

West Attempts New Start At Parleys With Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 7 (AP)—Current Western disarmament strategy is aimed primarily at getting the Soviet Union back into a new round of private East-West talks.

Western diplomats said that is the purpose of the proposed meetings of the 25-national UN Disarmament Commission and the Security Council later this month.

Church Group Wants Castro To Air Views

HAVANA, March 7 (AP)—The views of Fidel Castro, a shadowy figure since he took a rebel band to the mountains more than a year ago, will be sought by a Roman Catholic Church-appointed committee trying to restore order in Cuba.

The committee chairman, former Vice President Raul de Cardenas, announced that the group naturally wants to hear from Castro as well as from the leaders of opposition political parties.

He did not indicate whether there might be direct discussions with Castro, whose rebels are centered in the Sierra Maestra range in eastern Cuba.

The guerrillas are attacking government troops and spreading sabotage in an effort to overthrow Batista before the June 1 elections. The government is running former Premier Jose Rivero.

FBI Arrest McCollum

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The Justice Department tonight said Ben (Golden) McCollum, 49-year-old murderer and one of the FBI's most wanted fugitives, has been arrested at Indianapolis, Ind.

Authoritative sources said that the two meetings, if held, would be purely procedural.

The Western powers were reported to have in mind a Security Council resolution simply calling on all parties concerned to tackle the disarmament problem once more in private negotiations. There would be no mention of which countries would take part, subjects to be covered, or where or when the talks would be held.

Informed quarters said Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, U.S. disarmament negotiator, had outlined the Western strategy in detail to the Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev, and asked for his reaction.

Western diplomats do not expect the Soviet Union to drop its threat to boycott the Disarmament Commission, but they said that if the Russians really want private talks resumed they will agree to the Security Council plan.

The timing of the Western move is tied in with the Soviet campaign for a summit meeting this summer. Western diplomats say that, unless private disarmament talks can be resumed at a comparatively early date, the chances of a summit agreement on any phase of disarmament would be zero.

The main reason for wanting the Security Council to give its blessing to the private talks is to make it clear that the UN is not being bypassed.

If the Soviet Union refuses to go along with the plan, the West will have to review the whole problem. Western delegates say there is little point to calling for new talks unless there is some prospect of Soviet cooperation.

Ike Claims Red Note Is 'Propaganda'

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—President Dwight D. Eisenhower was reported today to regard Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's new letter as a propaganda document which fails to ease the East-West deadlock on terms of a summit meeting.

The President reviewed a 16-page translation of the latest Kremlin message as top aides predicted it would be rejected swiftly and emphatically.

They denounced Bulganin's proposals, made public by Moscow today, as a rehash of previously rejected points clearly aimed at propaganda instead of serious negotiation.

Bulganin's goal, they said, appeared to be to picture the United States as sternly and unreasonably spurning a Soviet offer to end the cold war.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, in leaving for a 14-day visit to the Far East, declined to comment. But he said the White House probably would make an initial reply soon.

Authorities who studied it said the nine proposals advanced by Bulganin were virtually a word-for-word reiteration of the seven the State Department turned down in a formal diplomatic note yesterday.

Some officials favored a cold answer by Eisenhower, notifying Bulganin not to bother writing again if he plans to adopt the same propaganda tone.

Kohler Axes UAW Offer to Arbitrate

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The United Auto Workers offered today to submit their four-year-old strike against the Kohler Co. to federal arbitration, but the company said no.

Lyman C. Conger, Kohler's general counsel, said that while the Wisconsin plumbing fixtures firm is willing to listen to the advice of mediators it couldn't allow any outsider to write the terms of its labor contract.

Outsiders might be a lot smarter than Kohler executives, Conger told the Senate Rackets Committee, but "they couldn't have too much knowledge about making bathtubs."

The Senate group is investigating violence and vandalism around the Kohler plant at Kohler, Wis., and attempting to fix responsibility for it.

The offer to arbitrate came from the UAW's secretary-treasurer, Emil Mazey. He told the senators the company had rejected arbitration offers in the past but the UAW hoped it would take a new look at the situation.

Mazey suggested the committee as an arbitration board, or some other federal agency.

Conger made it plain Kohler would not accept compulsory, binding arbitration on the terms of a contract. The issues in the long and bitter strike involve wages, working conditions and the rehiring of strikers. The Kohler plant was shut down during the first 54 days of the strike but has been operating since then.

Jury Widens FCC Inquest

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—A federal grand jury delving into the conduct of Richard A. Mack as a Federal Communications Commission member was reported today to have broadened its inquiry to other FCC matters.

It was learned that a group of witnesses not associated with the Mack investigation have been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury next week.

Papers filed in the U.S. District Court by the Justice Department describe the reason for the whole investigation in general terms, without naming any government agency or individual. The papers say the Justice Department "is informed that various persons, companies, corporations and firms to the department have violated federal laws by 'giving money and things of value to officers and employees of persons acting for and in behalf' of the government."
