

Frizzell, Marking 76th Year, Remains 'Busier Than Ever'

By LYNN WARD

John Henry Frizzell celebrates his 76th birthday today. And since his retirement as University chaplain 11 years ago he has been busier than ever.

Frizzell, University Chaplain Emeritus, holds the distinction of having served as Chaplain for the longest period of time in University history.

He was appointed in 1928 and served until his retirement in 1946.

Since then he has written approximately 1660 prayers, which appear daily on the front page of the Centre Daily Times. Commenting on these prayers, Frizzell said they are not all original. He reads books of prayers and adapts them. Through these, he said, he has done a lot of praying for other people. So today, on his 76th birthday, his prayer is one for himself.

Frizzell also edits a weekly 2-page bulletin for the Rotary Club and a 10 to 18 page quarterly for the Retired Staff Club.

He came to the University in 1902 as an instructor in English. At that time, he said, there were about 600 men and three women students on campus. Daily and Sunday Chapel services were held in the west wing of the original Old Main and these services were compulsory for all students.

Frizzell, an Episcopal layman, worked with Episcopal students from 1905 to 1911, organizing religious services and socials.

He was appointed associate professor of English in 1914. In 1920 he resigned to become principal of the Reading High School, but was asked to return to the University in 1926 to organize speech courses and serve as head of the Department of Speech.

In addition to his many other activities, Frizzell is national ritual officer in his fraternity, Phi Kappa Psi. He was primarily responsible for the foundation of the University chapter of Phi Kappa Psi in 1912.

On the eve of his birthday he remarked, "It's been a busy and good life."

Ed College Orientation Day Planned

Plans for an education orientation day, designed primarily to acquaint high school students with the facilities of the College of Education tentatively have been approved by the Education Student Council.

Letters of invitation will be sent to high school principals in the state, according to Ruth Johnson, chairman of the program.

The schedule for the orientation day includes registration in the morning followed by a panel discussion and tours of the campus.

The program would be closed by one or two prominent speakers. Nancy Grenninger, junior in elementary education from Davidsville, said freshman elections for the council have been set for Oct. 30 and 31.

First- and second-semester freshmen must nominate themselves. Applications are available in 101 Burrows and at the Hetzel Union desk.

Applications must be submitted by Oct. 25. A 2.4 All-University average is required for second-semester freshmen.

Three amendments to the constitution were approved on the second and final reading. The council voted to elect council members by departments instead of at large, to require students running for council to submit wallet size photos for use at the polls, and to forbid students who have been removed from council for non-attendance from running again.

Brubeck Tickets Still Available

Tickets for the Dave Brubeck Jazz Concert are still available to students at the Hetzel Union desk.

Distribution of the student tickets was scheduled to end at 5 p.m. yesterday. Since 930 tickets were left at that time it was decided to continue student distribution today.

Tickets will be available from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. today and tomorrow.

Five hundred tickets will be on sale to non-students at the same hours today but only from 9 a.m. to noon tomorrow. The price of these tickets is $1 each.

Students need their activity-identification card and pick up the tickets. Full time graduate students may also get student tickets if their name is on a list at the HUB desk.

Racial Issue to End In Bipartisan Win

By BILL JAFFE

The political winners in the racial segregation problem will be individuals within both parties, and not one party in particular, according to Dr. Frank J. Sorauf, assistant professor of political science and adviser to the Young Democrats Club.

Sorauf was one of four faculty members who discussed domestic affairs Tuesday night on an Intercollegiate Conference on Government panel.

The party which will gain the most will vary according to the section of the country, but the advantage the Democrats had gained during the civil rights battle in Congress will probably be lost, Sorauf said.

"The Republicans didn't exploit their chances to the fullest in the North," said Dr. Ruth C. Silva, associate professor of political science.

Dr. Silva, who introduced the problem to the panel, said she believes the Little Rock situation is a prelude to what will happen in the rest of the Deep South when integration is forced upon it.

What leadership will be offered by the political parties in helping solve this problem still remains a big question, she said.

Dr. Silva said that if anything, the Little Rock incident stiffened resistance to integration in the deep South and if an outbreak of violence had not occurred in Little Rock, it probably would have occurred somewhere else.

She also called the Negro vote the balance of power in 11 Northern states. She said it commands 242 electoral votes, far more than do the southern states.

Dr. R. Wallace Brewster, professor of political science, said labor unions are not clean of segregation problems but labor in the North has "pretty well licked" the problem. The unions in the South are not integrated, Brewster said.

When asked if the southern political leaders would consider splitting the Democratic party to form a third party, Sorauf said, "the formation of a third party is not probable because politicians in the South have too much to lose by bolting the Democrats."

He said these include seniority rights in Congress, committee chairmanship, and strong political support in their home states.

It is not so much the legal battle the Justice Department is worried about, but for more than a year now the department has been aware and worried about the threat of violence in the South, Dr. Silva said.
