

Hosterman Unimpressed Harriers Sport Another King By 'Big' Scrimmage

PER TORGESON, second team all-America soccer choice last autumn, practices his goal shooting during evening drills on the soccer practice turf. Torgeson will be out to take individual scoring honors when the booters open at Bucknell, Saturday.

Back in 1932 Charlie King captained the Lion cross-country team to an undefeated season. Today, his son, Chick, is one of the most promising prospects on the 1957 edition of the Nittany harriers.

After being ineligible for cross-country last fall, King is a welcome addition to this year's harrier squad, according to varsity Coach Chick Werner.

"As a freshman, King was just an ordinary runner. He couldn't break 4:30 in the mile that year, but made terrific progress as a sophomore last spring," Werner said. King ran outdoor track last year.

King's finest 1957 effort came in the IC4-A outdoor championships at Randalls Island. He covered the mile in 4:18 to win one of the two heats in the event. He also has run the half-mile in 1:55.

"He is quite a promising prospect but still has a long way to go," Werner said. "He has a fine attitude toward running."

King believes that the speed-repetition workouts, prescribed by Werner last spring, were a major factor in his progress.

King thinks that this year's harrier squad will be one of the best in recent years. "The added strength of last year's freshman team and a year's experience of last year's sophomores (Ed Moran, Fred Kerr and Clem Schoenebeck) should give us a stronger unit than last year," he said.

"We will have to be tough, though. There isn't an easy meet on our schedule. Navy, Cornell, Michigan State, Pittsburgh and Manhattan are always tough," he said.

Corduroy Returns!

That's right, corduroy has returned to the fashion spotlight. All style-conscious men are adding corduroy fashions to their wardrobes. You too should join these fashion setters with a CORDUROY SUIT from Danks.

Our full line of corduroy suits includes these three eye-catching colors, antelope, olive, and charcoal.

These suits are Ivy League even to the smallest detail, which includes leather trimmed pockets.

To match the leather trimmed pockets are leather buttons which help you retain that "Ivy" look in your wardrobe.

The pocket flaps may be worn in or out.

The suit jackets are lined with either a foulard pattern or the traditional Ivy League stripe.

This suit is also an economical buy for corduroy "wears like iron" and your suit will wear for years and years.

The price of the suit is even "Ivy" for it is tapered for collegiate pocketbooks—only $27.95.

Burgoon Wins Fraternity IM Golf Crown

Larry Burgoon, Lambda Chi Alpha, won the fraternity intramural golf championship over the weekend on the University links.

Burgoon carded an opening round 73 on Saturday and a 3 under par 70 on Sunday for a decisive margin over Phi Kappa Sigma's Molloy. Burgoon's second round score was tops for 18 holes.

Following Molloy's 149 were Muse, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Phi-Sigma Delta's Rosenblum at 152; Bell, Phi Sigma Kappa, 155; Schmid, Pi Kappa Alpha, Riley, Delta Tau Delta and Kunkel, Lambda Chi Alpha, 157; and Donahoe, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Trimmer, Phi Delta Theta and Foht, Sigma Nu, 160.

Independent play ended in a tie between Hoiler and Thomas. Each golfer shot a 76-77-153.

Penn State and Nebraska will resume their football rivalry in 1958. They last played in 1952.

Parker Continues Steeler Shakeup

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23 (AP)—Coach Buddy Parker continued his drastic shakeup of the Pittsburgh Steelers today, firing four players and hiring two.

The players fired included three veterans—quarterback Ted Marchibroda, center Jim Taylor and guard Art Michalik.

The fourth man dismissed was Harland Carl, a halfback recently acquired from the Chicago Bears.

Parker picked up two players from the Los Angeles Rams in exchange for future draft choices. They were guard Sid Fournet and halfback Dean Derby.

Johnny Michelosen, Pitt's hardened grid pilot, wasn't the only coach with troubles Saturday afternoon. Penn State's soccer mentor Ken Hosterman had them too.

However, Hosterman's fits of frustration came on the practice field and not on the playing turf.

Hosterman held his first "big scrimmage" session Saturday (that is where the potential first team tangles with the substitutes) and the results were anything but pleasing.

"We were certainly off color," the Lion foreman commented yesterday. "Maybe it was the weather and maybe the boys are just overworked. It was awful hot and humid."

"I think it was just a bad day all-around. (Take heed Mr. Michelosen). We scrimmaged for about an hour and 15 minutes and the boys looked alright for the first half hour. But they lost all their steam after that."

Hosterman went on to list his biggest disappointments of the day: "They just stood around and watched the ball come to them instead of moving for it. And they certainly lacked teamwork. They have to get better than they were Saturday if they want to have a good year."

"But I guess it (the scrimmage) wasn't too bad when you consider that the first team was playing together as a unit for the first time. And from the standpoint of playing together, the team was almost brand new."

Hosterman's "brand new" A team lined up with Don Dougald and Jerry Bruce splitting the goal tending duties; Ralph Brower and Paul Bauer at fullbacks; Wayne Rodgers, Gary Miller, and Walt Krauser at halfbacks; and Lou VonRafelghem, Ihor Chuzow, Per Torgeson, Pete Wadsworth, and Jim Hockenbrock on the line.

The B squad, which officially won the scrimmage tilt, consisted of Ralph Becker and Jim Pratt at the goal; Tony Tremonte, Bob Sterner, Bill Stober, Jim Knipe, and Dick America sharing the fullback roles; Ed Bankowski, Herb Hertner, and Fred Kocher at halves; and Bruce Walsh, Warren Kline, Mike Kush, Jim Benford, and Jerry Barber on the forward wall.

THE ORIGINAL BOER BOOTEE

Inspiration for Clarks Original Desert Boot, the Original Boer Bootee, is a primitive shoe worn by the early Dutch settlers in Namaqualand—now part of South Africa—before 1840. Clarks refinement, the Desert Boot, brought to North Africa by the "Desert Rats" of El Alamein, is indeed the "World's Most Traveled Shoe."
