

Coeds to Air Code, WSGA Revisions

Coeds who are under the honor code will meet at a party on Feb. 5 to consider the code's part on the Women's Student Government Association rules revision and the new over-21 drinking policy. Janet Davidson, honor code committee chairman, said last night.

TIM Favors Insurance, Holiday Plan

Town Independent Men Council last night unanimously went on record as favoring the adoption of a student government sponsored insurance plan.

The council also moved to bring before the Association of Independent Men a motion to ask the administration to adopt a floating holiday in future calendars.

The motion in favor of the insurance plan said that it should be brought before AIM also, but it did not recommend any specific plan be adopted.

Louis Wonderly, chairman of the subcommittee of the Cabinet Welfare Committee which is making a study of student insurance, will present a report and recommendations on the insurance plans to All-University Cabinet tomorrow night.

The council acted on the calendar motion at this time since it was felt that there was more chance of the University administration acting favorably now that it would have a few weeks before a holiday was wanted.

There has been continued agitation by students for such a holiday which could be declared for any football game or other event. In the past, the University has refused to act on any such proposals shortly before it was wanted since the calendar is made up far in advance.

The resignations of Elvin Eclberger due to academic difficulties and William Wetzel due to an insufficient average were announced by President James Wambold.

Wambold said there are now seven vacancies on the council. He urged town independents interested in serving on council to attend a meeting or contact him.

A record hop, scheduled to be held in conjunction with radio station WDFM this Saturday, has been postponed until Feb. 8, it was announced.

Skiing Orientation Set for Tonight

Outing Club members planning to attend the Red House ski trip will meet at 7 tonight in 303 Willard for an orientation meeting.

They are asked to bring their money to the meeting.

Persons interested but unable to attend may call Jack Lesinsky at AD 7-2207 or AD 6-8013.

The party, scheduled at last night's committee meeting, is designed to bring together all the coeds who have signed the honor code, Miss Davidson said, and to "give them a new enthusiasm for it."

Miss Davidson said the committee hopes to invite about 100 coeds to the party. This will include both the coeds who have been initiated into the honor system and those who have applied for the code.

All freshmen women's dorm units have now been orientated concerning the code, she said, and all town women have also been contacted. Explaining the code to upperclasswomen will begin next semester, she added.

The party will be held in either Simmons or McElwain lounge, she said, although the plans are not yet complete.

Miss Davidson said the group will discuss the honor code and what part it had in the recent Senate decision to permit coeds over 21 to drink alcoholic beverages. The Senate decision, she said, is expected to have an effect on the number of coeds who will sign the honor code.

Also on the agenda for the party will be a consideration of WSGA's revision of minor rules, and how this revision relates to the honor code.

Orientation of freshman women to the honor code, which has been carried on by the committee through hall meetings in freshman women's dorm units, will end within a short time with the "rounding-up" of code applications which are still in the hands of dorm units presidents, Miss Davidson said.

WSGA Approves New Rules

The Women's Student Government Association Senate last night unanimously approved the revision of rules presented by Anne Friedberg, judicial chairman.

Although the rules have been approved, they will not go into effect until they can be published and distributed. Miss Friedberg said this will be done as soon after the new semester begins as is feasible.

The major change in the rules involves traveling permissions. Coeds now may take four traveling permissions a semester instead of three.

Any upperclasswoman who leaves the residence hall planning to be out after 10 p.m. on Friday or Saturday night, must sign out when leaving the residence hall. Previously, a coed had to sign out if she was to be out of the residence hall after 5:30 p.m.

All freshman women must sign out for all activities after 6:30 p.m. daily. Originally, this time had been 5:30 p.m. daily and noon on Saturdays. Both of these violations which may invoke a strict campus. Not signing out for large number of women who will have to eat in dining halls in other residence halls. With the old rule they would have to sign out for meals.

Freshman women are granted four special 10 p.m. permissions a semester which may be used after the first four weeks of classes. Prior to this change, freshman coeds were only permitted to take one of these permissions a month.

Being signed in by another student was added to the list of Several violations for blackmarks were discarded. These include failure to take phone duty, calling out of the windows, failure to attend fire drills, and failure to have a bed made by 1 p.m. However, having an untidy room was inserted in the list.

Schedule Blues Trouble Lion

The Nittany Lion was debating today whether to return to school next semester, since he doesn't think he'll be able to schedule his favorite courses.

Because of the change in the registration schedule the Lion will not register until 9:45 a.m. Friday. He is a fraid Hubology 400 and Underwater Basket Weaving 500 will be closed by that time.

One bright spot in the Lion's day was a promise of clear and warmer weather. The predicted high for today is 30 to 35 degrees.
