Braves Shut Out Yankees, 1-0 On Single in Sixth by Adcock

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 7 (AP)—Fidgety Lew Burdette blanked the New York Yankees with seven hits today 1-0 for his second World Series victory as the Milwaukee Braves took a 3-2 edge at the end of five games.

Joe Adcock, benched yesterday because of a severe hitting slump, drove in the only run of the game off Whitey Ford in the sixth with a line single to right following singles by Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron.

Mathews, whose 10th inning homer won Sunday's game, rolled a high hopper toward second baseman Jerry Coleman. The veteran didn't charge the ball but waited for the hop and Mathews just beat his throw to first base.

Aaron dunked a single into short right field that fell between oncharging Hank Bauer and the back pedalling Coleman. With two out, Mathews was running with the hit. He easily reached third.

Adcock, who had bounced into a doubleplay last time up and had only two series hits in 14 previous at bats, rapped Ford's second pitch into right as Mathews romped home.

Burdette, 30, a right-hander who once worked for the Yanks before he helped carry the $50,000 to Boston for Johnny Sain in 1951, didn't walk a man. He struck out five, including the first two batters in the ninth.

After that Gil McDougald rolled a single into center field. Then Burdette forced Yogi Berra to pop to Mathews for the game-ending out.

A grinning Burdette was virtually mobbed by his eager mates who rushed from the dugout to pump his hand and rub his college-style crewcut.

The crowd of 45,811 was slow to leave as though reluctant to see the Milwaukee end of the series finished.

Both teams flew to New York shortly after the game. They will work out tomorrow, an off day for travel purposes in the series schedule. The sixth game will be played Wednesday at Yankee Stadium.

In sharp contrast to the other two games here that were loaded with homers and extra base hits, every one of the 13 hits in this game was a single. Andy Pafko and Aaron each had two of the Braves' six off, Ford, and Mathews and Adcock had the others.

Scientists Seek Orbit of Satellite; Heard in Area

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—American scientists, working with complex mechanical brains, reported varying results tonight from their efforts to establish the orbit of the Soviet earth satellite.

[The satellite was also reported heard—and seen—from University Park and the surrounding area.

[Dr. Charles Hosler, head of the Department of Meteorology, said he saw what he believed to be the satellite about 7 p.m. Friday over Tussey mountain.

[Radio signals from the satellite were reported heard over the University's short wave radio station and over two other stations in Centre County.]

The Navy reported: "The Naval Research Laboratory minitrack system is now producing very satisfactory data."

"They are being fed to the IBM computer machine at the computing center . . . and the quality of the resulting orbit information will enable us to give scientifically accurate minute-by-minute predictions for alerting the optical and radio tracking systems."

Moonwatch scientists at Cambridge, Mass., first reported they, too, were making good progress with their computations, but later said they had run into difficulties.

They gave two possible reasons for failure of their $2,742,000 mathematical brain to hit upon the Red moon's orbit:

Lion, Campus Advocate Ousting Fraternity-Indie Rotation Plan

By PAT EVANS
(Related Story on Page Five)

Lion and Campus parties have interrupted their political maneuvers to join forces in advocating the elimination of the fraternity-independent rotation system.

The present system was put into effect last semester with an All-University Cabinet amendment to the Elections Code. The code now prohibits an independent man from opposing a fraternity man in any election.

It states that the All-University president and secretary-treasurer shall be of the same

35 Pledge To Uphold Honor Code

Thirty-five women students pledged themselves to "abide by and faithfully uphold the rules set by the University and WSGA" Sunday night in an initial move to establish an honor code for women students.

The Honor Code is the result of work started a year ago by the Women's Student Government Association officers and personnel in the office of the dean of women. They said they believed a code would encourage high standards in living and academic work.

The pledge is: "I pledge myself to abide by and faithfully uphold the rules set by the University and WSGA while under the jurisdiction of the University. I will withdraw this pledge if I find myself unable to keep it."

Miss Kersh cited the example of several colleges of the many investigated with honor codes—Syracuse University, Western College for Women and the University of Vermont—where evidence was found that all codes took years to develop to their present extent.

Membership in the Honor Code will be available, starting Thursday in the WSGA office in the Hetzel Union Building, to any co-ed who believes she would be willing to live up to its standards. The first call for participants was made to members of hat societies and women's governing groups.

A list of members will be kept in the WSGA office and will be available only to members of the code.

A violator of the code is expected to report herself to proper authorities for infraction of rules and receive the same penalties as other undergraduate women. Any participant who sees another flagrantly violating any regulations will be expected to remind her of the self-imposed responsibility she has assumed.

affiliation each year, with the All-University vice president and senior class president of the opposite affiliation. The offices held by independents one year ago go to fraternity-affiliated students the next year.

Clique chairmen William O'Neill, of Lion Party, and Gary Young, of Campus Party, have buried the political hatchet to issue this joint statement of policy:

"We believe the Penn State political party system and you, the student, will meet the need by abolishing the outdated, unworkable and unfair rotation system as soon as possible. A Student Encampment proposal to study the matter is now before Elections Committee."

"Any words or letters you can address to the Committee's members, to your class, dormitory, fraternity, college council, or All-University officers or to The Daily Collegian will help win an open, free and fair election this year."

The following reasons were given in the statement for asking that the rotation system be eliminated:

- "A free election would give the students the widest possible choice in picking their leaders.

- "It would enable students to choose the most qualified person, regardless of affiliation, to head All-University Cabinet.

- "It would deny no student the right to be considered for All-University president because of his affiliation or the year of his birth.

- "A free election would greatly reduce apathy toward student government for the reasons listed above and because both independents and fraternities would take a more active part in protecting their own interests.

- "It would eliminate an unwieldy and unrealistic system which many other colleges and universities throughout the country have discarded as out of date.

- "A free election would create a greater awareness of student government, its purposes and functions, throughout the student body and the administration.

- "It would serve as a sound basis for good citizenship in the years following graduation, when all elections will be free and open to unlimited choice."

Lion Predicts Cloudy Skies

Today's prediction calls for warm temperatures with partly cloudy skies and a predicted high of 65-70 degrees.

The Nittany Lion was nowhere to be found this morning. A search revealed that he spent the entire morning attempting to make contact with the new space satellite.

He announced that he plans to contact Moscow and inform them of the weather situation here.

Although the Lion has not had any disagreements with the University Weather Station recently, he claimed that "the weather here is atrocious" and that possibly the predictions could be improved with the aid of the satellite.
