Penn State halfback Dave Kasperian rejoined his starting team cohorts against William & Mary for the first time in the fourth quarter Saturday with the Lions trailing, 13-7. When the final gun sounded, Penn State won, 21-13, and Kasperian was credited with igniting the spark that placed the Nittanians in the winners' circle.

Operation Performed On Sharp

An operation was performed Sunday to reduce the dislocation of the neck of George "Larry" Sharp, freshman in the division of counseling from Drexel Hill, who was paralyzed from the neck down in a fall on the trampoline Friday in Recreation Hall.

Dr. Leonard F. Bush of the Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, where the operation was performed, said Sharp remains in a "guarded" condition. The operation relieved some of the pressure on the neck but did not relieve the paralysis.

Dr. Bush said the student was conscious and in "very excellent spirits." He said the doctors are hoping to relieve the paralysis, but in cases of this type where pressure is on the neck, the paralysis often remains.

The Danville doctor said no visitors are allowed to see Sharp, except for his family, because of the amount of apparatus surrounding the patient.

Sharp was rushed to the Danville hospital Friday afternoon after his fall in a physical education class. He was taken to Danville because the hospital has special equipment to handle such injuries.

Sharp's injury was officially described as a "fracture-dislocation of the seventh cervical vertebra in the neck."

Brubeck Tickets Remain at HUB

A total of 356 tickets will be available to students today for the Dave Brubeck jazz concert, to be held Sunday night in Recreation Hall.

The tickets will be available from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Hetzel Union desk.

Tickets also will be on sale to non-students at the same hours. These tickets cost $1 each.

Running with the determination of a stampeding bull, the 25-year-old ex-serviceman led the Lions on a 56-yard scoring thrust that regained the lead for Coach Rip Engle's contingent for the second and last time of the day.

With the Lions starting their drive on their own 44 after the William & Mary kickoff, Engle substituted Kasperian for starter Bruce Gilmore. From then on it was his ballgame.

Aided by excellent blocking, Kasperian carried the ball eight times for 36 yards before fullback Emil (Babe) Caprara finally tallied the tying marker from three yards out at 3:50. Caprara also booted the conversion—his second of the day—for the winning point. But it was Kasperian who told the tale.

He ripped off gains of eight, two, nine, four, four, two, five and two in his eight carries to put the ball on the Indian 11 with second down coming up. Caprara burst up the middle for eight and then scored the TD.

The Lions added a clinching TD some nine minutes later on a four-yard pass from quarterback Al Jacks to halfback Andy Moconyi. Caprara converted, the game was finally decided and

Hospital Treats 500; 'Room Care' Used

More than 500 students suffering from colds, grippe and fever received medicine yesterday at the University Health Center and were told to return to their rooms and remain in bed.

More than 120 students by 2 p.m. filled the infirmary, which ordinarily has a capacity of 60 beds.

Accreditation Report

Purposes Praised By Middle States

Lawrence E. Dennis, vice president for academic affairs, said the Middle States Accreditation Team in 1955 hailed the University as having "one of the finest of statements on purposes and objectives for the guidance of an institution."

The statement of purpose, Dennis said in an article for the October Alumni News, was adopted by the University Senate in preparation for the visit of the Middle States team.

The visitors, Dennis said, were "particularly gratified" to note the stress placed on the University's services to the state:

- "The maintenance of an instructional program that provides educational opportunities, professional and non-professional, at all levels of higher and adult education, wherever need for such opportunities within the state exists."

- "Graduate instruction."
- "Emphasis on research."
- "Dissemination through various media of the knowledge the University acquires and discovers."

The team had other praise for the University, Dennis said. He said it praised the leadership and the program of the Graduate School.

The Division of Intermediate Registration—now part of the Division of Counseling—and the expanded student counseling program were commended, Dennis said.

He said the team also praised the quality of many academic departments, the condition of the physical plant, high morale among the members of the faculty and staff, future planning, academic freedom, tenure, security benefits, students government and financial operations.

In its report, Dennis said, the team "emphasized the importance of General Extension and urged greater support and greater autonomy" for the centers.

It also urged, Dennis said, a "continuation of the University's policy of exercising its role as the state university, and of providing leadership to education in Pennsylvania."

Students Tutors Available

Nittany Council Asks Retention Of Rotation

Nittany Council last night went on record as opposing recommendations by Campus and Lion Parties that the present fraternity-independent rotation system for electing All-University officers be abolished.

