

Relations Between Faiths Are Tragic, Says Bainton

By BONNIE JONES

Although members of the Jewish and Christian traditions have a common brotherhood, relations between the faiths have grown into a modern tragedy of "daughter religion persecuting the mother," according to Dr. Roland H. Bainton of Yale University in his chapel sermon on Sunday in Schwab auditorium.

Men's Team Cops Debate Tournament

The men's debate team took first place in a field of 18 in a tournament at the University of Buffalo this weekend.

The team record was seven wins and one loss. The affirmative team, Herbert Cohen, junior in psychology from Scranton, and Nathan Brenner, sophomore in business administration from Harrisburg, defeated Syracuse, Rochester University and the Rochester Institute of Technology.

The affirmative team lost to Colgate.

The negative team won all its rounds. Debating the negative were Alan Elms, sophomore in psychology from La Center, Ky., and Leonard Julius, sophomore in journalism from West Palm Beach, Fla.

The negative defeated the Syracuse School of Forestry, Rochester University, Cortland State Teachers College and Lemoyne College.

Both teams debated the national topic "Resolved: that the requirement of membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment should be illegal."

Tryouts for the men's debate team will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 316 Sparks and will be open to freshmen and upperclassmen. Students need not have attended the initial meeting to try out.

Candidates will be required to give a 5-minute talk, either affirmative or negative on the national topic.

27 Fined $93 In Traffic Court

Twenty-seven students have been fined a total of $93 by Traffic Court.

The fines were imposed for the following violations: $63 for parking violations, $20 for failing to register or display sticker, and $10 for failing to report to campus patrol office after receiving ticket.

Nine students had all or part of their fines suspended and 17 students had all or part of their fines dismissed.

Seventeen students who failed to appear were automatically fined a total of $90. The fines assessed were $37 for parking violations, $45 for failing to register or display sticker, and $8 for failing to report to campus patrol after receiving a ticket.

Hartman to Give Paper To Mining Eng Society

Howard L. Hartman, professor and head of the Department of Mining, will present a paper entitled "Fundamental Studies of Percussion Drilling" before the general mining session of the Society of Mining Engineers of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

The meeting will be held Thursday in New York City.

New Moniker For Ancient Women's Bldg.

The current name-changing-of-campus-landmarks craze, apparently aimed at the student who prides himself on his thorough knowledge of University buildings, will hit Women's Building when it becomes the Graduate Residence Hall next semester.

The old hall with the new name will be used to house unmarried graduate students beginning with the fall semester, and will be the University's first experiment in community living.

A semblance of the long-lamented ratio will be maintained in the new graduate building, with 45 unmarried men in the east wing of the hall and 34 unmarried women in the west wing. Each of the two wings will have separate entrances and lounge facilities, with a central entrance and lounge to be used by all the occupants.

Woman's Building was the first residence hall at the University, although students had lived in Old Main before the hall was built. The building, originally called the Ladies' Cottage, was first used in 1889, and a new wing was added in 1909.

After the establishment of Home Economics as a department in 1907, work in that field was conducted in the basement of Woman's Building. A part of the Psychology Clinic is presently housed in the basement.

The University catalogue of 1889-90 said that young women "not living at their own homes or at the homes of family friends reside in a cottage, which has just been erected for their use. This cottage furnishes a most attractive and refined home with kindly and healthful surroundings, under the direction of a competent Lady Principal."

Drama Review--

It was with extreme pleasure that we watched Jack Timmis in the role of Victor.

We were embarrassed for him in "My Three Angels"; displeased with him in "Blood Wedding"; mildly impressed with his job in "Jim Dandy"; and struck with admiration at his acting in "Carnival of Thieves."

This record of decided improvements culminated in a skillful performance Friday night.

Victor is a self-adjudged "man of the world," on the exterior, and a self-fancied lover, the brutal kind. But deep inside he is capable of love, and does find a pitiable love in Mordeen—pitiable because of the desperate situation it places him in.

J. P. Froelich's lighting effects—especially in the first act—lent an extra touch to the drama, a much-welcomed one.

Mark Wallace's directing was equal to Steinbeck's demands. A play so frank and so devoid of "inner meaning" as this one is, gives Wallace a chance to exploit its purely dramatic and characterization aspects.

De Kooning's Art Exhibited in HUB

The work of Willem de Kooning, contemporary artist, is included in the collection of more than 30 paintings assembled for the new Inland Steel Building recently completed in Chicago.

De Kooning is represented with a large canvas, "Time of the Fire," in the exhibition of contemporary art that will continue through Feb. 24 in the gallery of the Hetzel Union Building.

Dr. Bainton is Titus Street Professor of Ecclesiastical history at the Divinity School and associate fellow of Jonathan Edwards College at Yale.

Speaking on "Chosen People," Dr. Bainton cited Biblical proof that both Jews and Christians are the chosen people of God.

