

12 Dead, 100 Injured In Tornadoes

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 8 (AP)—Tornadoes lashed out at four Southern states last night and today, leaving 12 dead, more than a hundred injured, hundreds homeless.

The damages easily will reach several million dollars.

Alexandria, a city of 40,000 in central Louisiana, absorbed most of the fury. Three died in that area. Louisiana recorded four other deaths, Texas had three and Mississippi two.

A baby twister also struck Selma, Ala., but no one was injured.

Eyewitnesses agreed that the tornadoes were similar in one detail: they were sudden. Heavy thunderstorms muffled their roars of warning. They were swift.

In Alexandria, the tornado struck out for only six seconds. But much of a 10-block residential section was destroyed or heavily damaged.

Rescuers found an 86-year-old blind woman sitting in the wreckage of her daughter's home this morning in Alexandria.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 8 (AP)—A strong wind and rain storm lashed Southwestern Pennsylvania this afternoon, injuring several persons, toppling signs, shattering plate glass windows and ripping limbs from trees.

N.Y. Subways Tied Up By Water Main Breaks

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—A series of water main breaks last night and today knocked out two heavily traveled subway lines and made a shallow, surging sea of the Times Square theater district.

Army Called on to Help U.S. Overtake Reds in Space Race

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Army was called on today to help the United States overtake Russia in the strategic field of space travel.

Army scientists were ordered by the Defense Department to use their modified Jupiter-C missile to launch an earth satellite—apparently as soon as possible.

Russia has had one satellite in orbit since Oct. 4 and two since last Saturday, when a second space vehicle carrying a dog was fired more than 1000 miles into space.

The first American satellite, a test vehicle about the size of a baseball, is scheduled to be launched sometime in December as part of Project Vanguard. Project Vanguard is being run by the Navy in cooperation with civilian scientists.

Bringing the Jupiter-C into the picture was interpreted here as a big victory for the Army in the interservice struggle over missile development. Army scientists have been saying for weeks that they could have had a satellite in orbit by now if they had been given an early go-ahead.

Sputnik II, according to Tass news agency, will have completed its 82nd circuit of the earth by 6 a.m. Saturday, Moscow time.

Atom Energy Used U.S. Officers Said By Ike in Dedication In Turk Positions

GERMANTOWN, Md., Nov. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower dedicated the new headquarters of the Atomic Energy Commission today, using power drawn from batteries charged with nuclear energy.

The power he drew on by pressing a button unveiled a plaque; he used simple hand power in putting a trowel of mortar on the cornerstone of the 13-million-dollar building.

ALEPPO, Syria, Nov. 8 (AP)—Col. Tawfik Shatela, commander of Syria's northwestern border areas, charged today that American officers are "in active duty positions" with Turkish troops facing Syria.

He said they had been seen in action and not merely as advisers to Turkish units there. The colonel said the information came from "reliable travelers."

THE PARTY WEEK END: ITS CAUSE AND CURE

With the season of party weekends almost upon us, my mail of late has been flooded with queries from young inmates of women's colleges wishing to know how one conducts one's self when one has invited a young gentleman for a weekend. This morning, for example, there were more than 30,000 letters, each containing a lock of hair. I gave the hair to a bombsight maker and the lanolin to a dry sheep of my acquaintance, and I turned instantly to the question: How should a young lady deport herself when she has asked a young gentleman to be her guest at a party weekend?

Well, my dear girls, the first thing to remember is that your young gentleman is far from home and frightened. Put him at his ease. You might, for instance, surprise him by having his mother sitting in a rocker on the station platform when he gets off the train.

Next, what kind of corsage should you send your young gentleman? Well, my beloved maidens, orchids are always acceptable.

If you find, my esteemed filii, that your local florist has run out of stock, do not be dismayed. Make a corsage out of paper. But pick good, stiff, durable paper—twenty dollar bills, for example.

Remember at all times, my fond wenches, to show your young gentleman courtesy and consideration. Open doors for him, walk on the traffic side of the path, assist him to the punch bowl, zip his parka, light his Marlboros. (What, you ask, if he doesn't smoke Marlboros? Ridiculous, my precious nymphs! Of course, he smokes Marlboros! Don't you? Don't I? Doesn't everybody who knows a hawk from a handsaw?? What other cigarette gives you such a lot to like? Such filter? Such flavor? Such flip-top box? No other, my sweet minxes, no other. Marlboro stands alone, and any man worthy of you, my estimable damsels, is bound to be a Marlboro man.)

If you will follow the simple instructions stated above, my good lasses, you will find that you have turned your young gentleman into a fast and fervent admirer. There is nothing quite like a party weekend to promote romance.

I am in mind of a party weekend some years ago at Miss Pomfritt's Seminary for Genteel Chicks in West Linotype, Ohio. Serafina Sigafos, a sophomore at this institution, majoring in napkin folding, sent an invitation to a young man named Fafnir Valve, a junior at the Joyce Kilmer School of Forestry, majoring in sap and boles.

Anyhow, Serafina sent an invitation to Fafnir, and he came, and she showered him with kindness and cuff links, and then he went away, and Serafina sat anxiously by the mailbox, wondering whether she would ever hear from him again. Sure enough, two weeks later she got a letter: "Dear Serafina, Can you let me have fifty bucks? Yours, Fafnir."

Whimpering with ecstasy, she ran to the bank and withdrew the money and mailed it to him. From then on, she got the same request every week, and as a result, she became very well acquainted with Ralph T. Involute, teller of the West Linotype Bank and Trust Co., and their friendship ripened into love, and today they are happily married and live in Stamen, Oregon, where Ralph is in the extruded molasses game and Serafina is a hydrant.
