"Tradition Demands Quality"

Lion will elect these officers of the freshmen and sophomore cliques: chairman, vice-clique chairman for men, vice-clique chairman for women, secretary and treasurer.

Peter Fishburn, chairman of All-University Elections Committee, has announced that students who have registered as party members may pick up their party cards at tomorrow's meeting.

Matriculation cards must be shown to get the party cards. Fishburn said no other identification will be accepted.

Party members will be seated in the center section of the clique meetings and will vote for the internal clique officers. Students who register tomorrow night will not receive party cards until the next meeting they attend and will not be able to vote. They will sit in a non-voting section.

Students who registered for party membership at either of the two previous meetings of the cliques and who are not able to attend this week's meeting may get their party cards at either of the next two meetings.

The deadline for registration will be the meeting for preliminary candidates' nominations. Students registering then may receive their party cards at the meeting for final nominations.

Fishburn said both party cards and matriculation cards must be shown for entrance to final nominations meeting.

Both Campus and Lion steering committees will meet at 2 p.m. tomorrow, Campus in the Hetzel Union Building and Lion in 203 Willard. Preliminary reports will be given by committee chairmen.

Elections committee will meet at 2:15 p.m. tomorrow in 10 Sparks. The committee will approve a date schedule for nominations of candidates, campaigns, reviewing of party platforms, elections and meetings with clique officers before and after elections.

SUSPENSION STORY—Chuck Steger, M.E. '52, probing dynamic properties of new Air Spring developed by Von Polhemus (L.). A nationally recognized authority on suspension systems, Mr. Polhemus directs Structure and Suspension Development Group of GM's Engineering Staff, helps guide Chuck in his professional career.

Because engineering is a profession at GM
—we offer you a career—not a job

ONE REASON engineering standards at General Motors are so high is that GM recognizes engineering as a profession. And the men who engineer the many different products made by General Motors are respected for the profession they practice.

That is why, when you are invited to join General Motors as an engineer, you don't simply take a job—you start a career.

It is a career that is rewarding both professionally and financially—starting on your first day of association with General Motors at any one of its 35 divisions and 126 plants in 70 cities and 19 states.

During your early days at GM, for example, you work with a senior engineer who guides your career along professional lines.

You are also actively encouraged to pursue your education towards an advanced degree. For we at General Motors recognize that, in doing so, you will become more valuable to us and the engineering profession.

You are given the opportunity to obtain professional recognition through participation in engineering society forums, presentation of technical papers, winning of patents and other recognition of your accomplishments.

And you are also encouraged to take an active role in your community's affairs—because a truly professional man is a good citizen as well as a good engineer.

All this is for a reason—and a good one.

Many of the men who will fill the key positions at GM in the future are the young engineers joining GM today. This is not theory, it is fact: For 14 of our 33 Vice-Presidents are engineers, 23 of our 42 Division General Managers are engineers, too.

Today we are looking for young engineers—such as you—who may fill these positions tomorrow. The rewards—both professional and financial—are substantial. If you feel you have the ability, write us. It could be the most important letter of your life.

June graduates!

A General Motors Representative will be on hand to answer questions about job opportunities with GM.
