

Booters Play Like Vets In 10-0 Bucknell Win

By LOU PRATO
Any indications that the 1957 Lion soccer edition would falter this season because of an "almost brand new" starting array was completely dispelled at Lewisburg Saturday afternoon.

For in devastating Bucknell by a 10-0 count in the '57 lidlifter, the Nittanics displayed a type of teamwork usually associated with a veteran outfit.

There were seven new men in starting roles for the Lions but not many of the 100 partisan Bucknell fans could believe it. "They play like they've been together for years," said one irate Bison follower.

Even the score doesn't tell the full story. Coach Ken Hosterman's boys coupled a well-groomed offensive with a razor-sharp defense as they chalked up 47 attempted goal shots while limiting the Bisons to a mere two—one in each half. In addition, the Lion charges garnered 18 corner kicks to Bucknell's two.

But it was the presence of five "rookies" making their debuts in Penn State soccer togs that actually accounted for the Lions' superiority. At least they were outed as "rookies" but they looked more like five Yogi Berras in a World Series.

Led by sophomore flash Bill Fiedler, four of those fledglings accounted for four-fifths of the total goals. Fiedler tallied three, Howie Maierhofer and Ihor Chyzowych reaped two each and Lou VanRafelghem collected one.

And the only reason the other yearling, Gary Miller, didn't bag a point is because of his position—center halfback, a relatively defensive slot.

Senior Walt Krauser, a three-year Lion vet, and 1956 second team all-American Per Torgeson booted the other Penn State goals.

However, it was Maierhofer, a junior transfer from Buffalo, who stole the show. The husky left halfback was literally "all over the field" displaying his offensive and defensive wares. Hosterman summed up Maierhofer's performance with three words: "Howie was tremendous."

The Lions started slow, claiming only three goals in the first half on 21 shots, but they settled down in the last session, registering seven goals on 26 attempts.

"It took us a little time to get started," the Lion mentor exuberantly commented after the game, "but then we really let go. Our victory sure makes me feel better."

Maierhofer tallied the first goal of the year with a bullet shot from 25 yards out after 1:40 had passed in the first period. But the Lions didn't score again until Per Torgeson's 15-yarder stopped the clock with 8:20 left in the second quarter.

Fiedler's first goal—a head shot in front of the net—on a pass from Torgeson, made it 3-0 just before the half.

It was soon after the intermission that a Penn State victory was inevitable. Chyzowych tallied his two goals just after the third period began (5:10 and 7:21) and the rout was on. Maierhofer, VanRafelghem, Krauser, and Fiedler (2) finished the scoring in the final stanza as Hosterman cleared the bench.

3 Forecasters Tie for Lead In Football Poll

The returns from our first football poll find the contestants packed closer than the defense on a goal line stand.

Vincenzo Vince Carocci, Lucky Lou Prato, and the coaches, via Rip Engle, share the lead with 8-7 marks and a .533 percentage. Magnificent Matt Mathews came out three and three on his six "independent" picks for a 7-8 mark (.467).

Mathews called the shots on the North Carolina, Auburn, and UCLA victories. Engle picked North Carolina State, 43-13 conquerors of Maryland.

In our teaser of the week (no more teasers on orders of the boss), California Polytechnical beat New Mexico A & M, 10-8. Everyone had picked A & M. Better luck next week, fellas.

A Vanderbilt football team will oppose Penn State for the first time at University Park, Pa., Oct. 19.
