

Report to Cabinet Asks Student Insurance Plan

By PAT EVANS

All-University Cabinet last night heard a committee progress report recommending that a voluntary student insurance program be established as an extension of the existing Health Service.

But Cabinet took no action on the report, presented by the student insurance subcommittee of the Cabinet Student Welfare Committee. A final report will be given by January 8, according to Louis Wonderly, chairman.

The base insurance plan, as described in the report, would include reimbursement up to $1000 for each accident occurring at the University, at the student's home, or while traveling. Any medical expense incurred as a result of an accident would be covered.

Another feature of the proposed plan is reimbursement not exceeding $500 for each sickness.

"As far as price is concerned," the report states, "it appears that the base plan for 12 month coverage will begin at a premium of about $10 a year. This would be in addition to the $18 a semester now paid by all students for health services.

Student participation in the proposed plan would be voluntary.

Two additional provisions for coverage are being considered by the subcommittee. They are the base plan plus major medical coverage up to $10,000, and major medical coverage alone.

Cabinet also heard a report by Heather Lohrenz and Alvin Clemens, co-chairman of the freshman customs board. The following were among the recommendations presented:

•That joint customs, turn-about, and reverse days be continued in the freshman customs program.

•That hello days be dropped, since they were "found to be ineffective in improving the 'hello spirit' because of the poor means of enforcement and lack of participation."

•That the tug-of-war between freshmen and sophomores be permanently discontinued to prevent another incident like the one this fall, when several students were injured after the tug.

•That appointments of next year's board co-chairman be made at the beginning of the spring semester rather than after the All-University Elections.

•That freshman girls should not be required to have permission of the board in order to go home during the customs period. It was suggested that permission be obtained instead from the dormitory hostesses.

Cabinet took no action on the customs report. Robert Steele, All-University president, told Miss Lohrenz and Clemens to refer their recommendations to the next co-chairmen of the board.

Another progress report heard by Cabinet described action to date by the All-University Elections Committee's subcommittee on the fraternity-independent rotation system.

The subcommittee is compiling information on systems in other schools, on the history of the University's system, and opinions of student groups and administration and faculty members.

The subcommittee expects to complete its work in February, according to Theodore Haller, chairman.

PhysEd College Will Drop Horseback Riding Elective

Horseback riding as a physical education elective will be discontinued effective Feb. 1, 1960, the University disclosed yesterday.

Lack of funds to underwrite necessary capital improvements, plus inability to make the activity pay for itself were cited as reasons for discontinuing the elective.

Ernest B. McCoy, dean of the College of Physical Education and Athletics, said the date was chosen "to permit an orderly re-trenchment leading to a cessation of all activities by that date."

The program, directed since 1946 by Capt. Gregory A. Gagarin, assistant professor of physical education, is primarily intended as an elective for women in physical education. The program attracts about 163 students each year. The Riding Club also uses the facilities for its activities, including the annual horse show.

Approved Fraternities

All fraternities are approved for the entertainment of women guests tonight except Alpha Phi Alpha, Alpha Phi Delta, Beta Theta Pi, Kappa Alpha Psi, Omega Psi Phi, Phi Kappa Psi, Pi Lambda Phi, Pi Sigma Upsilon, Triangle, Alpha Tau Omega and Zeta Beta Tau.

Senior Charged With Prowling

An eight-semester senior from Drexel Hill has been released on $300 bail on a charge of loitering and prowling at night in the vicinity of the 900 block of West College Avenue.

Thomas Jeffrey, 24, senior in animal husbandry, pleaded guilty to the charge at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Earl E. May of Pleasant Gap.

Jeffrey has been released to await the next term of Centre County quarter-sessions court in January.

After a report Monday night to state police, Jeffrey was picked up Tuesday morning, according to Trooper Leonard Washkewicz of the Rockview state police station.

State police were called into the case since the 900 block is in Ferguson Township, out of the State College borough limits.

Decoration Contest Won by Pollock 13

Pollock 13 won the Pollock Circle Christmas Decoration Contest. A $25 prize went to the winners for first place. Pollock 3 received a $15 prize for placing second. A $10 third place prize went to Pollock 9. Pollock 11 took the fourth place prize money of $5.

McCoy praised Gagarin for his "outstanding work" in the field but noted that growing deficits required the University to boost fees last September from $25 to $35 a semester for enrollees, and also to increase charges for boarding horses by about the same amount.

"Even with this increased income," McCoy said, "we will continue to operate in the red in this activity to such an extent that we would jeopardize the orderly development of our other programs which benefit a great many more students."

"It is with reluctance that we take this step," he said, but we face no alternative with costs rising rapidly and no source of funds available to put the program on the minimum footing it should have to continue effectively."

He said the physical equipment, consisting of the stable building, the riding ring and the surrounding land, leaves much to be desired and replacements costs are prohibitive.

McCoy said the date was chosen "to permit an orderly re-trenchment leading to a cessation of all activities by that date."

The IFC counter-plan, as originally presented at Monday night's meeting would have required a certified public accountant to audit the fraternities' books. This met with immediate opposition from council members, and was amended to include an auditing by the national fraternities as valid for presentation to the University.

The amended proposal was approved unanimously by the council.

The IFC committee headed by Richard Christian drew up the proposal on the change in the audit plan after the Senate plan was announced at a meeting two weeks ago.

Senate Delays Action On IFC Audit Plan

Final action on the compulsory fraternity audit plan was postponed by the Senate Committee on Student Affairs yesterday, pending further information from fraternities.

The Interfraternity Council's proposal for the compulsory audit was presented at the committee meeting yesterday but no vote was taken.

Frank J. Simes, dean of men and a member of the Senate committee, did not indicate when the issue would be decided, saying only that "it will be sometime after Christmas."

Simes said the committee asked for more information from fraternities on their auditing systems before deciding on the plan.

The original report of the committee was based on a survey concerning the auditing which was conducted among fraternities. The survey received a response of approximately 50 per cent. Simes said.

The IFC proposal calls for fraternities to give proof of a yearly audit of the house books to the office of the dean of men, but does not require the fraternities to release the actual figures of the audit.

This plan was drawn up after the Senate committee proposed a system whereby all student organizations, including fraternities, would be required to audit their books yearly and give the figures of the audit to the University.

The audit, to be submitted in October for the preceding year, would also be accompanied by a budget for the organization for the coming year, under the Senate proposal. Proof of the audit in the IFC proposal would consist of a letter to the dean of men from the particular fraternity's national office or from a certified public accountant.

Many fraternities are now required by their national organizations to have their books audited annually.

An IFC committee headed by Richard Christian drew up the proposal on the change in the audit plan after the Senate plan was announced at a meeting two weeks ago.

World Service Hears Rubin

Students gathered to form a University chapter of the World University Service yesterday afternoon heard Neville Rubin, vice president for international relations of the National Union of South African Students, castigate that country's government for its "apartheid" (segregation) policy.

Rubin appealed for support of the African Medical Scholarship Trust fund.

WUS, which formerly received funds from Campus Chest, organized with members of the University Christian Association, the Newman Club, the B'nai B'rith Foundation and the Cosmopolitan Club.
