Nittany Area Yule Display Entries Begin

Dormitory units in the Nittany Area whose members wish to enter the Christmas lighting and decoration contest have until Dec 10 to register

Only five units have paid the $1 entry fee to treasurer Peter Paul.

Nittany Council will offer $100 in prizes and the contest will have two separate divisions, indoor and outdoor displays.

The displays will be judged by the executive committee of the council and unit adviser George Smith at 7 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 15.

The first place award in the outdoor competition will be $25 in prize money, second place $15, and third place $10. The indoor contest will offer the same prizes.

Peter Paul, editor-in-chief of the Council newsletter, Monday said the second issue of the paper would be published Dec. 18. The 4-page mimeographed paper made its initial appearance before Thanksgiving vacation.

have cinched the AA rating for one of the finest college ends in the game this season; the best end State has had in 10 years."

Yesterday's announcement by the Associated Press that Walters made its second team All-America washed Clark's theory clear down the basin. Besides, we seriously doubt if one play ever cost a player a possibility for an All-America rating. Players do make mistakes—it's only human.

To us, Walters' lack of recognition can be attributed to one factor—he lacked the preseason buildup sometimes so necessary for All-America selection at the end of the year.

With that we'll stop. We're only an apprentice at the sports writing racket—Clark has been at it much longer than we. But, even pros make mistakes. This is our humble effort to convince one pro that he made two.
