

Cliques Will Ballot For Nominee Slate

The political volcanos will erupt tomorrow night when Campus and Lion parties vote for their slates of nominees for sophomore and freshman class officers.

Final nominations of candidates and elections of nominees will be held at the clique meetings at 7 p.m. tomorrow. Campus party will meet in 10 Sparks and Lion in 121 Sparks.

Fifty DOC Students Vie For Council

More than 50 students have nominated themselves for 20 seats on the newly organized Division of Counseling Student Council.

DOC elections will be held along with four other council elections Oct. 30 and 31 at a booth in the Hetzel Union Building. President James Stratton on Thursday told members of Inter-College Council Board that students in DOC will vote for five or ten of the candidates. The exact number will be determined by All-University Elections Committee.

Members of Elections Committee will sit at the polls and count ballots Oct. 30 and 31 during the voting for freshman representatives to the councils. The committee will be assisted by Alpha Phi Omega, men's national service fraternity, and Gamma Sigma, women's service fraternity.

Seven of the 10 student councils will hold elections next week.

Two of the seven will hold voting in classes attended by the colleges' freshmen. The other five councils will have polls in the HUB and in the building occupied by the colleges' offices.

Matriculation cards will be punched as students vote.

Susanne Smith, Women's Student Government Association president, discussed the proposed big-little sister program at the ICCB meeting. She said the program will be set up by WSGA and coordinated through the student councils.

Each council president was asked to appoint a representative to attend a meeting to plan the program. The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. Oct. 30 in 209 Hetzel Union.

In the past, the meetings when nominees are chosen have been marked by intense struggles among intra-party factions supporting different candidates for the nominations.

Peter Fishburn, chairman of the All-University Elections Committee, said no registration of party members will be held at the clique meetings. Students who registered at a previous meeting but have not obtained party cards may do so tomorrow night at the door.

Matriculation cards and party cards will be required for admission to the meetings, Fishburn said.

Final nominations and elections will be held for the parties' nominees for the following offices:

Sophomore class president, vice president and secretary-treasurer; and freshman class president, vice president and secretary-treasurer.

Elections Committee will distribute ballot to be used in the voting. The committee will meet at 6:15 p.m. in 10 Sparks to discuss procedure for the clique meetings.

Campus party's steering committee will meet at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Hetzel Union Building. The publicity committee will meet at 3 p.m. in the HUB.

Lion party's steering committee will meet at 2 p.m. tomorrow in 203 Willard. Campaign and publicity reports will be given at the meetings.

Model Railroad Club to Meet

The Model Railroad Club will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in 212 Hetzel Union.

ALMOST $300 DAMAGE resulted yesterday afternoon behind McElwain Hall when a University panel truck driven by John Kephart collided with an auto operated by Emory White, special student from Pleasant Gap. Two other cars were slightly damaged in the accident.

Steamed-Up Auto Windows Cause Four-Car Accident

Steamed-up windows on a parked automobile apparently caused a 4-vehicle accident yesterday afternoon behind McElwain Hall.

Three cars and a University panel truck were involved in the accident at 2:05 p.m. yesterday.

Captain Philip A. Mark of the Campus Patrol said Emory White, special student from Pleasant Gap, pulled from a parking space behind McElwain in order to check for traffic since he was unable to see because of the steamed windows of the car next to him.

As the White auto moved from the parking space it was struck by a panel truck driven by John Kephart, University employee, traveling north behind the dormitory.

The right front of the truck hit the left front of the White car and dragged the auto into the car on its right, Mark said.

As the White vehicle was struck by the truck, the rear end of the car swung around and hit a fourth auto parked on its left.

Mark said White's car was damaged extensively along the left side and also was dented on the right front door. The right front of the truck and the hood were damaged extensively.

Mark estimated the damages as $200 to the White car, $150 to the University truck, $35 to the auto on the left of White which was dented on the right paneling, and $1 to the car on White's right, which had a broken tail light.

Confucianism Confused With Religion

By MARIE RUSSO

Confucianism is not a religion, although it is regarded as such by most people in the western world, according to King Chen, graduate student in political science from China.

Chen spoke Thursday night at the Hillel Foundation in the first of seven lectures in the Hillel cultural series on the great religions of the world.

He defined Confucianism more correctly as being "everything from one person's conscience."

This conscience follows the "one principle of right." Everything must concur with the principle.

Chen described Confucianism as "not a materialistic idea at all."

He said the political idea of Confucianism is government by man, not written law. This idea has been deeply imbedded in China through many years of rule by emperors.

Chen noted that now in China, the rule is by man rather than law. He said laws would not work because "people do not have the tradition which must be acquired by training. People cannot jump from government by man to government by law overnight."

Confucianism recognizes patriarchal rule as most desirable. This "rule from the top" explains how government by man was so successful.

The combination of political philosophy and ethics was combined in this ruler, he said. Because of this, the king regarded his dynasty as his family, and ruled them through his knowledge of the "right principle."

The final characteristic of Con-

Confucianism, Chen said, is toleration. This idea is manifested in passive resistance rather than active revolt.

Chen called toleration a "conservative idea," and "may hinder progress."

Chen said Confucianism has served to develop civilization and has contributed to "good government" in its time.

He also said he believes Confucianism tended to isolate China philosophically. This tended to promote commercial and political isolation which Chen said has served as a hindrance to the nation.
