SLICK SIDEWALKS have made walking treacherous and tumbles numerous this week, as Stewart Barmen, freshman in business administration from Pittsburgh, found out the hard way. Although falls have been numerous, no serious injuries have been reported.

Grad Student Represents WH In WUS Group

Bruce Adams, graduate student in geography from Bloomsburg, has been appointed to represent the West Halls Council on a committee being formed to help sponsor the World University Service.

WUS, formerly aided by the Campus Chest, is an international organization to assist in meeting the most crucial needs of universities and students throughout the world.

Jacob Dentu, junior in electrical engineering from Ghana, Africa, and a member of the University Christian Association, asked the council to make such an appointment.

Dentu said one of the major projects of WUS at the present time is to aid South Africans who wish to enter medical school. Last year the South African government passed a bill that will withdraw government aid to students who wish to enter medical school in South African universities, he said.

In other business, William Whitlatch read constitutional changes made necessary by changes in the Association of Independent Men's constitution, which supersedes the council constitution.

Smith appointed William Gohn, freshman in psychology from Lansdowne, chairman of the television committee in McKee Hall.

Faculty Members Attend Ad Confab

Four faculty members of the School of Journalism attended the Harrisburg display advertising conference of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Interstate Advertising Managers Association Friday and Saturday.

At the joint meeting were H. Eugene Goodwin, director of the school; Donald W. Davis, head of the Department of Advertising; and Richard O. Byers and Roland S. Hicks, members of the advertising faculty.

Scholarship Fund Begun For Students in Science

A scholarship fund to aid students working toward a science degree has been established in honor of J. Paul Smith, a graduate of the University and, until his death, president of the Visking Co., Chicago.

The fund, to be known as the J. Paul Smith Memorial Fund, was established with a gift of $17,240, the remainder of an original fund set-up to aid children of employees of the company.

Morbidity Outsell's Mush in Valentines

By NEAL FRIEDMAN

Young love, like everything else, has been affected by the high cost of living and the current economic slump.

Valentines, to be sure, are not on the way out—in fact sales are increasing; but a check of downtown stores yesterday revealed that sales of $2, $3 and $5 varieties are declining.

"We had some in last week," said one merchant, "and we sold them all; but people these days seem to favor the cheaper ones."

Valentines this year appear in a multitude of shapes, sizes and appeals. Long narrow ones are rapidly replacing the traditional rectangular shapes, while poetic verse and delicate artistry are giving way to ghoulish monsters uttering such platitudes as "You don't even know I exist," and "Would you still love me if it weren't for my money?"

One card, obviously a throw-back to the 1920's, had the words "23 Skidoo" emblazoned across the front; but the speaker was dressed in the style of an even earlier age, the Gay Nineties.

For the sentimentalists, there were still many cards with the words "Sweetheart" and "Darling" nestled within a border of flowers, lace and, of course, hearts.

Flowers for Valentine's Day, along with cards for mothers, dads, grandparents, brothers, sisters, and even the boss, are growing increasingly popular. One florist attributed this to the fact that it is now possible to wire flowers almost anywhere in the world.

And for those people who want their card to be right up to the minute, here's a verse for the Milltown Age:

Psychoses are red,
Neuroses are blue,
Everyone knows
I'm just nuts about you.

Cutler to Speak On Education

Dr. Howard A. Cutler, co-ordinator of General Education and professor of economics, will speak at 8:30 tonight in the main lounge of the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel.

His topic will be "Higher Education and the Imponderables."

The lecture is one of a series of five to be presented on alternate Wednesday nights throughout the semester. They are sponsored by the Faculty Committee of the University Christian Association.

The talks will deal with the responsible university in an Age of Crisis with particular reference to the University's responsibilities in the realm of student values.

Psychology Prof Given Psych Association Post

Dr. Edmund V. Mech, assistant professor of psychology, has been appointed to a subcommittee of the Educational Psychology Division of the American Psychological Association.

Mech will study the possibility of establishing professional institutes for psychologists involved in training in order to develop workshops which can help on-the-job teacher training.

NISA to Judge Leonides Book

Leonides council has decided to submit a scrapbook of its activities for judging at the National Independent Student Association convention March 27, 28 and 29 at Oklahoma Agriculture and Mechanical College.

