

Boucher Takes Two Ski Events In Dual Meet

David Boucher, senior in mechanical engineering from State College, captured two ski events for the Outing Club against Swarthmore College Sunday, at the Outing Club's Boalsburg slopes.

In the men's downhill race, Boucher took first place, with Swarthmore's John Stickney second, followed by Bill Wild, Fred Donahoe and George Bliss (all from Penn State).

In the slalom race, Boucher, with a time of 41 seconds, once again won first place honors. Stickney was second, Penn State's Karin Maybach placed third, Karin's husband Gunther was fourth and Bill Wild was fifth.

Joe Wachtel, scheduled to lead off the downhill racing, fell and crashed into a tree on the upper part of the downhill trail. He was taken immediately to the University infirmary and treated for several broken ribs.

his successor, last night charged that "West's action of abandoning Lion Party immediately before the spring election means only one thing—that Lion and University parties are planning a joint undertaking for the spring elections."

"Although this may be denied," he said, "the facts speak for themselves." He accused West of "working hand in hand with University party leaders in planning their campaign for the spring elections."

West replied, "Lion party has not and does not intend to merger with the University party, nor is Lion party 'running' University party. However, since certain personnel of the Lion party are still interested in effective student government, they have decided to join University party for the spring elections. . . . All the people now in University party are interested in one goal—serving the students by better student government."

Groups associated with Lion party have failed twice in efforts to take control of the new University party.

West said he does not know if Lion party will reorganize in the fall. As to his status as clique chairman, West said he could not remain as clique chairman with no clique, but could not resign because there is none to resign from.

Defense Minister Duncan Sandys told the House of Commons the missiles will be kept separate from the nuclear warheads. That way, he said, there can be no risk of a nuclear explosion.

functioning. However, since there evidently is no need for the article, I see no reason to have it in the constitution and I will seek to have it deleted."

University party's executive committee met Sunday for the first time since the party was officially approved. D'Angelo appointed Wesley Holmes party treasurer and Arthur Bell publicity chairman. More appointments will be made later, he said.

D'Angelo told the executive committee members that Lion party had decided to withdraw from the spring elections. But he said:

"Lion party is not merging with University party. This I want to make clear. What we're fighting now is Campus party. Lion party is on our side, so to speak."

The seven groups of students who are student teaching will receive copies of The Daily Collegian for the rest of the semester.

Marilyn Marks, co-circulation manager of The Collegian, has arranged to send enough copies to all of the centers so that off-campus students will be able to keep up with University news.

David West, Lion clique chairman, attended the executive committee meeting. He said, "There's no room for three parties in the spring elections. Campus party has picked its slate in a meeting of The Secret Fifteen."

He said if both Lion and University parties would run candidates the vote would be split and Campus party would get the win.
