

New Committees Named For Stone Valley Projects

President Eric A. Walker has appointed committees to determine policies concerning the development and operation of the proposed Stone Valley Recreational Area.

Plans are being made for the construction of a dam on Shaver Creek in Stone Valley to provide a lake that would be the center of a large recreation area. The site chosen is a 6000 acre tract that the University now owns and uses for instructional and research purpose.

The chairman of the Stone Valley Policy Committee is Maurice K. Goddard, on leave as director of the school of forestry to serve as state secretary of forests and waters. The committee will take initiative in planning new policies or in passing judgment on requests for changes in present policies.

Committee Named

Others on the policy committee are Benjamin A. Whisler, professor and head of the department of civil engineering; Frank M. Swartz, professor of paleobotany and head of the department of geology; Ossian R. MacKenzie, dean of the college of business administration; Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the college of physical education and athletics; and Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, assistant to the president for student affairs.

William C. Bramble, professor of forestry and head of the department of forest management, will head the Stone Valley Management Committee, which will handle the daily operations of the entire forest area under policies set forth by the Stone Valley Policy Committee. Bramble will be assisted by designated members of the staff of the school of forestry.

McCoy Heads Committee

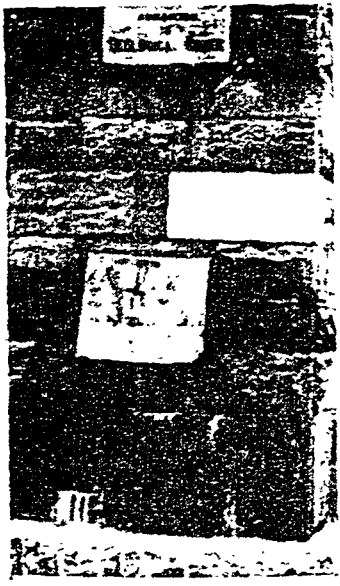

The Committee for Stone Valley Recreation Lake Development will be headed by Dean McCoy and other members. This committee has the responsibility of planning for the development of facilities, working policies and procedures for the Recreation Lake area under the broad policies laid down by the Policy Committee. It will work with the management committee on the coordination of operational details.

Other committees include the committees which operate the forestry camp, civil engineering camp and the mineral industries camp as well as various research and instructional projects of the school of forestry in Stone Valley. According to officials, all committees will continue as in the past and may be increased or disbanded as circumstances dictate.

Cosmopolitan Club Party

The Cosmopolitan Club will hold a cabin party today at the forestry cabin. Cars will leave from behind Old Main at 1, 2 and 3 p.m.

The party will include games, a panel discussion, dinner, slides and dancing.

General Ed Courses Added to Scheule

Three courses, Arts I, Humanities I and Social Science I, were added to the University schedule this semester to provide additional opportunities for students to achieve the objectives of general education.

The Arts and Humanities courses are open to all undergraduate students. Social Science I is recommended for juniors and seniors. Arts II, Humanities II and Social Science II will be offered in the spring semester with a prerequisite of the first course in the particular field.

A fourth course, Biological Science I, will also be offered in the spring semester.

Arts I and Humanities I may be taken without continuing with the second-semester course, but students are advised not to schedule Biological or Social Science I unless they intend to take the second-semester course.

Special sections of Humanities I are designed on an experimental basis for freshmen in liberal arts who are exempted from English Composition I to "stimulate them intellectually," according to Richard C. Maloney, assistant dean of the College of Liberal Arts. Composition work will be included in these sections for students who lack experience in writing on a college level.

Arts I and II is an introduction to the arts through the study of a selected number of major works of painting, sculpture, architecture and the theatre arts. Emphasis will be placed on demonstration and performance as a method of teaching rather than the conventional lecture and textbook method.

The humanities courses are designated to invoke in the student an understanding, appreciation and skill in analysis of works of literature and philosophy. Social Science I and II are aimed at developing and stimulating in the student a spirit of inquiry into the nature of self and society, and applying concepts and criteria of evaluation to human behavior.

The biological sciences courses will cover the underlying biological principles which make man's existence possible, enabling him to appreciate his prominent position in the living world. The principles and concepts presented in these courses will be illustrated with slides, films and models along with lecture demonstrations.

Strict Traffic Rules To Be Enforced

Traffic and parking regulations on campus will be more strictly enforced, effective immediately.

Col. Lucien E. Bolduc, chief of the Campus Patrol, said warning notices rather than "tickets" were issued to violators last week because many students had not yet been issued permits.

Student violators will be summoned before Traffic Court. Faculty and staff violations will be handled with a system of warnings and fines by administrative officers of the University.

LINUS

Linus is Lucy's baby brother who finds security in sucking his thumb and holding a blanket against his face. He craves for independence, only to be utterly baffled when he finds it. And his occasional flashes of competence bring added laughs to Peanuts comic strip, beginning Tuesday in The Daily Collegian.