He said:

"The Jews have been chosen to bear witness to the religious truth of monotheism." Due to their adamant stand they have survived and suffered through the ages. They have stood firm in their belief that God is one, not of man, and a merciful and just God.

He described the Christians also as a chosen people who have "born loyal and suffering testimony to faith in one merciful and just God, and adding belief in one Lord, Jesus Christ"

He termed the tragic part of the concept a trial of religious intolerance and cruel fanaticism to further the idea of a chosen people.

History reveals, he said, that in the line of persecution, "what the Jews didn't do, the Christians did."

Turning to our generation, he said the "concept of a chosen people has become secular and signifies the American nation."

He defined Americans as chosen people, not by virtue of their superiority, but because of "their situation at a particular juncture of history" and "their powerful natural and technological resources."

We can stand firm today in a world of insecurity he said, because of our inheritance of the Jewish-Christian religion. He gave a the reason for this strength the teachings of both faiths about the end of man. It is not found in the "endless enduring of history, but in the faith that God omnipotent reigneth," he said.

Sparks Exhibit Honors Tschan

A memorial exhibit honoring the late Dr. Joseph F. Tschan has been arranged in the lobby of Sparks.

The exhibit includes publications and books by Tschan, items depicting his role in the life of the State College community and other materials.

Tschan served on the history staff from 1925 until his retirement as professor emeritus of European history on June 30, 1946. He died July 24, 1957, and a memorial book fund in his memory has been started through the Penn State Foundation.

Minneman to Lead Vesper Services

Charles E. Minneman, assistant University chaplain, will conduct vesper services at 4:30 p.m. today in the Eisenhower Chapel.

Minneman's theme for the services will be "The Lenten Imperative." Before coming to the University last November, Minneman served as co-director of the Lutheran Student Association at Yale University and as student pastor at the St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church in Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan.

Cold Spell Devours University's Steam

The University has s-s-s-steam heat, but it takes about 160,000 pounds of steam an hour to keep students warm in what has been termed the coldest winter in 50 years.

"Today was the worst day we've had in the last two weeks," T. Boyd Way, foreman of the University power plant, said yesterday.

This opinion no doubt was shared by students, who traveled across campus swathed in scarves, ear muffs, stocking hats and even one large fur hand muff.

To create the heat they "had to shovel more coal in the boilers" to the tune of about 180 tons yesterday.

On an average day, such as Jan. 28 only 135 tons of coal was needed to produce 110 pounds of steam an hour.

Coal is fed into five coal boilers manned by a 4000 kilowatt turbine that makes the steam which travels through a tunnel system to heat residence halls and other buildings. Then it comes back as water and is reused. It takes about a pound of water to make a pound of steam.

"We foresee no trouble anywhere," said Way. "In fact, most buildings on campus are overheated."

To keep radiators clicking 24 hours a day in the new women's halls and Boucke building, an oil boiler and a water economizer which preheats water to 330 degrees as compared to only 220 degrees last year have been added to the power plant.

New Eng Loan Fund Started

A loan fund to help upperclassmen in mechanical engineering has been established with a bequest of nearly $300,000 received from the estate of Charlotte Hanes Harding of Buffalo, N.Y.

The fund was established by Mrs. Harding in memory of her husband, the late Louis A. Harding, former head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering at the University.

Harding later served as commissioner of public works for Buffalo, N.Y., and became one of the leading authorities in the field of power plants, heating, ventilation and refrigeration.

The loan fund will be available to upperclassmen who were in the upper ten per cent of their class during their freshman year, who are of high character and who need financial help to enable them to continue their college work.

Ed Prof Will Conduct Math Class at Geneseo

Dr. Clyde G. Corle, associate professor of education, will conduct a 1-week workshop at the Geneseo State Teachers College, Geneseo, N.Y., on the teaching of elementary school mathematics.

He will be working with a group of Latin-American educators assigned to that college for special training.

Applications For WSGA Posts Open

Applications for Women's Student Government Association officers and senators may be obtained in the Dean of Women's office until March 1.

Nominees must have a 2.5 All-University average and no major judicial record. The primary elections will be held March 11 and the final elections March 13.

Requirements for the individual offices are:

President, sixth semester and at least one year on Senate; vice president, fourth semester standing; treasurer, second or third semester.

Senior senator, sixth semester; junior senator, fourth or fifth semester; sophomore senator, second or third semester; town senator, any semester but first.

The semester standings refer to the standing at the time of election.

Applicants will be screened by senate officers and members of the WSGA elections committee.

Women will vote in the dormitories where they eat. Town women will vote in McAllister Hall.

Spencer Reappointed Eng Committee Head

Theodore S. Spencer, professor of fuel technology, was reappointed as chairman of the combustion committee, coal division, Society of Mining Engineers, A.I.M.E. for 1958.

He previously served in this capacity in 1950 and 1957.
