Morgan Kills New Vote On Rotation

John Morgan, president of the Association of Independent Men, last night vetoed a Board of Governors motion to reconsider a vote favoring retention of the rotation system for All-University and class elections.

A move to override the veto—which needed a 2/3 majority—was defeated, 15-15.

In vetoing an 18-10 vote for reconsideration at the stormy meeting, Morgan quoted article 4, section 33 of the AIM constitution which he said gives the chairman of the board such power.

The motion to reconsider the vote favoring retention of the rotation system was made by Robert Owens, president of Pollock Council.

Carl Smith, president of West Halls Council, said that when the vote favoring retention of the rotation system was held at a board meeting held several weeks ago, many members representing West Halls were freshmen and they were voting for something of which they had little knowledge.

Smith also said since the board vote, the West Halls council has gone on record of favoring abolition of the rotation system.

Louis Wonderly, AIM secretary, told the meeting this is not the time to reconsider the vote since All-University Cabinet is in the process of studying the merits of the issue.

After the veto stood official, Owens told the board that he believed the last governor's meeting to be unconstitutional because an alternate member was illegally seated.

John Rhodes, acting parliamentarian, told the board that since the vote in question was a 14 to 7 margin, one vote would not change the majority, or cause a tie.

TIM Will Sponsor Annual Fall Dance

Town Independent Men Council will hold its annual fall dance, "The Harvest Hop," from 9 to midnight Saturday in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

The 18-piece Association of Independent Men band will furnish music. Refreshments will be served.

There is no admission charge for the dance. It is open to the public.

LINE UP TO VOTE—Barbara Martino and John McArthur, members of All-University Elections Committee, punch matriculation cards and give ballots to freshmen at the polls yesterday.

Frosh, Soph Voting Will Close Tonight

Voting for the six officers of the freshman and sophomore classes will end at 8 tonight when members of the All-University Elections Committee close the polls, meet with clique officials and count the ballots cast in the 2-day elections.

The polls will open at 8 a.m. today in the Hetzel Union card room and will remain open until 8 p.m. Freshmen and sophomores may vote by presenting matriculation cards. Students may cast a straight party vote or split the ticket.

Chairman Peter Fishburn yesterday said, "There's been a steady flow of voters all day. The turnout appears better than last year's." He said lines of students waiting to vote yesterday moved "pretty fast."

The Elections Committee will meet with Gary Young, Campus clique chairman, and William O'Neill, Lion clique chairman, in the HUB card room tonight after the polls close.

The parties' financial statements will be presented for the committee's approval, and the committee will hear complaints of Elections Code violations which may have occurred during the elections. If the election is to be disputed, an appeal must be made before votes are counted.

Ballots used for the election include spaces for the voter to indicate his sex and affiliation (fraternity or independent). Fishburn said this information may enable

Student Awaits Sentence On Forgery Guilty Plea

Stephen Rade, sophomore in business administration from Philadelphia, is awaiting sentence in Centre County Jail, Bellefonte, after pleading guilty to aiding and abetting forgery and violating the firearms code.

Stephen Schulman, 19, of Philadelphia, not a student, also pleaded guilty to forgery in the same case.

Rade and Schulman entered the plea before Judge William W. Litke in county court. The court decided to hold up sentencing until the two were given psychiatric examinations.

County Sheriff Martin L. Kauffman said the examinations probably will be given next week. He said Judge Litke will sentence the youths Nov. 26, unless the tests are not finished by then.

Rade and Schulman were in-involved in bad check passing Oct. 28 in the State College area. The youths reportedly passed 10 forged checks of $15 each.

The forgery was uncovered when Rade was questioned on a minor charge of filing identification numbers from a pistol.

Rade was committed to jail for default of bail in the firearms violation and, during preliminary questioning, implicated Schulman

300 Pitt Game Tickets Remain

About 300 end zone tickets remain on sale for the Penn State-Pitt football game to be played Nov. 23 at Pittsburgh.

The tickets, priced at $4 and $2.50, will be on sale at the ticket office in Recreation Hall from 8:15 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. weekdays. The office will be open from 8:15 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Some 1700 tickets were sold yesterday and sales were brisk during the morning hours, Edward M. Czekaj, ticket manager, said.

Tickets for the Lion-Holy Cross game are still available at the ticket office.

Lion Will Vote In Rain Today

Not even the expected rain stopped the Nittany Lion's determination to vote today.

