

Terrace Room Annex Asked for Lion's Den

President Eric A. Walker has asked Food Service to open the Terrace Room as an annex to the Lion's Den to help alleviate the overcrowded conditions.

Robert C. Proffitt, acting director of Food Service, said the Terrace Room will be opened whenever the extra space is needed.

Other arrangements to alleviate the crowded conditions are also being made:

- Tables have been ordered for the HUB ballroom where vending machines are to be installed. Banquet tables have already been installed as a temporary measure.

- The west end of the Nittany dining hall, which has not been used since men moved from Pollock into Thompson Hall, will be made into a recreation area. Vending machines will be installed, and the dean of women's office has approved the area for women.

- A study is under way to see how the Waring Hall Snack Bar can be made more attractive to students. Proffitt admitted business has dropped off since women were moved from Thompson. He said he did not know at this time how much business had dropped off.

- The wait-for-a-date room—where few students ever waited for a date—has been removed from the Lion's Den and the seating capacity has been increased by about 40.

- Coatracks similar to those in the Waring Hall Snack Bar will be placed in the Lion's Den to open up more seats, the ones now covered by coats.

- A study will be made this summer to see how the seating capacity within the Lion's Den can be increased within the available space.

- Plans for future residence halls call for areas similar to the Waring Hall Snack Bar.

- An effort will be made to discourage playing of cards and studying in the Lion's Den. It is hoped that students wanting to play cards will do so in other parts of the building, especially the ball room when vending machines are installed.

The opening of the Terrace Room as an annex of the Lion's Den when not needed for its regular restaurant use was discussed last semester by the Hetzel Union Board, composed mainly of students.

A committee was appointed by the board to work out a plan with Proffitt for opening the Terrace Room. The committee consisted of John Morgan, president of the Association of Independent Men; Grace Antes, president of Panhellenic Council; William F. Fuller, HUB manager, and Edward Dubbs, editor of The Daily Collegian.

The committee met Thursday with Proffitt only to discover that Walker had already requested the action from Food Service.

Freshman Pledging To Begin at Noon

Formal fraternity pledging of freshmen will begin at noon today.

Pledging will be held for freshmen who have made a 2.2 average their first semester.

Harry Jones, chairman of the Interfraternity Council committee on rushing, said the number of freshmen eligible for pledging is low this year—about 35 percent of the class—because of the increase from 2.0 to 2.2 in required average.

Bernard Will Speak At Wooster Conference

Dr. Jessie R. Bernard, professor of sociology, has been invited to give the major address at the Ohio Conference on Family Relations on March 8 at Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio.

She also has been asked to give the E. C. Lindeman Lecture at the National Conference of Social Work in Chicago on May 14.

AS EASILY as water running off a duck's back, these coeds—(from left) Virginia Ottinger, Marjorie Gordon and Lois Harrington—have shed those unsightly scarves to toss their hair and turn to spring (?) activities.

Warmer Weather, Drizzle Bring Possibility of Flood

Slightly warmer weather accompanied by a drizzle forecast for this afternoon have increased the possibilities of floods throughout the state.

However, the drizzle is expected to turn to freezing rain by tonight, with lower temperatures expected.

The Nittany Lion, according to woodland sources, has reached his destination for a much-needed winter respite—a remote mountain tavern in the northern part of the state. Today's forecast of a 35 to 40-degree high warmed the Lion's heart as much as his celebration of Washington's birthday.

PhiKPsi Loses All Activity Rights Except Rushing

The Senate Subcommittee on Discipline has suspended all Phi Kappa Psi fraternity activities except rushing, in addition to placing the house on social probation until June.

The subcommittee accepted the recommendation by Interfraternity Council Board of Control for social probation and permanent removal from office of the president and vice president.

The committee did not act on a $150 fine imposed by the IFC board since it is in effect with board approval.

The suspension of charter activities will prohibit the fraternity from taking part in Spring Week, Greek Week, intramurals and other activities. Chapter officers may attend IFC meetings but may not participate or vote.

According to a statement from the dean of men's office, "The removal of probation will depend upon the submission and approval of a constructive pre-initiation program to the IFC Board of Control and the office of the dean of men."

The fraternity received the probation for violating the IFC pledge code by using practices "detrimental to the physical health of pledges and offensive to the basic principles of human dignity."

The fraternity was also ruled guilty of conducting "work week" activities outside of the house.

A member of the dean of men's staff said, "The Senate committee was considering closing the house altogether but decided against it, because the national fraternity expressed a desire to work constructively with the local chapter and also because the IFC board did not recommend this."

The spokesman said rushing privileges were allowed because "the dean of men's office wants the fraternity to recover from this as a stronger and better chapter."

Phi Kappa Psi was represented at the subcommittee meeting by Thomas Brown, president; John Soper, past president; Frederick L. Leuschner, faculty adviser; and John Henry Frizzell, founder and charter member who is chaplain emeritus of the University.

The dean of men's office yesterday received a telegram from the Phi Kappa Psi national office disapproving the activities for which the house has been placed on probation.

BA College Given Grant

The Department of Accounting and Business Statistics in the College of Business Administration has received a $1000 grant from the Price Waterhouse Foundation.

New Seating Plan Tabled By Cabinet

A move to reduce All-University Cabinet's voting membership from 24 to 18—by dropping one member and taking the voting power from five others—has been tabled for four weeks by Cabinet.

The tabled motion asked that the representative of the Board of Dramatics and Forensics be dropped from Cabinet, and that representatives of the Women's Recreation Association, the Athletic Association, and the Daily Collegian be made non-voting members.

The proposal, before it was tabled, was amended to restore voting power to representatives of the Panhellenic Council and Leonides, which had been included as non-voting members in the motion as originally presented.

The motion as amended includes Leonides and Panhel in the classification of Regulatory and Affiliated groups, which also includes Women's Student Government Association, the Interfraternity Council and the Association of Independent Men. The term "affiliated" was added to the classification in the amendment.

Robert Steele, All-University president, announced the following appointments:

Freshmen-Customs Board Co-Chairmen, John Nagy, Helen Skade; Orientation Week Co-Chairmen, Richard Friedman, Ruth Johnson; Administrative Committee on Orientation, Richard Friedman, Ruth Johnson; Cabinet Insurance Committee, Louis Wonderly, chairman, Edwin Henrie, Russell Connelly; Cabinet Committee on Academic Affairs, Phyllis Hodges, chairman; Secretariat, Committee, Aileen Feldman, Susan Vogler.
