

Summer Positions Open to Students

By LYNN WARD

"Wanted: One college student to act as bell-hop in spacious mountain resort. Full use of pool, tennis courts and recreational facilities. Apply at . . ."

This may sound to some like "the" perfect way to spend the summer vacation while earning money for college expenses.

WH Council OK's Waring Conversion

West Halls Council has approved, with some amendments, a list of 22 recommendations for the conversion of Waring Lounge. A desirability survey taken by the conversion committee and compiled from information on questionnaires filled out by 260 residents did not draw definite conclusions. A petition, signed by 726 residents of the area, also was submitted to the West Halls Council office in Waring last night.

In effect, the petition objects to putting ping pong tables in the lounge and requests the lounge be maintained as a lounge. Jacob Hostetter, secretary of the Council, the only member available for comment last night, was not able to find the petition in the office and did not seem to know anything about it. "All I know is that it was some kind of a petition, but what it said I don't know," he said.

However, some of the group of five West Halls residents who circulated the petition were contacted and its contents and the number of signees verified.

Otto E. Mueller, director of housing; George Donovan, director of social and recreation activities, and William B. Crafts, assistant to the dean of men, who were on hand in an advisory and informational capacity, commended the Council on its fact finding and agreed the report seemed through and accurate, although, Mueller added, "There are still some things that will have to be applied to these."

Princeton Men--

(Continued from page four) for the most part they have been honest. Butz, the editor, said about this generation in the book's forward that "taken as a group, we have been told, they are smug, complacent, superficial, lacking in the capacity for idealism and characterized by a haunting, if unconscious sense of emptiness."

After the work was completed, Butz openly questioned this theory and implied that perhaps the pessimistic speculation is only a case of misunderstanding among peoples. He believes that the picture he shows of young men, taken as a whole, is an essentially hopeful one.

Applications for jobs similar to this are available in the Student Summer Employment office in the Placement Office in Old Main.

Students may apply for jobs in camps and resorts as counselors, waitresses, desk clerks, general handymen, bell-hops, and dishwashers. Representatives from the camps and resorts will interview students on campus from now until spring vacation.

The Summer Employment office has information available concerning dates of employment, salary ranges, specific duties, locations of camps and resorts, size and type.

Students may obtain this information and applications for jobs in the office. They will be notified when the representatives will come for interviews and will be notified by the camp or resort whether they are accepted for the job.

Students are asked to obtain information about the jobs in the camps or resorts before they interview, so as to have a working idea of the possibilities.

The Student Summer Employment office also has a list of students enrolled in the University now who have held positions at the various locations. Students may contact these persons to get general information about the jobs.

Acceptances or regrets for jobs applied for through the employment office should be made by the student directly to the camp or resort as soon as the student has decided whether or not he will take the job.