"What's a little rain compared to a privilege such as this?" he mused.

The Lion crawled out of his den in a raincoat and proudly marched down Pollock Rd. on his way to the Hetzel Union cardroom where freshmen-sophomore class elections are being held.

A high of 52-56 degrees and intermittent rain is expected today.

Cabinet to Debate Compulsory ROTC

Robert Nurock, Liberal Arts Student Council president, said he will ask All-University Cabinet tonight to endorse the L.A. Council's resolution condemning the proposed military training program.

Cabinet will meet at 7 tonight in 203 Hetzel Union. The meeting is open to the public.

The council went on record Tuesday night as opposing the combined co-educational civil defense Reserve Officers Training Corps program proposed last week to the University Senate and to abolish the present required ROTC program.

The council also voiced opposition to the idea of establishing a School of Military Affairs and Civilian Defense under the College of the Liberal Arts, as recommended in the Senate report.

The resolution from the council directed Nurock to present the matter to Cabinet. Nurock last night said he will ask: All-University President Robert Steele to help him in carrying out the resolution's recommendations.

In place of the ROTC-CD proposal, the council's resolution suggests that a 1-semester course in civil defense be included in the men's and women's required physical education program.

The council is opposing the military training proposals from four main stands:

- That the establishment of a School of Military Affairs and Civil Defense under the College of the Liberal Arts would be "extremely damaging to the program and public relations of the college and of the University."

- That the exchange of military and civilian faculty personnel in offering courses could have "disastrous results" in non-military courses, in their content, quality of instruction and teaching methods.

- That the program would be a waste of University funds and students' time in addition to being a "flagrant violation of academic and educational freedom."

- That the report presented to Senate was inadequately prepared and did not represent the opinion of a majority of students, faculty, administrators or citizens of Pennsylvania.

The resolution recommends that:

- The Senate reject the committee report.

- The Senate recommend of the Board of Trustees a re-negotiation of the contract with the United States government so no student at the University would be required to take a course in military science.

- A 1-semester civil defense course be initiated.

Lion Scout Will Speak At Pep Rally

Penn State football scout and coach, Frank Patrick will speak at the Lion-Holy Cross football pep rally to be held at 7:30 tonight in front of Old Main.

The pre-game rally is being sponsored by Mortar Board, senior women's hat society.

King Richard the Lionhearted, represented by the Nittany Lion, will lead the Holy Cross "Crusaders" around the steps of Old Main and then battle the crusaders.

A motorcade beginning at 7 p.m. will precede the rally. The motorcade will start at the intersection of Pollock and Shortlidge Roads and move toward the West Halls area.

The Air Force ROTC band will provide music for the rally. The cheerleaders will lead the students in songs and cheers.

Steve Fishbein, WMAJ announcer, will serve as master of ceremonies for the program.

Patrick scouted the Holy Cross-Syracuse game last Saturday and will comment on the Crusaders strength and offensive patterns.

This will be the next-to-last pep rally of the year, with only the Pitt rally remaining. Owens and Delphi, sophomore women's and men's hat societies, will sponsor the final rally.

Student Stricken By Appendicitis

George McFarlane, graduate in agriculture economics from Ulster Spring, Jamaica, British West Indies, is reported as "doing, fine" after being operated on for emergency appendicitis last night at Centre County Hospital.

McFarlane was stricken while lecturing in class yesterday afternoon. He was driven to Centre County Hospital by the campus patrol. He arrived at the hospital at 5 p.m. and was operated on at 6 p.m.

Floating Rocket Base Proposed by Senator

PARIS, Nov. 13 (AP)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D.-Wash.) suggested today that submerged or floating platforms sprinkled in the seas as nuclear rocket bases could be NATO's answer to Soviet missiles.

Jackson expounded on his revolutionary idea at a news conference after U.S. Adm. Jerrold Wright, NATO naval commander, declared all NATO nations should have atomic submarines.

Wright told NATO's parliamentary assembly the United States should modify the McMahon Act on nuclear secrecy to clear the way for equipping Allied navies with submarines such as the USS Nautilus.

So far only France among the Allies is building an atomic submarine. Jackson, who is here for the assembly, said that with floating platforms NATO's European members "could take their retaliatory capacity and move it way out to sea."

He said the Russians would have to concentrate on finding and destroying the platforms, instead of the Allies' home installations and populations.

Atomic submarines able to move about and escape detection for long periods would make ideal platforms, he said.
