

4-Day Schedule Retained For 1958 Encampment

All-University Cabinet voted 17-7 last night in favor of retaining a 4-day Student Encampment.

This was opposed to the 3-day encampment recommendation made by Harry Martini, 1957 encampment chairman, in his encampment report.

Some Cabinet members felt that shortening encampment one day would cut out nothing but the time that was wasted.

Five Profs Will Retire On Tuesday

Five faculty members of the College of Agriculture will retire on Tuesday.

They are Ernest W. Callenbach, professor emeritus and head of the Department of Poultry Husbandry; Dr. Robert S. Kirby, professor emeritus of plant pathology extension; P. Thomas Ziegler, professor emeritus of animal husbandry; J. Stanley Cobb, associate professor of agronomy; and Dr. William F. Hall, professor emeritus of agricultural education.

Callenbach will be succeeded by Dr. Arthur J. G. Maw, professor of poultry husbandry. Callenbach has published numerous papers on his research in poultry breeding, nutrition and poultry marketing during the last 32 years. He also was active in founding the State Poultry Federation and in the affairs of the University Senate.

Kirby, who retires after 33 years service, has had wide experience in the state in plant disease work.

Ziegler has been in the Department of Animal Husbandry for 37 years. His book, "The Meat We Eat," designed as a college text, has had wide popular appeal. Two years ago he received a plaque for outstanding service in the field of meats from the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Cobb came to the University in 1919 and is well known for his research on potato quality.

Hall joined the agricultural education staff in 1921. He has instructed many high school teachers in the state.

The American Petroleum Institute has presented a grant of $48,000 to the University for continuation of fundamental research in the College of Chemistry and Physics.

The grant, which was an increase of $4000 over the grant received last year, marked the beginning of the seventeenth year of research on the project.

Dr. Joseph A. Dixon, associate professor of chemistry, is in charge of the project, which is concerned with the synthesis and properties of the high molecular weight hydrocarbons.

Others said this was not wasted time. They said this time was valuable for informal discussions of the problems at hand among the workshop members.

Some said a 3-day encampment schedule would crowd the workshops together and make them longer. This would cause inefficiency as members would tire.

An amendment to the recommendations is intended to provide a better method of placing delegates in workshops. Under this provision workshop agendas will be made up in advance of interviews so that persons may interview for specific workshops within their scope of interest.

A second amendment provides that workshop chairmen and delegates hold a preliminary meeting in the spring to consider and assign topics for summer research. Previously, topics were not assigned to individuals so that exhaustive research could not be accomplished. This will enable delegates to contribute more in workshop discussions.

Martini, in presenting the encampment evaluation report, said that some members of the University administration were "amazed" at the knowledge that the delegates had of University matters.

In the report itself, Martini said, most persons said they "learned of problems and facts and gained valuable acquaintances" at encampment.

930 Students Get Tickets For Concert

The 930 tickets for the George London concert which were made available to students at 1 p.m. Wednesday were gone by 1:30 p.m. yesterday.

Tickets for non-students will go on sale from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. today and at the same hours Monday at the Hétzel Union desk.

If any tickets remain on Tuesday morning they will be available to students from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the HUB desk.

The concert, second in the student-sponsored Artists' Series, is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in Schwab Auditorium. Doors will open at 8 p.m.

London, a bass-baritone with the Metropolitan Opera Association, was born in Montreal and raised in Hollywood. He had his first major singing role in Albert Coates' Gainsborough. He then made a cross-country tour highlighted by appearances with the San Francisco Opera.

He made his debut with the State Opera in Vienna in 1949 in the title role of "Don Giovanni." He returned to New York two years later to make his Metropolitan debut as Amonasro in Verdi's "Aida."

Last winter he sang the title role in "Eugen Onegin" on the Met's 1957 opening night. Other roles he has sung with the Met include Count Almaviva in Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," Lindorf, Coppelius, Dappertutto and Dr. Miracle, the four villains of Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman," and The Speaker in Mozart's "Magic Flute."

London will return this week from Europe where he has been making appearances on both the opera and concert stage. He will then begin a concert tour in this country, with the University as one of his first stops.

The average pencil can draw a line 35 miles long.

Grad Convocation To Hear Pitt Dean

Dr. Putman Pennel Jones, dean of the University of Pittsburgh's graduate faculty will speak at the annual convocation for graduate students and faculty at 7:30 tonight in Schwab auditorium.

President Eric A. Walker will deliver welcoming remarks at the Graduate Student Association-sponsored event after the invocation by Luther H. Harshbarger, University chaplain.

Dr. Harold K. Schilling, dean of the Graduate School, will then introduce Jones, who will speak on "New Dimensions of Graduate Study."

Following Jones' talk, John Early, president of the association, will speak to the graduate students on the responsibilities of the Graduate Student Association.

A mixer-dance will be held in the Hétzel Union Ballroom following the meeting. Admission will be free and refreshments will be served.

At the mixer, each college will elect its representatives to the association for this year.

The association, made up of three representatives from each of the nine colleges, is the graduate students' voice in University administration. It meets once a month to discuss graduate student problems.

In addition to its primary function as a voice in University administration, the Association also publishes the "Graduate Newsletter" and the "Unofficial Guide to Graduate Life" and holds four dances a year.

It has also helped to place many graduate students in housing.

It will hold its first meeting of the year at 7 p.m. Nov. 30 in 18 Sparks to elect officers.

Dispensary Bows To Health Center-But Only in Name

The dispensary is no more! That once favorite topic of conversation among students has ceased to exist, in a sense.

In its place has come the Student Health Center.

Both the hospital and dispensary operations will in the future be known as the Student Health Center.

President Eric A. Walker said Dr. Herbert R. Glenn, director of Health Service and University physician, will have the title of director of the Health Center.

The institution, with its improved and expanded facilities, now is recognized as an approved hospital by the American Hospital Association.

Two Services To Supplement Sunday Chapel

Two weekday services of worship, as well as the Sunday Chapel, will be conducted by the Office of the Chaplain during the fall semester.

The weekday services will be held at 4:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays in the Meditation Chapel of the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel. All the services are open to students and townspeople.

Faculty representatives of all denominations will give the meditation in the Tuesday service. The Rev. Preston N. Williams, assistant chaplain, will be the presiding clergyman. He also will conduct the first Vesper Service Tuesday.

The Thursday services will be conducted according to the form of worship of each religious group. The services are designed to broaden the faith of the worshiper by giving him an opportunity to become acquainted with the distinctive patterns of worship employed by the Jewish, Catholic and Protestant churches.
