

Chapel Choir to Sing At Xmas Services

The annual Christmas services will be held tonight and tomorrow morning in Schwab auditorium.

The candlelight service will begin at 10:55 tonight and will include four lessons and appropriate anthems. The Chapel Choir, under the direction of Willa C. Taylor, will sing:

"Break Forth O Beauteous Heavenly Light" from the "Christmas Oratorio" by Johann Bach; "The Morning Star" by Michael Praetorius; "O Magnum Mysterium" by Tomas Luis de Victoria; "Song of the Nativity" arranged by Franz Wasner; "In Dulci Jubilo" arranged by R. L. Pearsall.

"Upon My Lap My Sovereign Sits" by Martin Peerson; "As I Went Down to David's Town" by Leo Sowerby; "On This Day" by H. C. Stewart; "Balulalow" by Peter Warlock; "The Three Kings" by Healy Willan; "Rejoice and Sing" by Johann Bach; "God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen" arranged by Channing Lefevre; and "From Highest Heaven" by Johann Bach.

The Chapel service at 10:55 a.m. tomorrow in Schwab auditorium will include special organ music on Christmas themes; Christmas carols and anthems by the Chapel Choir, and a Christmas meditation by Dr. Luther H. Harshbarger, University chaplain.

The Rev. James Spangenberg, associate campus pastor of the University Baptist Church, will speak at Protestant services at 9 a.m. tomorrow in the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel. His topic will be "Worship—So What?"

The Canterbury Association will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. Dr. Treen, professor of history, will give a lecture on "The Reformation—Luther." Holy Communion will be celebrated at all morning services at St. Andrew's Church.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph C. Robinson, secretary of the Central Pennsylvania Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, will discuss "The Credentials of Christ" at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Lutheran Student Center, 412 W. College Ave.

The Hillel Foundation will sponsor its final TV Film Forum at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Hillel auditorium, 224 Locust Lane. The Dead Sea Scrolls will be the subject of the film.

Dickens Tale To Be Read By Wilder

Jon Barry Wilder, junior in arts and letters from State College, will read the same version of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" as Dickens used when he read before public audiences.

Wilder will read it at 8 p.m. Monday in the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Memorial Chapel lounge. The reading is open to the public.

Wilder will read an hour's portion of the story which is about 30,000 words in length, five to six times longer than the ordinary short story.

Dickens read his famous "A Christmas Carol" at the height of his career as England's greatest novelist before large audiences and was acclaimed a brilliant reader.

Wilder will be introduced by Dr. Robert T. Oliver, professor and head of the Department of Speech.

Wilder also read the story last year. He has appeared in many Players productions and has read at the Intercollegiate Reading Festival.

Dickens acquired the idea for the story while attending a public meeting in Manchester, England. He developed the idea while walking the back streets of London at night, often 18 or 20 miles a night.

Debaters Score 5 Wins, 3 Losses In First Tourney

The women's debate team took part in its first tourney Saturday at Temple University, compiling a record of five wins and three losses.

Members debated on the national topic, "Resolved: That Membership in Labor Organizations as a Condition for Employment Should Be Illegal."

Members of the affirmative team were Anna Louise White, sophomore in home economics from Mercer, and Harlene Lit, sophomore in education from Philadelphia. They defeated New York University and Bucknell University, losing to Dartmouth College and Rutgers University.

Patricia Bilonik, fourth semester sophomore in education from Latrobe, and Barbara Kershnick, sophomore in business administration from Monesson, were on the negative team. They defeated Brooklyn Polytechnical Institute, Brooklyn University and the University of Maryland while losing to Fordham University.

Shearing To Perform Tomorrow

George Shearing, with his quintet scheduled to appear at tomorrow's jazz concert, has been named the number one pianist in 12 nations, including England, Japan, Australia, Germany, France and South Africa.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in Recreation Building.

Shearing had a long climb up before achieving these honors. Born in London, poor and totally blind, his first job was playing piano in a London pub. He then toured England with an all-blind band. Through the band, he started on a career of broadcasting over BBC's "Bandwagon." Just before World War II he started his own radio show.

During the war he played piano in a London shelter to calm the crowds huddled there during air raids. When Shearing came to the United States he was still playing alone. A quartet he organized to record grew into a quintet.

Since a clarinetist was unable to play, Shearing experimented by adding two other instruments—vibes and guitar. The unique sound was an immediate success and led to many recordings among them "September in the Rain."

Tickets for the concert, which is sponsored by the Jazz Club, are available at the Hetzel Union desk and the Music Room. They cost $1 each for club members and $1.50 each for non-members. Tickets also will be on sale at the door tomorrow night.

Greeks to Hold Yule Parties For State College Children

All the traditional trimmings of the Christmas season will invade fraternities within the next few days, with a total of 24 houses holding Christmas parties for State College children.

Joining with the fraternities in giving the parties are 20 sororities and women's residence hall units. The children who are guests at the parties are selected by a group of State College women.

The parties are sponsored by the Interfraternity Council with the cooperation of the State College Chamber of Commerce. Many of them will be held this weekend, with the rest scheduled for next week.

Santa Claus will be present at all the parties, holding children on his lap and summoning up his best belly laugh for the occasion. The parties also will include games, carol singing and distribution of gifts to the children.

David Morrow is chairman of the council's Christmas party committee, and is assisted by George Campbell and James Moore.

 nity Council itself, and not the control board.

Wills called the Alpha Tau Omega decision a precedent in freshman drinking cases. In the only other such case since the ban went into effect last fall, involving a freshman found drinking at a combined party between Kappa Sigma and Sigma Alpha Mu, Wills said neither of the fraternities was aware that a freshman was being served alcoholic beverages.

Dinner Planned Faculty Will Hear By Outing Club Women's Chorus

Outing Club weekend activities include the annual game banquet, deer drive and a "Fun Party" to work on a new ski cabin.