The council decided to send delegates to the convention, but did not name any.

Leonides also voted to send Lorraine Jablonski, president, and Daunna Doebler, a member of council, to the brotherhood banquet tonight in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

The Leonides scholarship dance has been set for Feb. 21. It will be held in the Hetzel Union ballroom. The Leonides scholarship, for which the dance raises money, will be given to a deserving independent woman.

Corle to Hold Workshop On Math in Geneseo

Dr. Clyde G. Corle, associate professor of education, will conduct a 1-week workshop at the Geneseo State Teachers College, Geneseo, N.Y., on the teaching of elementary school mathematics.

He will work with a group of Latin-American educators, presenting the work in English with the help of an interpreter.

Be 1st in Your Hall To Peddle to Class

By LARRY JACOBSON

It's been kept secret so far, but now the cat is out of the bag. The latest rage, scheduled to hit campus in the spring (which looks to be 10 months hence), is bicycles.

Unknown to All-University Cabinet and other student government groups, a group of coeds in Atherton decided it

Hillel Arranges Student Tours For Overseas

The Penn State Hillel Foundation is cooperating in arrangements for two overseas student tours for the summer of 1958.

One tour is a 7-week institute in the state of Israel, sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation with the Jewish agency for college students.

The total cost per person will be $325, which includes round-trip transportation, full maintenance in Israel, guided tours of the country, lectures and orientation sessions conducted by leading Israeli personalities and a work period in an agricultural settlement.

The second tour is a study-work camp tour to Africa being planned from June 18 to Sept. 2 for about 60 selected students. An interreligious interracial tour, it will be led by Dr. James Robinson, executive director of the Morningside Community Center of New York City, and Rabbi Israel Mowshowitz of the Hillcrest Jewish Community Center of Long Island.

The group will travel, study and work in Liberia, Ghana, French Camerouns and other African countries. The cost of the tour is $1650, but scholarship assistance will be available.

Information on these two tours is available at the office of the Hillel Foundation, 224 Locust Lane.

Swope to Speak On Cow Handling

Dr. Robert E. Swope, advisor to the Pre Vet Club, will lead a demonstration on the handling of dairy cattle in the Dairy Barns tonight.

The demonstration will follow the monthly business of the club at 7 in 117 Dairy.

The demonstration, which is open to the public, will include temperature taking, milking, general examination and examination for pregnancy.

Discussion on Travel Slides

Wayne Lippman will lead a discussion on "Viewing Europe by Slides" at 7 tonight in 215 Hetzel Union.

would be peachy if they could bring their bikes up in the spring. After all, they reasoned, no more fatigue from running to classes, no more corns.

Besides, bikes are good reducing agents.

These coeds asked for, and received, permission from the Department of Housing to bring bikes to campus. The department also promised the coeds it would build bike racks for the ambitious ingenues.

Otto E. Mueller, director of the department, said this sort of thing happens every year at this time. Presently, there are a few racks (for bicycles) placed around campus, but they only have space for five to 10 bikes each.

However, the unsuspecting coeds have no idea of what they may be starting. Mueller said it is possible that as enrollment increases, and campus parking (of cars) becomes a large problem, bicycles may become the answer to campus travel. As an example, he cited the University of Michigan where bikes are so numerous that if you don't have one, you're out of it.

And it's entirely possible this may happen here. Some coeds are already using bikes to get from the new dorms to their classes.

Picture the campus in ten years:

1. University plans peripheral bike parking areas.
 2. Student government studies complaints about reckless peddlers.
 3. On Saturday nights, pavements along Shortlidge Road would be made one-way, to alleviate bike congestion.
 4. Bike paths will be added to the state turnpike system, with a revised toll rate system.
 5. Foreign pedestrians would be imported for foreign bike riders.
 6. Rec Hall will be completely rebuilt with a bike racing track. Intercollegiate bike meets will be scheduled with the University of Michigan.
- Undoubtedly, the coeds in Atherton have no idea of the far-reaching importance of their decision to bring bikes to campus. Can you just picture coeds with greasy ankles.

Eiche to Head Council

Robert E. Eiche, administrative head of the Altoona Center, has been elected president of the Junior College Council of the Middle Atlantic States for 1958-59.
