

'Flu-Bitten' Stollmeyer Will Miss Colgate Fray

By LOU PRATO

That "respiratory bug" hasn't halted classes yet but it has indirectly helped soccer Coach Ken Hosterman to alleviate his week's "biggest" problem.

He no longer has to worry about fitting junior veteran Mike Stollmeyer into his starting array against Colgate tomorrow. Stollmeyer "solved" that by "catching" the flu.

You may recall that Stollmeyer—a regular inside last season—had been on the sidelines for the Lions' first three tilts because of an ankle injury suffered in pre-season drills. He was expected to make his first 1957 start tomorrow and thus cause a mild turnover of the soccer team's first alignment.

"That poor guy," Hosterman said yesterday. "First he can't play because of that ankle injury and now this. That's a blow to us. We were counting on him."

It now appears that Hosterman will revert back to his opening season lineup. That means that sophomore Lou Van Rafelghem, absent from last week's Syracuse exhibition because of an ankle injury suffered in the Maryland fray, will return to his left wing spot. And Ihor Chyzowych, Van-Rafelghem's replacement last Saturday, can shift back to his regular inside left post.

Hosterman, in commenting on tomorrow's tussle, said:

"I think Colgate will be a hustling ball club. They always have been in the past, especially up there."

The key words to this statement are "especially up there," for the record proves Hosterman correct. The Lions have never lost to their current foe (this sounds like old stuff) in 15 games played since the series began in 1941.

But, and its a big but, in eight victories at Colgate, six have been by one-point margins, one by two points, and the other by three points.

That three-point conquest came in a 5-2 decision posted by Bill Jeffrey's unbeaten but once tied (8-0-1) 1949 eleven. Ironically, Hosterman's brother, Ralph, captained that club. The two-point spread came two years later when another Jeffrey-coached machine rapped the Raiders 3-1.

Under Hosterman, the Lions have turned in 1-0 and 2-1 scores.

"I think this year's game will be as close as the others," the booter mentor said. "They are a very aggressive team and they won't stand around and wait for the ball. It should be quite a scrap."

Football Tickets Remain on Sale

A large supply of tickets remain on sale for tomorrow's Penn State-Vanderbilt football game, according to Edward M. Czekaj, ticket manager.

The tickets will be on sale at $4 each from 8:15 to noon and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. today and from 8:15 until noon tomorrow at the ticket office in Recreation Hall.

Students will have until noon today to purchase tickets for the Penn State-Syracuse grid battle to be played at Syracuse Oct. 26. More than 300 tickets still are available.

Reservations Allowed For H-Ball Play

The College of Physical Education and Athletics will again reserve the use of Recreation Hall handball and squash courts for this school year, Glenn N. Thiel, director of the University's required physical education program, announced.

Thiel said the reservation program would follow the following rules:

1. Reservations may be made by calling Rec Hall Extension 2087 between 4 and 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and between 1 and 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. The phone will not be in use at any other time.
2. Courts will be reserved on a one-hour basis starting on the hour.
3. Reservations may not be made more than 48 hours in advance.
4. Players must be on time. A court will be held for 10 minutes, but this time will be included in the hour.
5. After 10 minutes, courts will be assigned to anyone waiting.
6. If players are waiting, only foursomes may play. The person in charge may fill out foursomes.
7. The squash courts will be reserved for squash players only.
8. Courts not in use will be assigned to waiting players. Playing time will be only for the remainder of the hour.

Calhoun to Fight Veteran Castellani

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Rory Calhoun, a 23-year-old middleweight contender with a deep yearning for a title shot, and Rocky Castellani, a 30-year-old onetime challenger, clash tomorrow in the first boxing card in the famous battle pit at Madison Square Garden in seven months. Calhoun, ranked third by Ring Magazine and fifth by the NBA, is a 3-1 favorite.

Frosh Gym Candidates

Coach Gene Wettstone yesterday issued a call to all candidates for the freshman gymnastic squad. All interested should report any time between 4 and 6 p.m. to Wettstone's office in 234 Recreation Hall. Wettstone emphasized that no previous gymnastic experience is necessary but candidates should be in good physical condition.

BUTTON-DOWN WINSOCKII

College students love shirts with button-down collars, but we've never known exactly why. So Van Heusen's research department asked around and got the following answers.

L.B. Senior at Mass. Institute of Entomology. "The buttons keep things from crawling under your collar. Or, if things do crawl under your collar, the buttons prevent them from crawling out again."

D.D.E. Freshman at Horatio Alger Tech. "You get more buttons so I figure the shirt is more valuable. Is it?"

B.P. Junior at the Pale School of Tonsorial Arts. "They're cooler! Wisps of air blow through the little hole in the button and keep my clavicle at a refreshing temperature."

P.S. Senior of Makemoney's Correspondence School. "I'm a neurotic. With Button-down shirts I can wear one side buttoned and the other side unbuttoned, thereby giving the effect of wearing two types of shirt at one time. Oh help me, help me!"

Z.J. Graduate student at the T.S. Swinburne School of Beautiful Experiences. "Buttons remind me of pearls. Pearls remind me of oysters. Oysters remind me of indigestion. Indigestion reminds me of my doctor. My doctor reminds me of his nurse. She's gorgeous. Gorgeous! So the more buttons the better."

Yes, there's agreement that button-down collars are the thing. And there's further agreement that Van Heusen is the king of Button-down stylists. Just take a look at Van Heusen Oxfordians next time you're in the market for shirts. You'll see immediately why they're famous. $5.00.

Influenza 'Kayoes' College Grid Card

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Influenza is throwing many college football teams for a loss this week, with some games cancelled and many teams weakened by the spread of the flu bug.

Officials decided to cancel a night game Saturday at Des Moines, Iowa, between Drake and Colorado State. In Pennsylvania, Washington & Jefferson called off its game with Thiel, while the Slippery Rock State Teachers College's homecoming game with Western Reserve was cancelled. Johns Hopkins' at Haverford, Pa., and Juniata's at Lycoming also were canceled.

Illness of players and students at Bowdoin forced cancellation of the Maine school's game with Williams. In New York State, Hensselaer Polytechnic Institute cancelled its game with Union College. The Omaha-Bradley game was also canceled, as was the Brandeis-Springfield contest.

Wheaton, Ill., scheduled Kentucky State to replace Illinois Wesleyan, while at Valparaiso, Ind., classes at Valparaiso University were closed and a decision was to be made today whether to go ahead with Saturday's homecoming game with Butler.

Squads of both West Virginia University and George Washington, who play tonight at Washington, D.C., were hard hit. This is an important game for West Virginia, seeking its fifth-straight Southern Conference title.

Also heavily hit was Washington and Lee, which meets Randolph-Macon. Both Syracuse and Nebraska, who meet Saturday at Lincoln, Neb., reported key players down with the flu.

Penn State's first all-America football player, William T. "Mother" Dunn, still lives in retirement in the Hawaiian Islands.

IS THAT YOU- ON THE BOTTOM?

Could be! Like the low man on the totem pole, you're helping to carry others. Every time you pay your electric bill, you help buy electricity for those who get it from federal government power plants.

That's because these people pay only a fraction of the taxes in their electric bills that you pay in yours—and you have to be taxed extra to make up the difference.

Is this fair to you and other customers of America's independent electric companies?
