

Committee to Study PhysEd for Vets

An All-University Cabinet recommendation calling for exemption from physical education for veterans was sent last night to the Senate Committee on Academic Standards.

Dr. Lawrence E. Fouraker, chairman of the Senate committee, said he cannot set a date yet for examination of the recommendation, but that his committee "will certainly consider it."

The recommendation—which was submitted by All-University secretary-treasurer Joseph Boehret and approved by Cabinet Thursday night—asks that all veterans who have served since April 26, 1947, except those serving under the Reserve Forces Act, be exempted from physical education.

The recommendation was originally brought to Cabinet by Boehret Jan. 9, but at that time some members of Cabinet asked that it be tabled until the word "veteran" was defined.

They said that as it read, the provision would include even those persons who served in the six-month program.

Cabinet on Thursday accepted the definition offered by Senior Class President Thomas Hollander, which exempted veterans serving under the Reserve Forces Act.

Other provisions of the recommendation are:

• Exempted veterans should be required to substitute an equivalent number of credits in place of physical education.

• Veterans electing not to take physical education in their first semester may schedule it in their following four.

• Those electing Physical Education 2 must continue in the basic physical education program.

Boehret, in his recommendation, said he felt most veterans were "mature enough, because of their age and experience," to decide whether they need the course. He also cited the fact that veterans have participated in a program of physical fitness in their service training and that a "significant number of students"—as shown in a survey—have expressed the desire that physical education be made elective for them.

Hopper has been serving as chairman of the Commission on Literature, Department of Worship and Arts, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. since 1953. He also has served as special lecturer for the Institute of Religious and Social Studies at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, as lecturer in Christian ethics at Garrett Biblical Institute and for three years was a member of the advisory council of the Department of Religion at Princeton University.

Concert Association Kills Future Series

Directors of the State College Concert Association unanimously decided not to schedule any programs for the 1958-59 academic year.

The action was taken regretfully, Mrs. Francis F. Forbes, president of the association, said, because of the inadequate support received last year.

The membership campaign last fall fell more than 300 short of the goal which is needed to assure the best possible series.

The University's Artists' Series made possible the series already scheduled by purchasing the remaining memberships for distribution on the same basis as those for their own series.

The State College Concert Association was organized as the State College Community Concerts in 1950 to help meet the needs of the community for musical programs by some of the finest concert artists and groups.

The establishment last fall of the University Artists' Series, sponsored in part by a student fee, as well as the annual series of the State College Choral Society, have helped to meet this need in the opinion of the directors. For each of the Artists' Series concerts, a limited number of tickets have been placed on sale for non-students.

While the association has decided to plan no programs for the 1958-59 academic year, the association will continue in existence with the present officers, which are, in addition to Mrs. Forbes, as president; Earl B. Stavelly, vice-president; Mrs. A. William Hajjar, secretary, and Edmund H. Umberger, treasurer.

The remaining two programs in the current series will be held as scheduled. They are Andres Segovia, Spanish-born guitarist, March 31; and the Roger Wagner Choral, April 8. The series this year also brought to the campus the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and Philippe Entremont, the French pianist.

Greek Sing Entries Due Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the last day fraternities and sororities may enter the IFC-Panhel Sing to be held April 14, 15 and 19.

Groups may register for the sing by sending an application to the IFC-Panhel Sing Committee, Box 2497, Haller Hall.

The Sing preliminaries will be held Monday and Tuesday, April 14 and 15, in Schwab Auditorium as the start of Greek Week. The finals will be held Saturday night, April 19.

Two new aids to Greek song-leaders will be provided this year by the Sing committee—a clinic for songleaders and a special book giving hints to leaders.

Separate clinics will be held March 12 for the fraternity and sorority songleaders.

Nancy Siftar, co-chairman of the Sing committee, said the clinic will be held to provide hints in leading the required songs. The song required for fraternities is "When Good Men Sing" and "Evening Reverie" is the required song for sororities.

A book, entitled "100 Things a High School Choir Should Know," has been recommended by the sing committee. Miss Siftar said the book contains non-technical suggestions on group songleading and is available downtown.
