

Lions Clinch Winning Season By Defeating Marquette, 20-7

Two of the nations' longest football streaks were extended Saturday afternoon at County Stadium, Milwaukee, Wis., when Penn State downed Marquette, 20-7, before a tiny crowd of 4719.

For the Lions of Coach Rip Engle, the win clinched their 19th consecutive winning season—the longest of its kind among major collegiate football powers. The Lions are now 5-2 on the season with only Holy Cross and Pittsburgh remaining on the regular 1957 schedule.

Such was not the case for the Hilltoppers of Coach Johnny Druze, however. The contest was the Hilltoppers' 18th straight loss, dating back to the final game of their 1955 schedule. This is the longest football losing streak among major collegiate teams since World War II.

The score, however, was not completely indicative of the contest. Marquette was a fired-up ball club which simply did not have the horses to match the talents of the Lions. Still, the Hilltoppers played what Druze later called their best game of the year.

Statistics bear this out rather readily. First downs were even at 17 apiece; the Hilltoppers had a two-yard margin in total net yardage, 310-308. Marquette gained 196 on the ground and 114 in the air compared to 184 on the ground and 124 in the air for the Lions. Only in the final score—and that definitely is the deciding factor—did the Hilltoppers fail to match the Lions.

Despite the Lions' lethargic performance in spots, Marquette was never really within hailing distance of tying the score. The Lions scored the first time they gained control of the ball after the first half kickoff.

Starting on the Marquette 38 after an out-of-bounds Hilltopper punt, quarterback Richie Lucas guided the Nittanians to a score in 12 plays with halfback Dave Kasperian going the final three yards off right tackle at 4:36 of (Continued on page six)

Men Debaters Win International Tourney

The men's debate team won first place in the International Tournament at the University of Rochester last weekend.

The team record was eight wins and two losses. Twenty-four colleges and universities from the United States and Canada took part in the Tournament.

Robert W. Adams, senior in business administration from Johnstown, won second place in the outstanding speaker contest. Gerald Bogus, junior in arts and letters from Brownsville, placed fourth in the contest.

The team was given a large rotating trophy which they will keep for a year, and a smaller permanent trophy.

Each member of the team was awarded a plaque and a special plaque was given to Adams.

The affirmative team defeated teams from Fordham University, Williams College, University of Buffalo and Rochester Institute of Technology. It lost to St. John's College of Jamaica, N.Y.

Members of the affirmative team were Jay Feldstein, junior in arts and letters from Elizabeth, and David R. Scott, senior in agricultural economics-rural sociology from Harrisburg.

The negative team defeated St. John's College, Rochester, N.Y., Dartmouth College, Middlebury College and Duquesne University. It lost to Fordham University.

Members of the negative team were Bogus and Adams.

David Jabusch, assistant debate coach and graduate student in speech from State College, accompanied the team.

The tournament was the first this semester for the team. It was also the first time the men's debate team took part in the International Tournament.

Lion Floored By Anti-Freeze

The Nittany Lion has not yet awakened to view today's weather.

He is recovering from the effects of attempting to insulate himself from the "coldest night of the year" last night with three quarts of anti-freeze.

The Lion's anti-freeze antics were prompted—in a moment of wild abandon—by State College High School's 20-14 victory over the Red Raiders of Bellefonte in yesterday's Old Iron Kettle grid rivalry.

The Lion is not likely to greet today's fair, 38-42-degree-high weather.

Lion Claims 'Sensible' Planks; Campus Defends ROTC Stand

Nails and splinters flew last night as Lion and Campus clique chairmen ripped at each other's platform planks.

At a press conference in the Daily Collegian office, both chairmen proved their joint opinion, "The two political parties stand for different things," as they picked apart each other's platforms.

William O'Neill, Lion clique chairman, said his party's platform is "much more sensible" than that of Campus party.

Recommendations in the Lion platform, he said, are within the realm of student government.

Gary Young, Campus clique chairman, lashed out at Lion's plank on extending freshman women's hours. He said Lion party twice before has proposed this—in the campaigns of March 1954 and October 1956. He asked O'Neill, "What happened to those proposals?"

"I wasn't here then, Gary," O'Neill replied.

O'Neill laughed at Campus party's proposal to make ROTC courses elective for men students.

He called this "unrealistic" and said it is not within the realm of student government. Young called his plank on ROTC "really progressive and constructive."

16-Week Probation Requested for ZBT By Control Board

The Interfraternity Council Board of Control has recommended a 16-week social probation period for Zeta Beta Tau for having women guests in the house Saturday night when the house was not approved by the office of the dean of men.

Alan Rubens, president of the fraternity and a member of the Board of Control, was asked to resign from the board for "conduct unbecoming a member," after the board decided he was "directly responsible" for the unapproved party.

Rubens yesterday said he will appeal the decision of the board on the probation to the Senate Subcommittee on Student Affairs.

The decision must be approved by the subcommittee before it goes into effect.

The board recommended the house put on probation for the remainder of this semester and the first eight weeks of next semester, to be effective immediately.

There was a woman present to serve as housemother Saturday, but she already had been disapproved by the office of the dean of men to serve as chaperone, George Wills, chairman of the Board of Control, said.

The fraternity, according to Wills, attempted to register a temporary housemother on Friday.

But since it was past the deadline for registering chaperones, the dean of men's office refused the request to approve the house for women guests. During the course of the evening, a number of women were brought into the house, Wills said.

Rubens, Wills said, brought a date to the house although he knew that the house was not approved.

Wills said Rubens had "checked with as many people as possible" to get an affirmative answer on the question of the permissibility of women in the house. "Apparently no attempt was made to keep the women out of the house," he said.

While on social probation, a fraternity is not permitted to entertain women guests at any time.

Wills called the "unapproved party" a flagrant violation of University and IFC regulations.

Rubens said he will appeal the board's decision. "We feel that we were treated unfairly and that the penalty was far too severe under the circumstances," he said.

'Space Man' Plan Seen By Hagen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP)—Dr. John P. Hagen, head of Project Vanguard, said today the United States should develop a well coordinated program aimed at sending man into space.

The Vanguard project, devoted to launching a fully instrumented earth satellite, is a step in that direction, Hagen told a news conference.

He estimated it would be "years" before a man could be sent up with any chance of getting back to earth safely.

Laika, the Russian dog inside Sputnik II, appeared today to have died in the interests of furthering space travel. There was no official report on the fate of the animal but there was general agreement in Moscow that it was dead.

However, at a Swedish embassy reception in Moscow, Premier Nikolai Bulganin said today that when last heard from yesterday Laika was still alive. Talking with reporters, Bulganin said yesterday's telemetric transmission from Sputnik II included reports on her pulse, heartbeat and blood pressure.

Hagen said he personally would prefer to send up a rat rather than a dog because, he said, a rat is more like a human, physiologically. A monkey is even more like a human, he added.

Vanguard's chief said one of the problems of a manned space vehicle is that of re-entry into the earth's denser atmosphere, where friction will cause intense heat.

The best way to get a man back into the heavier atmosphere, Hagen went on, would be to put wings on the vehicle.

Cliques to Talk On Campaigns

The All-University Elections Committee will meet at 7 tonight in 216 Hetzel Union with the clique chairmen to answer questions, clarify the Elections Code, and hear complaints of code violations.

Chairman Peter Fishburn yesterday said, "I would definitely say the campaigns have been run cleanly so far." Party campaign literature distributed yesterday included criticism of the opposition's platform planks.

Today marks the end of verbal campaigning and candidates' personal appearances. Printed campaign material must be removed by 5 p.m. Thursday.