Five votes were cast against the motion to resist the change. The total affirmative vote was not immediately available.

No one other than council members spoke on the issue.

A similar vote to disapprove the parties' stand was taken last week by the Town Independent Men Council. The TIM vote was 14-9.

John Morgan, president of the Association of Independent Men, spoke in favor of rotation system at the TIM meeting. William O'Neill, Lion party clique chairman, spoke against it.

Both parties have received unanimous endorsement of dropping the system from their members.

The council also elected Norman Samino parliamentarian.

The Council appropriated $50 to the start of a small bi-weekly newspaper for the Nittany area. An attempt will be made to secure a pay-phone for the area, since the dormitory phones cannot be used after midnight, it was reported.

Du Pont Man to Speak In Eisenhower Chapel

William Galloway from the Du Pont Company will speak on production management in the chemical industry at a meeting of the Society for the Advancement of Management at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Kappa Sigma.

Ike, Scientists to Discuss Satellite

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower will take up tomorrow with leading U.S. scientists the problems of this country's satellite and ballistics missiles program.

Meeting with the President will be members of his Science Advisory Committee, which reports to him through the Office of Defense Mobilization.

It is headed by Dr. Isador Rabi, professor of physics at Columbia University.

The White House conference was announced as the Soviet Sputnik spun around the globe for the 10th day.

The Centre County Moonwatch team reported sighting the satellite about 6:18 a.m. yesterday.

David C. Whitmarsh, head of the team, also reported seeing the third stage of the rocket, which he called "real bright."

The Operation Moonwatch was established about a year ago to track the U.S. satellite when it is launched.

However, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said the conference was arranged some weeks ago—before Russia launched its satellite. But he added he is certain the President and committee members will discuss the satellite and missile situations.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo), former secretary of the Air Force, said the United States must take immediate steps to catch up with the Soviets.

Symington told a news conference that while Russia does not now have an operational intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM), it would have one within two or three years capable of attacking any part of the United States.

On the other hand, he said, under present programs the United States would not develop such a weapon for four to six years.

Symington said one step the United States must take is to eliminate overtime restrictions on defense contractors while another is to junk the 38-billion-dollar defense spending ceiling imposed by the Eisenhower administration.

He renewed a previous suggestion that Congress be called into special session.

Liquid diet meals are being distributed to rooms of ill students. Women students have been asked to cancel reservations for weekend guests in the residence halls.

The hospital wards have overflowed into the waiting rooms. Sixty extra beds have been borrowed from the Department of Housing.

Hospital officials said about 500 students were treated over the weekend and reported a line of students still seeking treatment about 10 p.m. last night.

None of the cases has been diagnosed as Asiatic flu. The Health Center is awaiting blood diagnosis results which, officials said, take about a month to complete.

Dr. Herbert H. Glenn, director of the Health Center met with dormitory hostesses yesterday afternoon to arrange for feeding of the ill students in residence halls.

The students will be kept on a liquid diet for at least 24 hours. The meals, consisting of such foods as soup, juices and tea, will be distributed by Food Service, in cooperation with the hostesses and the ill students' roommates.

Glenn plans to meet with men's residence hall counselors tonight.

He said yesterday he does not believe the prevalence of respiratory diseases on campus approaches epidemic proportions. He said the numbers of sick students so far have not greatly exceeded the numbers in former years in proportion to the total student body.

In other part of the state, Lehigh University at Bethlehem yesterday announced suspension of classes for two weeks.

Lion Foresees Sunny Weather

Today's prediction calls for sunny weather with a slight rise in temperature.

The high will fall within the 65-70 degree range.

The Nittany Lion, upon hearing today's forecast, decided that a round of tennis was in order. He announced he would enter the IM tennis tournament as a dark horse and probably beat the other contestants badly.

However, after fifteen minutes on the court the exhausted Lion decided to go into retirement as a tennis player and join the chess club, where he plans to show his superior mental skill.

Syracuse Tickets Will Go on Sale

A limited number of tickets for the Lion-Syracuse football game will go on sale at 8:15 a.m. tomorrow at the ticket office in Recreation Hall.

Edward M. Czekaj, assistant business manager and ticket manager, said tickets would be on sale from 8:15 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday.

Czekaj also said that a large supply of tickets for the Lion-Vanderbilt game still are available. They will be on sale the rest of the week.
