

Jacks Hurt in 20-12 Lion Win

QB Separates Shoulder, May Be Out for Season

Penn State emerged from its victorious 20-12 football effort over the Syracuse Orange Saturday afternoon at Syracuse, N.Y., with a dismal, yet hopeful outlook for the future.

In short, here's what the Lions saw happen as a result of the contest:

On the dismal, and more important, side:

37 Remain At Hospital; 'Worst Over'

With only 37 students in the hospital and only six students having box breakfasts in their rooms yesterday, the worst seems to be over in the health situation on campus.

Dr. Herbert R. Glenn, director of the University Health Center, said there was little or no pressure on the hospital over the weekend, and medical service at both the hospital and dispensary was now about normal.

In line with the improvement, Dr. Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the College of Physical Education, has ordered swimming classes to be resumed.

The upswing in health has been partly attributed to the cold, relatively dry weather, which makes it hard for the virus to incubate. Glenn has asked, however, that students continue to take every precaution to avoid any new outbreak.

More than 2000 children were reported absent from schools throughout Centre County yesterday.

Hardest hit were the State College area schools, with 834 of 2424 elementary pupils reported out.

Six persons were reported being treated in Centre County Hospital yesterday for respiratory illnesses.

The latest unofficial count of flu-connected deaths in the state was 82 yesterday. The toll includes four more deaths at the Pennhurst School for Mentally Retarded Children in Chester County.

Soph Slips in Shower, Suffers Cut on Head

Jane Livingston, sophomore in mathematics from Cokesburg, was rushed to the infirmary in the University ambulance about 8:05 last night after she fell in a Thompson Hall shower and cut her head.

1. The loss of quarterback Al Jacks with a shoulder separation for an indefinite period of time, perhaps for the rest of the year.

2. The loss of guard Willard (Bull) Smith probably for the West Virginia game Saturday and perhaps longer.

3. Clear evidence that the Lion pass defense needs definite improvement for future encounters.

On the hopeful side:

1. Coach Rip Engle saw his gridders give their first full 60-minute concentrated effort of the season—something he had been aiming for since the opening game with Pennsylvania.

2. The arrival—temporarily, at least—of alternate unit quarterback Rich Lucas.

3. A strong performance by Engle's alternate unit, perhaps its best to date.

Now, for details.

On the dismal side, Jacks hurt his right shoulder with only minutes remaining in the second quarter. He did not play at all in the second half. Later examination showed that he had separated his shoulder and he was sent yesterday to the Danville Hospital to have a pin inserted in hopes that it may help him to recover earlier.

The prospect for him to play in the near future is very dim and it is feared that he will be out for the rest of the season.

Smith, who did not play against Vanderbilt because of an attack of the flu, injured his left knee early in the first quarter and missed the rest of the game. Engle said that he, too, is a very doubtful competitor for the Mountaineer game. However, it is hoped that guard Richie McMillen, out since the Army game with some fractured ribs, will be ready come Saturday.

Finally, Syracuse scored its two touchdowns through the air—making six of the last seven TD's against the Lions to come on passes. Engle realizes that this is one of his biggest problems and will most likely stress it in practice.

Of pass defense, he said: "It was much, much better (compared to the Vanderbilt game) ... don't forget, that boy (Orange

Five Lion Posts Contested; Campus Nominees Elected

A total of 165 Campus party members Sunday night nominated three candidates by acclamation and three by ballot for its slate for the fall elections.

Steven Ott, sophomore in labor management relations from Westfield, N.J., was nominated for sophomore class president, and George Thompson, freshman in business administration, from Washington, D.C., was Five of the six posts on Lion party's slate for fall elections were contested at the meeting Sunday night for election of the party's nominees.

The 179 clique members at the meeting elected William Surgner, physical education major from Fort Washington, the party's nominee for freshman class president. Donald Smith, labor management relations major from Tyrone, was elected nominee for sophomore class president.

Members of All-University Elections Committee refused to announce the number of votes each candidate received. "All that really matters is who won," said Peter Fishburn, chairman.

Howard Wolfley, business administration major from Enola, was unopposed in his bid for the nomination as sophomore class vice president.

Clique chairman William O'Neill said Wolfley had expressed a desire to run for the sophomore presidency. However, according to the All-University Elections Code, the president must be a fraternity man. Wolfley is an independent.

"This is a perfect example of what I've been attacking in the past few weeks," O'Neill said. He referred to the fraternity-independent rotation system provided for in the Elections Code.

