Fraternity Counselors Approve IFC Compulsory Auditing Plan

The Association of Fraternity Counselors has voted 17-2 to support the Interfraternity Council's proposal for the compulsory auditing of fraternity books.

The proposal, currently awaiting action by the Senate Committee on Student Affairs, was presented at the Counselors meeting Thursday night by Richard Christian, chairman of the IFC audit committee.

Christian said he will include the endorsement in his next report to the Senate committee, sometime in February.

The IFC proposal would require all fraternities to have their books audited annually, and give a proof of the audit to the University.

Under this plan, however, the figures of the audit would not have to be released.

The original proposal which came from the Senate committee would require fraternities and sororities to have the audit performed and the figures released to the University.

Senate action on the proposal has been postponed while Panhellenic Council prepares a report on sorority audit practices.

The action on the issue began after the Senate recommended that all student organizations, including fraternities and sororities, be required to submit the audit. IFC submitted their counter-plan at a meeting in December.

Action on the proposal was first postponed because the figures in the IFC report, taken from a questionnaire from fraternities, represented only about 50 per cent of the fraternities and were considered inconclusive by the Senate.

The Senate also asked at this time for a report from sororities on the question.

Grace Antes, president of Panhel, told the Senate yesterday that Panhel was preparing a report on the audit similar to the one given by IFC. Action was postponed until the report can be completed and presented.

'Loud' Frosh Get Probation From JBR

Two freshmen have been placed on probation on the recommendation of the Association of Independent Men Judicial Board of Review for a series of disturbances in Hamilton Hall.

The students were charged with repeated violations of quiet hours, lack of co-operation with the residence hall counselor and lack of co-operation in adhering to cleaning procedures followed by the Department of Housing.

The board placed both on judicial probation and recommended one of the students be moved from the double room they share.

One of the students also was recommended to the dean of men's office for office probation because the board believed the student was using his influence among others in the hall to discredit the counselor. The dean's office approved the recommendation and also decided to send a letter to the student's parents.

The students told the board they did not believe they were guilty of frequently making excessive noise. They said the complaints by the students in the neighboring room were caused by the fact that there was only a door separating the two rooms to block the noise created by their talking.

They told the board the room they occupy was built to be used as a study room and lacks closet space. The students said the absense of a closet in their room aided the transmission of sounds to the adjoining room and was the main cause of their trouble with the Department of Housing.

Fishburn Asks Groups To Report Rotation Stand

Peter Fishburn, chairman of the All-University Elections Committee, has requested student organizations which have taken a stand on the fraternity-independent rotation system to contact him before the end of the final examination period.

He asked that the groups inform him by letter of their stand on the issue and of the reasons behind it. Fishburn's address is Phi Gamma Delta.

The rotation system subcommittee of the Elections Committee is now studying the system, which rotates the All-University and class offices from year to year between students of fraternity and independent affiliation.

The subcommittee's report on the issue will contain information on the various stands taken by student organizations. The Elections Committee will meet at 7 p.m. Feb. 4 in the Hetzel Union Building to go over the results of the subcommittee's study.

The completed report will be presented to All-University Cabinet Feb. 13.

Fishburn said, "It isn't at all evident yet whether the committee will include a definite recommendation in its report to Cabinet. From the information which has been gathered so far, there appears to be no clear-cut answer to the rotation question."

The main arguments for an open system, Fishburn said, are that all students, regardless of affiliation, should have a chance to run for the office they desire and that student government representation would thus be improved.

He said the main argument for retaining the present system deals with fraternity-independent relations and equal representation in student government for the two groups.
