Phi Kappa Sigma, SPE, TKE Cop IM Grid Wins

By MIKE MAXWELL

Tom Phillips was the magic man for Tau Kappa Epsilon last night. Phillips, a kicking specialist for the TKE grid squad, kicked the extra point that gave his team a 13-12 victory over Phi Sigma Kappa in intramural football last night and advanced it into the IM quarter-finals.

Phi Sig was the first team to score on TKE this year. They broke the ice in the late minutes of the first half when Joe Moore received a TKE punt and threw 65 yards to Parker Elridge for a touchdown.

Trapped deep in their own territory in the early minutes of the first half, TKE reverted to a punt. Jack Jackowsky booted a high spiral kick 60 yards downfield to Phi Sig's 14 yard line. Phi Sig fumbled and three TKE's were in on the play to recover the ball.

Two plays later, Herb Ludwig fired a 14-yard bullet pass to Dick Jacobs to knot the score. The conversion attempt was no good.

After the kickoff, Phi Sigma Kappa moved the ball downfield to the TKE 13 yard line. On the next play Moore threw a touchdown pass to Joe Sullivan to give Phi Sig a 12-6 lead with 2 minutes left to play.

TKE then began to work rapidly with time running out. They moved the ball to the Phi Sig 13-yard line in 6 plays. The tying tally came when Ludwig hit Jim Durham in the end zone. Phillips then kicked the game-winning point.

Sigma Phi Epsilon built up a 14-7 halftime lead and went on to defeat Pi Kappa Phi for the League D title, 21-14.

Despite Ron Rainey's long passes the Pi Kapp's were weak on pass defense. SPE scored two touchdowns in the first seven minutes of the game on a concentrated aerial attack.

Ken Fasic hit Lou Farase 20 yards out and 5 minutes later Jack Michaels spotted Fasic with an 8 yard touchdown pass.

With 22 seconds remaining in the first half Rainey received a SPE kick at midfield. The Penn State basketball and baseball star spotted Hugh Patterson in the end zone and tossed a long, high spiral for the score. Patterson collided with three opponents yet managed to hold on to the ball. Freddy Martin added the extra point.

SPE added seven more points in the second half on a 4-yard Michael to Fasic pass. Harry Davidson kicked the PAT.

Pi Kapp's final tally was on a 19-yard pass from Rainey to Stan Hopkins. Martin again added the extra point.

In other fraternity action, Sigma Pi downed Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 17-7, to go into the quarter-finals and Phi Kappa Sigma shut-out Theta Delta Chi, 9-0, on a touchdown and field goal to also enter the quarter-finals.

In independent action, Nittany 25 defeated the McKee Rockets, 10-0; Nittany 22 shutout Marilyn Hall, 13-0; McKee Two downed the Daddy O's, 7-0; and Nittany 29 trounced Stan's Men, 28-0.

5 Unbeaten Clubs Face Stiff Tests

By BEN OLAN

Texas A&M, Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Iowa, Auburn and Dartmouth put their undefeated and untied college football records on the line tomorrow and among these highly ranked teams only the Sooners appear to be in a safe position.

The others are in jeopardy. All meet clubs that have been beaten only once.

Oklahoma, whose 45-game winning streak survived an unexpectedly tough challenge by Colorado last week end, invades Kansas State, a three-time loser. Kansas State has been beaten by Wyoming, Nebraska and Colorado.

Texas A&M takes on Arkansas at Fayetteville and the Aggies, tied with Texas for the Southwest Conference lead, expect a hard game and probably will get it. Texas A&M, ranked first in the latest Associated Press poll, is 6-0 for the season and 2-0 in conference competition. Arkansas has lost only to Texas.

Navy likely will pose a stiff problem for Notre Dame at South Bend. The Midshipmen walloped the Irish 33-7 last year and have much the same team back.

'S'-Club to Hold Initiation Sunday

Poust said all initiates and members should wear their varsity sweaters and a tie for the ceremony. Initiation and semester fees are due at this meeting, he said.

Measurements for the varsity "S" jackets—symbolic of club membership—will be taken at the meeting.

Robinson Named Best Sophomore

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Cincinnati's Frank Robinson, the National League Rookie of the Year in 1956, advanced to the next plateau by being acclaimed today as the league's outstanding sophomore in 1957.

The 22-year-old youngster outdistanced an impressive crop of second-year eligibles in the annual poll conducted by The Associated Press.

3 Centers on Line

Three centers will man the middle of the Penn State line hereafter when the second unit takes the field. Steve Garban is found in the pivot post, with two erstwhile centers—Earl (Bud) Kohlhaas and Sam Stellatella—in the guard positions.

There's an old fashioned coal bucket sitting in a trophy case in the lobby of the University of Pittsburgh's massive Field House that may find its way into the hallowed corridor of Recreation Hall before the year is out. This isn't an ordinary piece of miner's equipment — it isn't even an ordinary bucket.

It's the "Lil' Coal Scuttle"—that tangible item symbolic of Tri-State football supremacy and awarded annually to the winner of the Penn State-West Virginia-Pittsburgh grid series. The first leg in the battle for that lucrative scuttle come off tomorrow afternoon when the Lions host West Virginia at Beaver Field.

Ironically, the instigator of this award—one Emil Narick—will officiate at tomorrow's opening round skirmish. Narick, a prominent Pittsburgh attorney, formulated the idea of such an award back in the early 1950's not only to recognize a Tri-State champion but also to create a major rivalry among its combatants. There is no doubt that it has succeeded in both objectives.

Penn State won the scuttle in its first year of existence, 1952, by thumping the Mounties 35-21 and whitewashing the Panthers, 17-0. However, we haven't seen it since.

West Virginia claimed the award in 1953 and 1954 before Pitt hauled down the honor in 1955. It remained in the Steel City last year, even though the Panthers failed to retain it "legally." That was a result of the Pitt-Penn State 7-7 tie after both teams had whipped the Mounties.

Here's one person vehemently expressing his desire to see that "Lil' Coal Scuttle" wrested from the clutches of those evil Panthers.

Les Walters is the first Penn State lineman to receive the Associated Press' Lineman of the Week honor since the pre-World War II era . . . and he may be the only Lion griddier in history to be honored thusly since weekly selections honoring the nation's best back and lineman are of fairly recent vintage . . .

The United Press, the AP's chief rival, also included Walters among last Saturday's top linemen, along with teammate Joe Sabol . . . and speaking of Sabol . . . hasn't he given an all-out performance at guard this year . . . It's tough trying to fill the shoes of an all-American (Sam Valentine) but Sabol is doing a creditable job . . . and this from a guy who had never played the guard slot in his career until last season.

We received a note the other day from Beano Cook, Pitt's fabled sports publicity chief, which we found rather amusing . . . Before the season, Beano predicted that the Pitt-Penn State grid winner would wind up in a postseason bowl and that the Panthers would finish the campaign with a 6-4 record . . . However, here's the latest word from Beano:

"Our game will decide who's going to the Toilet Bowl this year," Beano wrote. "We're (Pitt) going to lost at least three more games this year." And this was written before the Notre Dame encounter.