John Fenimore, business administration major from Wayne, became the party's nominee for freshman class vice president; and Ruth Noble, political science major from Ardmore, the nominee for freshman class secretary-treasurer.

Nancy Kress, elementary education major from Pittsburgh, was elected to run for the position of sophomore class secretary-treasurer.

Competition for positions on the freshman slate was keen. Surgner defeated Benjamin Meledandri and Robert Mitchell for the presidential nomination.

Three hopefuls lost bids to become the party's nominee for vice president. They were Eugene White, James Fleck and Robert Umstead. Losing candidate for the freshman secretary-treasurer nominee were Linda Goldman and Penelope Atkinson.

Sophomore candidates who lost the nomination were Vincent Marino, class president, and Jacquelyn Ralston, secretary-treasurer.

Young Republicans to Meet

The Young Republicans Club will meet at 7 tonight at the club's headquarters on College Avenue.

Nittany Council Votes to Favor Pitt Holiday

Nittany Council last night went on record unanimously as favoring a half-holiday for the Pittsburgh football game weekend.

The council will bring the motion either before the Association of Independent Men Board of Governors or, if that organization fails to meet before the weekend, to John Morgan, AIM president to ask that it be taken before All-University Cabinet.

President James Macinko said a joint meeting of Nittany and Pollock councils will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in 203 Hetzel Union. The meeting, the first of this type held in recent years, will be for the purpose of planning joint activities in the areas for the rest of the semester.

Also to be considered is the termination of Pollock Council, since all but three Pollock living units will be demolished at the end of the semester. These units will then join the Nittany area.

Committees were set up to plan for mixed dinners with coeds and for an informal Nittany Council mixer.

A motion that all malicious damage in the dormitories be paid for by the council out of its yearly appropriation was overwhelmingly defeated.

2500 W.Va. Tickets Remain On Sale

About 2500 tickets remain for the Penn State-West Virginia football game on Beaver Field Saturday.

Tickets will be on sale for $4 each from 8:15 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4:30 p.m. today through Friday and from 8:15 a.m. to noon Saturday at the ticket office in Recreation Hall.

Edward M. Czekaj, ticket manager, also said tickets for the Lion-Marquette game will go on sale Wednesday morning at the ticket office.

Student Tells Budapest Story

The story of the bloody Hungarian revolution, as remembered one year later by a student freedom fighter, appears on page 4 of today's Collegian.

Miklos (Nick) Kolumban, now a freshman in hotel administration, tells of the Budapest uprising as he lived and saw it. Kolumban fled from Budapest in the end of November and came to the University in March.

The Hungarian revolution will also be dramatized this week by a photographic exhibit in the Hetzel Union Building.

Entitled "The Road to Freedom," it includes more than 50 photographs of Hungarian refugees taken by James P. Blair, a Pittsburgh free lance photographer, on a U.S. Information Agency assignment last year.

Zhukov Said Facing Disgrace

LONDON, Oct. 28 (AP)—Reports reaching London and Paris from Moscow today said Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov has been fired from the ruling Presidium of the Soviet Communist party and is facing disgrace.

These reports are completely unofficial. They come from members of Western diplomatic missions in Moscow. But indications were that Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev had called an urgent meeting of the party Central Committee, probably to affirm Zhukov's ouster as defense minister. Censorship blocked correspondents' efforts to file any hard news from Moscow. It appeared to be the most thorough censorship invoked since the Stalin era.

It was considered possible Khrushchev was repeating his performance of last June, when he summoned the full party Central Committee to confirm the purge of Georgi Malenkov, Lazar Kaganovich and V. M. Molotov from their party and government posts. Khrushchev apparently had been outvoted in the party's ruling Presidium—then a nine-member Politburo—but a hasty meeting of the Central Committee bucked him and turned the tide against those accused of being part of an "antiparty group."

It seemed likely Khrushchev was calling the signals again and this might mean a new shakeup in the Kremlin hierarchy. There was some speculation that a place was being cleared for Zhukov, but this idea was fast losing favor among Westerners who scented disgrace in the portents surrounding Zhukov's dismissal.

The announcement that Zhukov was "relieved" of his Defense Ministry and succeeded by Marshal Rodion Malinovsky came in a curt two-sentence announcement Saturday night. No official comment has been forthcoming from the Kremlin, nor have party newspapers commented directly on Zhukov's future.
