Board

Tribunal appointees are selected by the dean of men's office, the All-University vice president, the Tribunal chairman and secretary, and one member of the faculty or administration.

Appointments are made by a system of application and interview, subject to the advice and consent of All-University Cabinet.

Judicial appointments are made by a similar system conducted by the Association of Independent Men Board of Governors.

Sr. Advisory Board to Meet

The Senior Class Advisory Board will meet at 8:15 tonight in 215 Hetzel Union to discuss senior activities this year.

Library Adds Books to Open Shelves

With new classroom buildings and residence halls appearing on campus, the Fred Lewis Pattee Library has also had some changes with the result that more books are now on the open book shelves.

The reading rooms on the first floor of the Pattee Library have been reorganized to provide subject arrangement of basic books. Previously there was a reserve book room in the Library, where students went after first checking the room where their subject book was located.

Under the present system, all books of the same subject matter, whether on reserve or not, will be located in the same room. This system, devised by Mrs. M. Spangler, assistant librarian in charge of reader service, will do away with the expense and extra time given to shifting books from open book shelves and back.

Will Eliminate Crowd

This new system will also eliminate the heavy concentration of readers in the former Reserve Book Room, which became too great for that room to accommodate.

Most of the books are arranged by call number on open shelves so that the students have direct access to them. Closed reserves will be in each area. An author catalogue of books on the shelves is available and also lists of books on reserve for each course.

Renewals Forbidden

Books on open shelves will circulate for periods of one day, three days or seven days and may not be renewed. Since books in these areas are in great demand, there will be no "long" or semester charges.

A 2-hour reserve service will still be offered for those books used by large numbers of students, and these books will be kept on closed stacks and serviced from the desks.

In 1872, tuition at the University was made free and students were granted permission to room and board outside the building.
